

82 PACKAGES OF SYMPATHY

By MARY NEISWENDER
The Vietnam war has its pro-faction and its anti-faction, but the Vietnam orphans stir only one sentiment — sympathy.
And the sympathy stirred in the hearts of students of a small Long Beach parochial school has produced results — 82 packages of clothing sent to the Vietnam village of My Tho.
But the humane actions of the children to help their own kind in a land ravaged by war has brought further results — others are, now planning to join in the drive.

The initial plea came from a chaplain in the Ninth Infantry Division in Dong Tam, Vietnam. His letters to his Long Beach friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Gunsalus of 3527 Volk Ave., were shown to school children and the response — "they took the clothing off their own backs" — began.
The letters were tragic: Fifteen orphans from My Tho came to Dong Tam — three miles away — to put on a show for the servicemen.
"They sang and danced beautifully," the chaplain,

Capt. Hermann Brinkman, wrote, "and after the production we had a quick barbecue (it was getting late) then piled the children onto a truck to return to My Tho. I called the military police to provide an escort."
"The truck was scarcely 500 yards down the road when there was a fierce explosion... the Viet Cong had mined the truck full of orphans. A battle ensued, the VC were put to rout but... the truck was a mass of bleeding mangled children.

"When I entered the hospital... there were my orphans... stunned and bleeding. They looked so different without the usual bright smiles with which they always greeted me. There was one girl with most of her left hand blown off... another with her back peppered with shrapnel... a six-year-old bleeding from arms and legs... too terrified to cry.
"Another room I was afraid to enter... I have seen dozens of soldiers with every possible injury

For Gifted People

Q. We're thinking of opening a small gift shop but don't know much about such a business operation. Can you tell us if there is a guide or book on the subject? Mrs. A.V., Long Beach.

A. You'll find everything on selling pottery to petunias in the series of booklets published by the Small Business Administration of the U.S. government. The entire series is available at the Long Beach Public Library, Pacific Avenue and Ocean Boulevard, or can be purchased from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. Also available in the library's science and technology department are several books on setting up a self-owned business, such as Pearce Kelley's "How to Organize and Operate a Small Business."

Swing and Rock

Q. I'm the manager of a teen-age band and we're looking for bookings. K.A., Long Beach.

Q. I belong to an alumni club of a Big 10 university. We're having a mixer and we'd like to find an inexpensive teen-age band that can play swing-era dance music. S.S., Long Beach.

A. The sound may be more Beatles than Benny Goodman but you'll have music at your mixer.

Tenting Tonight?

Q. Can ACTION LINE tell me where to get information on camp sites in California? C.A.C., Long Beach and others.

A. Yes "Guidebook to Camp Grounds," published by Rand McNally, gives a comprehensive list of campgrounds in the United States and Canada with maps and detailed information on facilities available and prices. It is $3.95 at most book stores. The National Park Service, 300 N. Los Angeles St., Los Angeles, issues a free brochure, "Camping in National Parks" which lists camping accommodations available in national parks. The California Division of Beaches and Parks, 14253 Sunset Blvd., Pacific Palisades 90272, has literature available on campsites in state parks. Suzanne Dudley, public information officer for the division, told ACTION LINE that as of this year, all campsites in state parks must be reserved in advance. Reservations for the months preceding May must be made 10 days in advance; reservations for the months following must be

Humphrey in Race With Vows of Unity, 'Peace Over Politics'

First Ballot Chance Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey leaped late but full of fight Saturday into the Democratic battle for the presidency, promising to put "peace over politics" in a campaign to unify his party and the country.

The 56-year-old heir apparent to the Johnson administration declared his candidacy to oppose Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, N.Y., and Eugene J. McCarthy, a fellow Minnesotan, for the nomination at a luncheon rally of an estimated 2,000 supporters in Shoreham Hotel.

Humphrey made no direct mention of his rivals in a speech broadcast nationwide and televised via communications satellite to western Europe. But he said 1968 was "not the year for frenzied or inflammatory rhetoric or for searching out and seeking scapegoats for our problems."

"IT IS A YEAR for common sense for the American people," he said. "I have been too close to the presidency to believe that the solutions are simple and the answers are easy."

"I intend to fight hard and clean for the nomination, but I do not intend to divide either my party or my nation."

Humphrey said "our most urgent requirement is the unity of our people."

"The time has come to express a new American

Vice President's Decision No Big Surprise to Rivals

By the Associated Press

The formal entry of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey into the race for the Democratic presidential nomination evoked these comments Saturday from leading political figures:

SEN. EUGENE J. MCCARTHY, campaigning for the Democratic presidential primary in Indiana: "It may have some slight bearing on the primaries, at least in Indiana, if there has been identification with one or another of the candidates. But other than that I don't think it changed the picture very much."

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE RICHARD NIXON, a former vice president, relaxing in Florida: "I welcome Vice President Humphrey into the presidential race. He has been an eloquent spokesman for the Johnson administration. He is a man of great ability, and I look forward to his constructive participation in the nation's processes of choice and decision this year. Beyond this, I would, of course, be the first to say that service as vice president is an excellent preparation for the presidency."

FORMER GOV. GEORGE WALLACE of Alabama, campaigning in Texas as a third-party candidate: "There may be some professional leaders of other parties who may support him openly, but the leaders of parties are just a few of address at the University of Colorado: "I'm hardly overwhelmed with surprise. This makes no change in the position of the Republican party. Any of that crowd of Democrats would lead us down the road to statism."

CAT SHOT Invades Lion Den, Mauled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 59-year-old man waving a wine bottle climbed into a lion den Saturday and was promptly attacked by a roaring 450-pounder. He was seriously injured before the lion was killed.

"Come here, come here," shouted Amon Watson of Milpitas, as he crawled over a three-foot fence. Then he either fell or jumped down the steep side of a 25-foot deep moat, empty of water.

TOMMY, a five-year-old, sprang into the moat from his rock gratio above.

"The cat was crouching over him and holding his throat," said Don Farrington, 42, a Fleishhacker Zoo keeper who arrived two minutes later. "I was desperately afraid to shoot for fear of hitting the man."

As a thousand children and other Saturday spectators watched, Farrington yelled at Tommy's mate, Virginia, to get away. She threatened ferociously, but retired into a tunnel.

Farrington, who said it is difficult for a keeper to slay an animal, then killed Tommy with one shot in the head. The shot was fired from 40 feet from a 30-06 rifle at just the right angle.

"These cats are horrible in captivity," said Farrington. "Tommy was born here and has never learned to fear a man. He would attack any stranger who enters his cage."

WATSON LAY at the moat's bottom with a deep gash under his rib cage, a fractured leg and lacerations all over his body.

"He was very, very drunk," said Richard Guardino, an ambulance attendant. "That's probably the reason he survived. He wanted to get up and leave."

DOBRITCH BACK IN CIRCUS ACT

By GEORGE LAINE and FRANK ANDERSON

It wasn't on the program, but the United Performers Circus at Long Beach Arena had a fourth ring Saturday night, when impresario Al Dobritch flew back from Las Vegas to reclaim the show from the circus artists who say they now own it.

Dobritch, already on the "We-Do-Not-Patronize" list of the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO — locally and nationally — became embroiled in highly-charged verbal acrobatics with his one-time employees and arena manager Win Hanssen and Stan Mack, box office treasurer.

As the acts tuned up for the evening performance, fourth-ring dialogue surpassed anything heard in the other three.

DOBRITCH, sometime operator of the Dobritch International Circus, argued that he had not canceled out his show on Friday after a hassle over union problems and finances with

QUICK NOW, CHECK YOUR TIMEPIECE

If you're one of the irresponsible few who failed to set your clock ahead an hour Saturday night, run — don't walk — to your nearest timepiece and make the change now.

If you don't, the consequences could be a little embarrassing.

You could for instance, arrive an hour late at the church this morning. Or, perhaps, you'd arrive at Long Beach Arena at 3:30 p.m. today, instead of the 2:30 p.m. starting time for the circus.

Don't worry about that hour. You'll get it back the last weekend in October.

CITY NEVER HAD MAJOR RACIAL UNREST

Expect Short, Cool Summer in Long Beach

By JIM GOODRICH
(First in a series)

An assassin's bullet — resounding through the Memphis night — triggered riots in 100-odd U.S. cities. Long Beach was an exception.

Calm prevailed in local streets while rioters burned and looted urban centers elsewhere around the nation after the tragic April 4 assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Here the word circulated among the street-corner hotheads was "cool it."

Here nobody looted a store, nobody hurled a Molotov cocktail, nobody fell victim to a policeman's bullet.

Here blacks took the initiative to keep the peace before police found a need to deploy armed contingents in the ghetto.

BLACKS PATROLED the streets in cars, went from door to door, and manned telephones — all to spread the message for people to avert rioting.

When the crisis had subsided, a record was intact: Long Beach never has known a major racial disturbance.

Because of its history, city authorities feel confident about the future for this community of 380,366 with a minority population of 30,929, including approximately 16,000 Negroes.

Now, as Police Chief William J. Mooney and his staff weigh the potential for riots in the city, the expectation is:

"The summer won't be long or hot."

From the police command post at Broadway and Chestnut Avenue there is confidence that Long Beach can get through the summer unscarred by such violence as cities have been warned against in the report of the President's National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders.

"Rumors about future trouble are circulated," said

Mooney, "but we do not expect anything like a riot."

A MILITANT is "not so sure" the summer will be peaceful. He figures some unforeseen incident could trigger racial trouble here.

Mooney, however, bases his view on a protracted study of the situation.

"We do not find tensions for riots in Long Beach," declared the chief.

One reason for the tran-

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Amelia Earhart Kin Dies in Shack Fire

Combined News Services

ANN EARTHART, 85, stepmother of missing aviatrix Amelia Earhart, died Saturday when the small wooden shack in which she lived in Los Angeles was engulfed by flames.

Fire officials said the 20x20-foot shack was located on less than an acre of land once owned by the flyer in the Eagle Rock district. The property, they said, is believed to be administered by a married sister of the aviation pioneer now living in New Jersey.

Investigators said the blaze was thought to have been caused by a faulty unvented gas heater, and they believed Mrs. Earhart suffocated.

Her German shepherd dog survived the fire.

Amelia Earhart, the first woman to fly solo across the Atlantic Ocean, disappeared July 2, 1937, while flying over the South Pacific.

ROYAL VISIT

King Olav V of Norway successfully flew a simulated space rendezvous mission Saturday to climax a three-hour tour of America's spaceport at Cape Kennedy.

The 64-year-old monarch climbed into a training device that resembles the lunar module which two astronauts will ride to the surface of the moon.

Watching a display on a screen and operating a control stick, the king maneuvered the device to a simulated linkup with an Apollo spacecraft.

At the end of the day, the Norwegian party departed on a U.S. government jet for New Orleans, next stop on a 17-day visit to the United States.

QUEEN'S COTTAGE

Queen Elizabeth II is moving from the spacious splendors of Buckingham Palace to a six-room cottage in Norfolk. The cottage, on the royal Sandringham estate, is being used as an economy measure because it costs too much to open up the 365-room mansion, Sandringham House for a short stay.

AMONG THOSE...

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy attended the annual meeting of the Advisory Committee of the Institute of Politics of the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University. Also at the meeting Friday was Lord Harlech, who as David Ormsby-Gore was the ambassador of Great Britain to the United States when Kennedy was President.

The pair flew in from New York for the meeting and left at its end, apparently to return to New York.

ELEVATED

Winton M. Blount of Montgomery, Ala., head of a construction firm, was named Saturday the new president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Blount, 47, is president and chairman of the board of Blount Brothers Corp., which has built projects ranging from industrial plants to missile defense and space installations.

Blount was elected to a one-year term by the chamber's board of directors last February and will take office at the annual meeting here this week. He succeeds Allen Shivers, Austin, Tex., businessman and former governor of Texas. Shivers was named chairman of the chamber board.

DEEP DIVE

Cmdr. Lionel Crabb, the British frogman who disappeared near a Soviet warship during Nikita S. Khrushchev's visit in 1956, is alive and serving in the Soviet navy, a book published today says. It is written by J. Bernard Hutton, a Czech-born journalist now living in Britain, who wrote a similar book in 1960 — contending Crabb was captured by the Russians and brainwashed. Crabb, a British wartime underwater hero, vanished at Portsmouth while diving near the Soviet cruiser which took Khrushchev and Marshal Nikolai Bulganin to Britain.

DIRE NEED?

Harold Krents, 23, a law student, has been reclassified 1A by his Mt. Vernon, N.Y., draft board. Krents has been blind all his life.

The Harvard Law School student said Saturday his parents notified him that his 2S student deferment has been canceled and that he has been given 30 days to appeal.

"I've written my draft board every year and told them I was blind, and therefore should be classified 4-F, but every year they notify me I'm classified 2S," he said.

Krents, who went through regular schools, including Harvard undergraduate school, with the aid of fellow students who could see, said, "All I can say is we must be losing the war."

CUPID IN VIET

Bitter street fighting was at its height in the Viet Cong's Tet offensive in January when badly wounded Capt. Lawrence Dring and a sergeant bashed in the door of a house in Pleiku. That's when Dring met the girl he married Saturday.

"I'm afraid we weren't very polite," Dring recalls. "We kicked out the door, and there was Rebecca. I thought 'What's a nice girl like you doin' in a place like this.'"

Miss Rebecca Gould, a civilian nurse, was huddled in the house with other personnel of the church-sponsored Vietnam Christian Service while fighting raged around them. She helped save Dring's life as she and a doctor treated his severe wound.

The Green Beret captain and the nurse were married by her father, Rev. Theodore Gould, in his Grace Methodist church at Altoona, Pa.

"You might say we saved each other's lives," Rebecca said. "If it hadn't been for Larry and his company, we probably would have all been six feet under by now."

HIGH BID

Ford Motor Co. says it paid Semon Knudsen, a former vice president of General Motors Corp., about 750,000 to become its president. In a proxy statement, Ford said it gave Knudsen 15,000 shares of its stock, worth about $750,000 on March 19. In addition, the statement said, Knudsen got a five-year contract that includes a salary of not less than $250,000 a year and stock options on 75,000 shares of Ford common stock at $49.625 a share.

Humphrey Given 1st Ballot Chance

patriotism," he said. "... to carry forth the unfinished and peaceful American revolution."

"I shall, as the president has, observe the absolute priority of peace over politics," he said.

MAKING HIS expected announcement 27 days after President Johnson eliminated himself as a candidate for re-election, the vice president began his fight too late to meet Kennedy and McCarthy head-on in the remaining state presidential primaries. The deadlines for entry already have passed.

His task is to seek support among uncommitted or favorite son delegations to the Democratic National Convention at Chicago next August. It will take a majority of 1,312 delegate votes to win the nomination.

A United Press International survey of Democratic party leaders across the country indicated that Humphrey has greater support among Democratic voters than Kennedy or McCarthy.

Of reports from 30 states, the party's rank and file favored Humphrey in 13, Kennedy in three and McCarthy in none. The others were split among the contenders, undecided or unwilling to commit themselves.

IF THIS WERE translated into delegate votes, Humphrey would have 582 votes if the convention balloting were held Saturday.

The poll also indicated that if Humphrey were the nominee, Democratic spokesmen in 16 states with 211 electoral votes believe Humphrey could beat Richard M. Nixon, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York or Gov. Ronald Reagan of California in the November balloting. It takes 270 electoral votes to elect a president.

One of Humphrey's leading managers, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said there were "strong indications" the vice president was leading his two chief rivals that "there is a fair chance he could be nominated on the first ballot."

Tears welled in Humphrey's eyes and his voice quavered as he began his second quest for the presidency eight years after he was buried in the primaries by John F. Kennedy's money and superior organization.

HUMPHREY'S announcement was no surprise, but the guests greeted it with cheers and applause.

The vice president responded with a broad grin, a "V for Victory" sign and a shout of "Let's go!"

In his somber speech, Humphrey praised Johnson for acting "bravely and beyond all personal interest to bring unity to America and peace to Southeast Asia."

"We do not yet know the outcome of the President's initiative for peace in Asia," he said. "We are hopeful, but without illusion. Only time and events will give the answer."

ALTHOUGH Johnson has not publicly endorsed anyone as his successor, Humphrey can presume to have the President's support, a powerful factor with state and local Democratic leaders that Humphrey lacked in 1960.

Johnson had no comment Saturday on Humphrey's announcement.

John M. Bailey, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, issued a statement reaffirming his neutrality and saying the party now has "three very able candidates."

But the vice president gained additional endorsements in Congress from Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., and Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield maintained his position of "non-involvement." And Sen. George McGovern, D-S. D., who helped John F. Kennedy win the presidency in 1960, said he would be neutral until the convention.

IN THE SOUTH where he once was anathema, Democratic leaders now look on Humphrey at least as the lesser of three evils.

The vice president can be expected to court the liberals of Americans for Democratic action, of which he was a founding member, to try to regain favor he has lost because of the administration's policy in Vietnam.

Humphrey's Decision Hardly a Bombshell

the people who vote in each state. ... I don't think an announcement that Mr. Humphrey is running would affect my candidacy in Texas or anywhere else."

SEN. ROBERT F. KENNEDY, D-N.Y., was reported determined to avoid direct attacks on his new rival for the nomination. He said in North Platte, Neb., where he was campaigning, that he regrets Humphrey's "unwillingness at this time to enter primary contests for I believe that the vote should help determine the choice the nation is to have in November."

In at White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson spent Saturday at the White House after adverse weather conditions forced cancellation of his scheduled trip to Kentucky for dedication of a flood control dam.

There was no confirmation from White House sources, but indications were he watched television as Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

CANCER VICTIM RETURNS FROM VOICELESS WORLD

By EARL GRISWOLD

When Rudy Gladieux's voice turned hoarse for a couple of days, he figured it was a flareup of the laryngitis he had experienced "way back in his World War I doughboy days.

But his wife, Edythe, was concerned.

And exasperated.

She was standing in the living room of their home at 443 South St., and Gladieux was speaking to her from the kitchen.

"His voice was hoarse, and he sounded like he was mumbling," she said. She marched into the kitchen and suggested — in an insistent voice — that he go to the doctor to get it cleared up.

Rudy went.

That was seven years ago. And the experience put Gladieux in a whole new voiceless world that he learned to face and to conquer.

GLADIEUX, then 65 and already retired for four years from his career as a tool and die maker, was a victim of cancer.

Surgeons at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital performed a laryngectomy (removal of the larynx, or voice box).

RUDY GLADIEUX
Heeded Wife

Before the operation, doctors carefully explained to Gladieux what was ahead for him. In his new postoperative world, he would breathe through a permanent hole in his throat. And he would have to learn to speak by taking a breath and then modulating the bursts of air as he exhaled.

Learning to speak could take long, frustrating and mentally agonizing months of effort and persistence.

Home from the hospital, Gladieux was aided in adjusting to a suddenly-voiceless life by his determined and optimistic wife, Edythe, and their two children, Cheryl, then 12, and Keith, then 10.

In the first week, Gladieux tried writing notes.

The Cancer Crusade, conducted throughout the month of April, seeks to raise $147,000 in the Long Beach area. The American Cancer Society uses its funds for treatment and research, and for a widespread educational program promoting early detection and treatment of cancer.

to maintain his side of the communications with his wife and children.

CHERYL RECALLS that first week as one of frustration for the father trying to talk to his two pre-teen children.

"He'd get excited and scribble faster," she said. "Then he'd try to talk. Soon it was easier to understand what he was trying to say than it was to decipher his writing."

At the end of the first week, Cheryl and her mother insist, Gladieux was beginning to be understood by the children, who would interpret what he was saying for their mother.

"He learned to speak much sooner than we had ever hoped," Mrs. Gladieux said.

"Today he can speak to you," she said, looking at a reporter. "You have no trouble understanding him. And he can talk on the telephone just as well — even better."

Through his experiences, Gladieux has gained great respect and an affection for the VA Hospital and for the American Cancer Society.

"PEOPLE shouldn't fool around when they notice something different or unusual physically," he said. "If I hadn't gone to the doctors when I did, the cancer could have spread all through my system. And I've seen some of the men who ignored the changes in their voices. It was too late. And their operations were much worse than just taking out their voice box . . .

"I was lucky my wife was so insistent."

Hopes Dim in Phone Walkout

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said Saturday that prospects for a settlement with the striking AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America have dimmed. He charged that the union kept adding to its demands.

CWA President Joseph A. Beirne said he was "frankly amazed" by the charge and added, "The union has not added one cent to its demands."

Ben S. Gilmer, head of AT&T, parent firm to the Bell System whose manufacturing arm, Western Electric Co., was struck April 18, issued a statement saying:

"Prospects for a settlement . . . this weekend have dimmed. Representatives of Bell companies have repeatedly demonstrated flexibility in their readiness to consider any proposal that might lead to an early settlement within reasonable cost boundaries. The union continues to add to its demands."

U.S. Destroyer Transferred to Republic of Korea Navy

Another step was taken Saturday to strengthen the free world forces.

The Long Beach destroyer USS Halsey Powell was transferred to the Republic of Korea in a Pier E ceremony.

The transfer was part of a deal made in February when Special U.S. Envoy Cyrus Vance visited Seoul. Korean President Park was promised an additional $100 million in military aid to modernize the country's 600,000-man armed forces.

At the ceremony Rear Adm. Mason B. Freeman, commander, Cruiser - Destroyer force, Pacific Fleet said, "This is a great day in the 22nd year of the ROK Navy."

Capt. Bill Mackie, chief of staff, representing Rear Adm. Horace V. Bird, commander, Naval Base Los Angeles, authorized the transfer and presented the official delivery certificates to Dong Jo Kim, ambassador to the U.S.

"This ship will serve as a symbol of the promise of security in Asia," the ambassador said.

As the Halsey Powell sailors disembarked for the last time the Stars and Stripes were lowered and the ROK colors were hoisted. The USS Halsey Powell then became the ROKS Seoul.

The commanding officer, Capt. Pyong Song, ordered the first watch set and the Seoul was in business. She will remain in Long Beach two weeks before going to San Diego for further training.

The USS Halsey Powell, commissioned June 30, 1945, won nine battle stars for service in World War II and Korea.

The ship's colors will be sent to the Naval Museum in Washington.

Boy Dies of Bicycle Accident

An 8-year-old Placentia boy died in St. Jude's Hospital, Fullerton, at 1:15 p.m. Saturday of injuries suffered in an April 25 bicycle-auto accident near his home.

The victim, Rafael Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beck, 802 Cobb Ave., rode his bicycle from a driveway on McCormick Lane, south of Shadblun Ave., and into the path of an auto driven by Mrs. Mary K. Cole, 1238 Bryan St., Placentia, according to the California Highway Patrol. Mrs. Cole was not held.

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — The funeral of Walter F. Habenicht, 91, noted German-born violinist who died here Friday, will be held Monday. Habenicht moved here when he resigned from the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra in 1929. He was first assistant concert master at the time.

5 Children Slain, Teen-Ager Sought

MATTOON, Ill. (UPI) — At least five children were shot to death — each child shot once in the head — at their farm near Mattoon Saturday. Police searched for a teen-aged "visitor."

The bodies of the children, aged 4 to 12, were found around the family barn — three outside and two inside.

Police said the children were the only members of the William Cox family who were home at the time they were slain. There are six other brothers and sisters, plus the parents, in the family. Their whereabouts were not revealed.

"We know who we're looking for all right," a deputy said. He said the 17-year-old suspect had not lived in the Mattoon area long.

Mattoon police said they were searching for the suspect in the city, particularly near the Penn Central railroad tracks. Coles County and state police had "road-blocks up everywhere" and were maintaining radio silence in order to conceal their search plans, a deputy said.

Police said the children apparently were shot once in the head each with a small-caliber pistol, probably a .22.

Long Beach Children Aid South Vietnam Orphans

... but this was so different. On the table, an orphan girl lay dying. A large piece of shrapnel had entered her back just below the rib cage... her life could not be saved. She died four hours later.

"The Vietnamese do not keep their dead longer than a day. The following day I attended the funeral rites for Nguyen-Tre-Be Hai. She lay in a closed wooden pine box a few paraffin candles on top flickering in the breeze. Just hours before she had stood singing before an audience to make them happy...

"My heart is sick to write these lines... I suppose I should spare you all these terrible details... but if I do how will you ever realize what this war is all about? The Viet Cong did this deliberately. They saw that the children were raising the morale of the troops..."

A WEEK later, the chaplain wrote, the Viet Cong struck the orphans again.

"In the dead of the night they dropped seven mortars into the orphanage compound... three were injured. Thank God, none was killed."

Then, during the Viet Cong's Tet offensive, not only the orphanage — but the entire village — was destroyed.

"The hamlet of My Tho is protected by South Viet forces, but they were totally unprepared," the chaplain wrote, "and were overrun... when the VC encountered opposition by sniper fire from some buildings they would snatch up a child and hold the child as a shield in front of them. They burned many homes.

My Tho was a mass of flames for three days. It is less than five miles from here but we could not help... Beautiful My Tho is now a shambles... 2000 people are seriously wounded... 3000 more are refugees without homes... I cannot imagine how many have been killed...

As for the orphanage, the chaplain wrote, "the VC aimed a rocket into the front iron gate, blowing it down..."

"In the initial blast Sister Joseph of Jesus, the sister who was in the truck that was mined and suffered a broken arm, was killed... the VC then ran to the second story of the orphanage and fired sniper fire from the windows..."

Some of the children, he reported, were injured, but none was killed.

HE ENDED his letter with a request... "not just for the orphans, this time but for thousands of refugees... if you have anything in your closets that you do not need, please send it so that I can give it to these people who have lost everything..."

The children from the St. Maria Goretti School cleaned out their closets, and with the help of the school's Mother's Club, who provided the postage, sent off 82 five-pound packages of clothing.

This week they saw their clothing again — in pictures taken of the orphans by the chaplain.

With the pictures came a note which said he was passing the boxes of clothing out to the refugees and orphans as fast as they come in.

"What beautiful clothing," he wrote. "I was just so surprised to see so many boxes... I am the most popular guy around when I come in with this great stuff."

"How can I ever thank you enough?"

Said one eight-year-old Goretti student as she eyed an eight-year-old Vietnamese youngster in her dress:

"He doesn't have to thank us... that dress looks better on her than it did on me, anyway."

U.S. Bombers Pummel No. Viet Supply Lines

SAIGON (UPI) — American B52 bombers made seven blockbuster strikes against terminal points of the Ho Chi Minh Trail Saturday to stop an unprecedented flow of enemy war supplies into South Vietnam in defiance of President Johnson's peace efforts.

The eight-engine strato-fortresses teamed with record waves of sleek American fighter-bombers to blast traffic and troops using the key lifeline for Communist buildups in the south.

U.S. spokesmen Sunday said six of the raids were against Communist troop concentrations southwest of Hue and Da Nang, two key marshalling points for North Vietnamese men and supplies using the infiltration path that winds through Laos.

The seventh hit was in the Shau Valley, the trail's northern entry point from Laos into South Vietnam.

American intelligence sources reported the increased supply traffic Saturday and said American warplanes were meeting the challenge with a record number of missions in nominally neutral Laos.

They said pilots reported "hundreds" of secondary explosions in the stepped-up attacks in Laos, indicating hits on fuel and ammunition.

ACROSS NATION Marches Protest Vietnam, Racism

Associated Press

Demonstrations and Loyalty Day parades across the nation Saturday climaxed a two-day, nationwide protest against the Vietnam war and racism. The biggest demonstration was in New York City.

The Loyalty Day marches, annual events in many places, were sponsored by veterans' groups.

In New York City, thousands of persons marched to a Central Park "stop the war" rally to hear speakers including Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. and Mayor John V. Lindsay. Sponsors of the antiwar rally said they expected 100,000 to attend; newsmen estimated the crowd in Sheep Meadow at 40,000.

THE ANNUAL Loyalty Day parade, which sponsors said drew 8,000 marchers and which newsmen said drew 5,000, broke up about an hour before the Central Park rally began and ended about 10 blocks south of the Park. The parade was a memorial to the late Francis Cardinal Spellman.

There was no major confrontation between the protesters and the paraders. Police prevented one possible clash when they stopped a radical peace group of about 400 from staging an "anti-imperialist" march up Fifth Avenue along a route that might have crossed the Loyalty Day parade. In addition, fist fights broke out in the park between a small group of youngsters carrying American flags and another group carrying Viet Cong flags.

Nearly 100 had been arrested by 3:30 p.m.

Mrs. King spoke to the crowd from what she said were notes prepared by her late husband, who had been scheduled to address the rally.

Mrs. King read "Ten Commandments on Vietnam" which she said were written by her late husband. They included:

"Thou shalt not believe in a military victory. Thou shalt not believe in a political victory. Thou shalt not kill."

Similar demonstrations were scattered around the country.

POLICE, CITY FATHERS SEE NO RACIAL UNREST

quility, as Mooney observes it: "No rabble rouser like Stokely Carmichael or H. Rap Brown is around to inflame racial feelings."

Elsewhere in urban America recent experiences cloud prospects for civil order.

Last summer, 150 cities erupted with social violence — "from minor disturbances to major outbreaks," as the Kerner commission reported them.

Worst-hit city was Detroit, where a police raid on a ghetto after-hour spot on July 22 touched off a conflagration. Seven days of rioting — punctuated by widespread looting and pitched street battles between National Guardsmen and snipers — left 43 dead and damage to business stock, private furnishings and buildings totaling about $54 million.

NOTHING SO frightening or disruptive of social order had ever happened before in a U.S. city.

Now political leaders in every urban community try to assess their ghetto problems by the dark experience of the Michigan metropolis.

"Long Beach is no Detroit," is a conclusion the city's political leaders make, when they consider conditions for the 12,000 Negroes in the local ghetto. City Manager John R. Mansell believes the climate is good for civil order in Long Beach this summer.

Here, he implied, people find less of the racial division that plagues other cities, less of the frustration, squalor and despair that contribute to riots.

"People of different races get along very well in Long Beach," said Mansell, who scoffs at talk about impending riots.

HE SAID there is "too much talk about what is going to happen in the streets this summer."

The implication made is that the public needs to hear more about conditions that make riots unlikely in the minority community.

Though some in the ghetto might disagree, the official viewpoint voiced by Mansell and others in city government is that low-income and poverty people in Long Beach live better than their urban counterparts across the U.S.

According to officialdom, more than normal opportunities exist here for the masses to gain employment, decent housing and needed welfare assistance; also to find quality schools for their children.

CONSIDERED significant too as a condition that helps to prevent riots is what the political leadership refers to as the "good relations" between the ghetto and the police department.

Long Beach's ghetto is defined roughly as the area bordered by 10th and Hill Streets on the south and north and Atlantic and Walnut Avenues on the west and east.

"Long Beach started three years ago to improve police relations and conduct in the minority community," Chief Mooney recalled.

He alluded to the department's police-community relations division, established last year, as evidence that law enforcers want a rapport with ghetto residents.

An improved police image is one way to decrease the potential for disorder in the ghetto, the Kerner commission advised.

"We had implemented our community relations program well ahead of the commission's recommendation," Mooney noted.

Reaction from the ghetto is mixed.

Declared a black power advocate: "Police are police anywhere you find them. Negroes have got to assume decision-making roles in law enforcement before they'll get fair treatment from policemen."

A partial answer to this problem might be establishment of "little city hall" in the ghetto to deal with ghetto problems and crimes. Some support for the idea was expressed in the Kerner commission's report.

A CIVIL RIGHTS functionary is less disturbed over law enforcement than his militant counterpart.

"Police conduct in Long Beach is far better for minorities than it is in other cities in this area," said Dr. Horace Rains, a ghetto-based physician and former president of the local NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People).

"Negroes and Mexican-Americans don't find the harassment from police here that they complain about in a city like Los Angeles, for example," he observed.

Rains deduced that the difference may be due to orientation at the top of the police hierarchy.

"Chief Mooney is more concerned than most police chiefs that policemen act in a professional manner in the minority community," Rains concluded, adding:

"The chief proved that he wants a better police image in the ghetto when he established the police-community relations division in his department."

BEFORE POLICE opened the new channel for communicating with the people the city's Human Relations Committee alone was assigned to keep up a formal dialogue between the majority and minority communities in Long Beach.

HRC was established six years ago to help reduce racial tensions in the city.

Recommendations have been made by the committee for city programs to end housing discrimination, biased practices in employment and abusive police methods.

Community seminars, where law enforcement officers would meet with neighborhood leaders, was one of the committee's suggestions.

A Negro, Joseph T. Brooks, chaired the committee until he resigned to accept a position this year in Washington, D.C.

He was replaced on the committee by Mrs. Zelma Lipscomb, president of the Long Beach Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

CITY HALL is pleased with the performance of HRC.

Commented City Manager Mansell: "The Human Relations Committee has done a fine job of making things better between the

Cyclist Hits Telephone Pole, Dies

A motorcyclist from Paramount was killed in Norwalk Saturday evening when he brushed against a parked car, lost control of his cycle and was thrown against a telephone pole.

William Lee Brown, 28, of 4320 San Luis St., was pronounced dead on arrival at Studebaker Hospital in Norwalk at 5:35 p.m. Brown had been northbound on Curtis King Road at Spry Street when the accident occurred.

Thirteen-year-old Robert Snyder of Garden Grove was buried Saturday in Santa Ana, five days after he suffered irreparable brain damage in a tunnel cave-in.

The boy, whose parents had pleaded with doctors "to let him die, was laid to rest in Fairhaven Memorial Park, following services at Red Hill Lutheran Church in Tustin. The Rev. Clyde Showalter officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Snyder, 10382 Morningside Drive, had made the anguished plea to doctors when they learned he had no chance of survival. The boy, who never regained consciousness and whose heart was kept beating with a mechanical respirator, died Thursday.

Young Snyder was playing Monday in a flood control bank tunnel that he and two friends had dug when it collapsed, burying him under 300 pounds of dirt. His two friends managed to escape but he was trapped for 30 minutes. The brain begins to die after four minutes without oxygen.

Still, ghetto people grumble about the transmission of messages from California and Anaheim downtown to the local government edifice at Broadway and Pacific.

One who shares the dissatisfaction is Richard Harris, head of Long Beach's Project Action and formerly anti-poverty program director of Neighborhood Adult Participation Project.

"Communication is just bad between the central city and downtown," said the NAPP director. "The minority community can talk to the police, but there is no response in kind." He contends the police never can establish a rapport with minority people through a one-way flow of communications.

"A two-way exchange is the only way," Harris said. Police are advised by the Kerner commission to "develop continuing contacts with ghetto residents to make sure of the forces for order which exist within the community."

Christian Charity

Q. I am the mother of two young boys and a teen-age girl. Until a week ago, I was working to support my children. However I have had to quit, because I must have an operation on my foot. We need food, clothing and money to pay the utilities. The Department of Social Service cannot help, because it has run out of money to use in emergency situations. What can I do? B.M., Compton.

A. ACTION LINE checked with a social worker in Compton and verified your need. A church in Lakewood has agreed to help you with financial assistance and clothing for your children.

Out but Not Down

Q. On March 28 there was an article in the paper about 91-year-old Ethel Cazier who was evicted from her Chicago apartment. Her belongings were stolen from the sidewalk by passers-by and she was left with nothing. Can ACTION LINE tell me what has happened to her? M.D., Long Beach.

A. The sad saga of Ethel Cazier has taken an upturn. Offers of help and financial contributions have poured in from all over the country, according to a spokesman for the public service department of the Chicago Tribune. A Cuban doctor and his family in Miami Beach, Fla. invited Miss Cazier to come live with them and sent her transportation money. Once in their home, however, the outspoken old lady got into political arguments with the family about Cuban refugees in America and returned to Chicago within a week. She is now living at the Wilton Hotel, 4758 Kenmore Ave., Chicago, Ill. On April 17 she received a check for $120 from 52 GI's in Vietnam who read of her plight and took up a collection. The former nurse says she has no complaints. "I've had a good life," she says. "You just have to accept things even if you don't understand them."

Baggy Pants

Q. My uncle who lives in Utah is a golfer. I would like to buy him a pair of knickers—English plus fours—as a joke. But I haven't been able to find any. Can you help? L.F., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE checked men's clothing stores, British clothiers, golf shops and used clothing stores throughout the Southland and was unable to find a single pair of ready-made knickers for sale. Widely worn by U.S. youngsters a generation ago and still the traditional British golfing and shooting garb, the baggy knee breeches have virtually disappeared from the American scene. Even Scottish Imports in Santa Monica doesn't carry them. They suggested, however, you can buy plus fours — or the slightly less baggy plus twos — from Kinloch-Anderson Ltd., 19-21 Rose St., North Lane, Edinburgh, Scotland. Locally, Bill Redman of Fuzz Harris Tailors, 122 E. Third St., says they can make you a pair of knickers to order with the price depending upon the material you pick out.

REACTION

L.C.H. of Lakewood, in a recent Sound Off, noted that Lakewood turned out only 15.5 per cent of the voters in the recent municipal election. My city, Bellflower, turned out a dynamic 22 per cent of its registered voters for the municipal election here. I have no idea what happened to the other 78 per cent. Worse yet, how many more do both our cities have who are eligible to vote but have not registered? S.F., Bellflower.

Oregon Boosters Pressure Reagan to Visit State

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

PORTLAND — Ronald Reagan called a news conference on Jan. 4, 1966, and made a statement which a great many people in Oregon hope he'll repeat sometime soon.

He said then "I've come to a decision only a short time ago I thought was impossible for me to make."

And he then declared his candidacy for the Governorship of California.

The Oregon people hope he'll once again "come to a decision" he now states is "impossible" for him to make. They hope he'll announce his candidacy for the Presidency of the United States.

(First of two parts)

And, they are waging an enthusiastic campaign, hoping they can convince enough Oregonians of Reagan's presidential potential to give the California Governor a sizeable vote on May 28, when Oregon holds its primary election.

Robert Hazen, president of one of Portland's largest savings and loan institutions, hopes for considerably more than a "sizeable vote."

HAZEN, chairman of the "Citizens for Reagan" movement in Oregon, says positively "He can win. He's the kind of man the people want. If we can get the word to them about what kind of man he is, they'll vote for him."

If anybody gets the word about Ronald Reagan to the people in Oregon, it's going to have to be the "Citizens for Reagan" group. Reagan himself insists he is not a candidate, and refuses to visit the state, even when normal gubernatorial duties would take him there, to avoid giving the slightest indication he wants to be one.

A group of Republican Governors has been traveling around the nation holding hearings which, they say, will guide them in helping prepare the party's platform. On the morning of May 7, the group is meeting in Seattle and that same afternoon the governors will meet in Portland.

GOV. REAGAN has been asked to attend those two meetings. Oregon Gov. Tom McCall said in a private interview that he phoned Reagan personally April 19 in an attempt to persuade him to come to Portland. He said Reagan declined.

McCall said he offered to send Reagan a telegram, and then make it public, saying that matters vital to the three Pacific Coast states were to be discussed, and that the California Governor's presence was important. He said he offered to ask Washington Gov. Dan Evans to send a similar telegram. He said Reagan told him it wouldn't do any good, that he had said publicly he would not go to Oregon before the primary, and that he must stand by what he had said.

Gov. McCall, who believes strongly that the Republican convention in Miami Beach next August should not be "locked up" by any candidate before it gets under way, as was the case with the 1964 convention by Barry Goldwater, feels that Reagan's refusal to become an active candidate is "unhealthy" for the party.

"We had a lesson taught to us four years ago," he said. "And now, after three years of progress, we seem to be spitting on the lesson we learned" (from Goldwater's crushing defeat in the general election at the hands of Lyndon Johnson).

REAGAN'S REFUSAL to visit Oregon, much less campaign there, is obviously disappointing to Hazen and to the campaign's executive director, Salem public relations executive Fred Van Natta. "But," says Van Natta, "whatever he says, we think he's still the guy."

The "Citizens for Reagan" campaign in Oregon is an uphill struggle, and Hazen and Van Natta know it. Pitted against them is the well-oiled "establishment" campaign of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

In addition to having most of the state's old-line Republicans already on his side, Nixon has visited Oregon twice in recent weeks and plans one or two more visits before May 28.

"Plus," says Portland Oregonian Political Writer Harry Bondine, "the simple fact is that Nixon has always been popular in Oregon. In 1964, without even campaigning, he pulled 48,000 votes in the primary. And his campaign is being managed by one of the most respected and able Republicans in the state, Howell Appling."

BODINE THINKS Nixon would win in Oregon even if Reagan were to enter the race actively. But, he says, the California Governor is "very popular here, and made a great impression when he visited here last November."

"Oregon voters are a pretty independent lot," he says. He recalled that in 1952 Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower won the primary by a 7-1 margin without ever setting foot in the state.

He doubts that the same sort of lightning will strike Reagan in 1968, but he admits it is possible. The people running the Reagan-for-President campaign "haven't made a mistake yet," he says.

Next: The Reagan-for-President campaign in Oregon; its progress, its budget, its plans — and why there is a campaign in the first place.

Los Alamitos Writer Wins $1,000 Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Edson P. Egger, 21, a University of Iowa senior, won first place Saturday in the William Randolph Hearst Foundation eighth annual journalism awards program.

Second place went to Hal Lancaster, 21, of Los Alamitos, a senior at the University of Southern California, and third place was shared by John McClung, 23, of Tucson, Ariz., a junior at the University of Arizona, and Fred Burger, 21, of Knoxville, Tenn., a senior at the University of Tennessee. Lancaster will get $1,000 and a silver medalion.

A witness said the craft dropped "like a falling rock" to the ground and burned about 500 yards beyond the end of the college airport runway.

The pilot was identified as Charles E. Lassiter, 39, San Francisco. His passengers were Airman Steven V. Caruso, 20; Leo Francis Philbin, 48, San Luis Obispo, an aeronautics professor at Cal Poly, and Charles E. Johnson.

'NO MAN SHOULD REFUSE'

Gov. Ronald Reagan, winding up a two-day, two-state speaking tour, spoke briefly to a group of Reagan-for-President students Saturday at Stapleton, Colo., International Airport shortly before departing for Sacramento. Earlier, the governor told a gathering at University of Colorado in Boulder that he doesn't anticipate being nominated, but that no man should refuse.

'Available' Reagan Smash Hit with Colorado Students

By LOU CANNON
From Our State Bureau

BOULDER, Colo. — Gov. Ronald Reagan Saturday told a cheering student audience at the University of Colorado that the principles of individual freedom require abolishment of the peacetime draft.

"We've gone down a bad and dangerous road with peacetime conscription and I would turn to a professional army and eliminate the draft," Reagan said.

The remark came during an hour-long question session with university students and newsmen that followed a 45-minute speech before an overflow and distinctly pro-Reagan crowd.

THE CALIFORNIA Governor, who Saturday concluded a two-day political swing through Idaho and Colorado that widely advertised his availability for the GOP Presidential nomination, drew repeated ovations from the students for his reference to law and order and to individual rights.

Perhaps the Governor's loudest applause came when he indirectly condemned civil disobedience by declaring:

"No one for any reason has a right to take the law into their own hands."

In response to another question Reagan said students should be consulted by university administrations but added:

"The administration of a university has the authority for administering a university and they cannot delegate that authority or give it up."

WHEN THE applause had subsided, the Governor asked the students: "have you ever thought about transferring to Berkeley?"

Reagan's stand on the draft, which he said could not be ended until the Vietnam war was resolved, contrasted with his tough position on negotiations aimed at selecting a site for Vietnam peace talks.

Asked about the Johnson Administration's supposed "nitpicking" on a peace talk site, the governor said he supported the president's opposition to a site favored by the Communists.

"If we give in on this ... we have proven to them that we are ready to back down on a lot of other things," Reagan said.

It was the only time during the intermountain trip that Reagan expressed agreement with the national administration.

MOST OF his speeches and his answers to questions assailed Democratic policies on welfare, civil rights and poverty. The political jibes invariably drew cheers and applause, most noticeably at the University of Colorado where some of the 3,000 students in attendance began a handclapping "We Want Reagan" routine on three different occasions.

N. Viet Still Firm on Peace Talk Site, But Washington Optimistic

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A North Vietnamese embassy spokesman said Saturday that Hanoi is still waiting for the United States to accept Phnom Penh or Warsaw as a site for preliminary peace talks.

Indicating a continuing site, the spokesman said the United States "clearly shows lack of goodwill and unwillingness to seek agreement to end the Vietnam war."

Western sources, nonetheless, remained optimistic that agreement could be reached within a day or two. They said Hanoi often has changed its position unexpectedly.

There have been widespread rumors that both sides are approaching a compromise on Paris but this was denied here by both American and North Vietnamese sources.

Meanwhile, Nguyen Chan, Hanoi's charge d'affaires, was the center of intense diplomatic activity. He received top officials of the Communist Chinese embassy for 90 minutes Friday morning and there was speculation Peking was seeking first-hand information on the exchanges with U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan.

A Laotian government reception Friday evening, Chan was seen in long conversation with Soviet embassy officials. The Soviet Union is believed to be urging Hanoi to accept a compromise solution.

Columbia's 'No Amnesty' Edict Backed by Trustees

By VIC TIMONER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Board of Trustees of Columbia University Saturday denounced the "small minority" of students who brought academic work at the prestigious institution to a halt and strongly backed President Grayson Kirk in his refusal to grant them amnesty.

Dr. Kirk then summoned the university's 800 faculty members with professorial status to an unprecedented Sunday meeting to thresh out the situation created by the student sit-ins. There are 3,911 teachers at the 27,500 student institution.

Rebel students, numbering between 200 and 400, were still holding out with Negro students and Negro outsiders barricaded in Hamilton Hall. They are led by William Epton who was convicted of conspiracy charges stemming out of Harlem riots in 1964.

The student demonstrators, holding a total of five campus buildings, rejected a faculty-proposed peace formula to end the disturbance, they were holding out for amnesty.

They have succeeded in getting the university to suspend construction of a gym in Morningside Park, contending that the school's building would deprive Harlem children of play space.

About 200 Harlem residents gathered outside the buildings Saturday afternoon.

The 24 trustees said in a statement the disorders were "perpetrated by a small minority of students, aided and abetted by outsiders who have injected themselves into the situation."

Board members include New York City Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan, William S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System and Arthur O. Sulzberger, president and publisher of The New York Times.

Biplane Stalls, Crashes During Cal Poly Show

SAN LUIS OBISPO (UPI) — Four men were killed Saturday when a vintage Waco biplane participating in a fly-in at California Polytechnic College plunged 400 feet and exploded.

About 500 persons attending the two-day wind-up of the college's 36th annual "Poly Royal" open house watched in horror as the plane stalled during a turn and plummeted nose down.

Gottlieb Calls Humphrey's Hand

Congress candidate Arthur Gottlieb told a McCarthy fund-raising party Saturday night Vice President Humphrey's call for putting peace above politics "can be best implemented by favoring a peace talk site such as Warsaw or Cambodia."

Gottlieb, Democratic candidate in the Long Beach area 32nd District and a member of the presidential delegation of Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, added that if Humphrey "really wants to bring a settlement in Vietnam, regardless of political considerations for himself, he should favor the inclusion of the National Liberation Front and a coalition government for South Vietnam."

The party was at the residence of Mrs. Sonia Crommie, 1724 Arlington St.

Hallet To Speak

Explorer Jean-Pierre Hallet, author of the best-seller "Congo Kitabu" and a new book, "Animal Kitabu," will address 32nd Congressional District Republican Women Federated at a May 8 noon luncheon meeting in Bixby Park Clubhouse.

Hallet won the 1965 Adventurers Club award as "the most outstanding speaker of the year." He went to the Congo at 21 in 1948 as an agronomist and sociologist for the Belgian Ministry of Colonies. His 12 year career there ranged from a role as a one-man Peace Corps among hostile tribesmen who made him a bond brother to the taming of a rhinoceros and the "hypnotism" of lions.

Luncheon reservations for this public event may be made with Mrs. Hugh R. Cardinell, 130 Rivo Alto Canal, or Mrs. James Morrison, 950 Holly Glen Dr.

DEMO STUDY CLUB

Mayor Mark Hannaford, of Lakewood, will be guest speaker for the Wednesday noon luncheon meeting of the Democratic Women's Study Club in the Lafayette Hotel.

Hannaford will discuss the three Democratic presidential aspirants, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Vice President Hubert Humphrey. Hannaford is a member of the California Lynch delegation, the one formed to back President Johnson. His wife, Sara, is a member of the Kennedy delegation.

Also to speak is Mrs. Virginia Waters, Democratic candidate for Assembly in the 39th District (East Long Beach and Signal Hill.)

Mrs. Cora Cocks, member of the county advisory committee for the Department of Social Services, will report on department activities.

Lakewood High Demos

Young Democrats of Lakewood's Mayfair High School are participating in a campaign booster program to assist the national Democratic Party, according to Dan Longobardy, YD president.

Volunteers will distribute literature, answer questions and conduct an opinion poll. They will wear red, white and blue striped costumes, vests for the boys, skirts for girls and straw hats.

Lakewood is one of four cities in the nation selected for the booster program.

Jones Boy Goes to Capital

Johnson Proud of White House
Watchdog Jones

WASHINGTON (AP) — A young man who began a journalism career of sorts at age 5 runs the White House office these days for a boss who says with a bit of pride: "I've never known him to make a mistake."

Jim Jones, 28, of Muskogee, Okla. — he says "yes men" don't last around the President — would take issue with that compliment from Lyndon Johnson.

In the next office down the hall from Johnson, Jones tilted back Saturday in a blue leather and fabric chair behind a neatly kept walnut desk and traded looks with a brass owl eyeing him from in front of the pen set. He clasped his hands behind a head of thinning hair and told a reporter:

JIM JONES
"Better be Accurate"

"When I first came here in 1965, I don't think the President knew me from Adam. And I put together a memo that turned out to be rather amateurish and inaccurate."

I learned a personal lesson from him at that time," he said. "In any dealings with him, you'd better go for excellence, you'd better be accurate."

Now he tries to apply that lesson as special assistant and appointments secretary to the President. This was the job Marvin Watson held before replacing Lawrence F. O'Brien Friday as postmaster general.

So it is Jim Jones who runs the White House executive office, with a critical eye on how it operates and spends.

In or out of Washington, in or out of the country, Jones sticks within a few feet of Johnson. When Johnson goes home to Texas, Jones goes to Texas and sets up shop at the ranch.

Jones has a journalism degree from the University of Oklahoma and law degree from Georgetown University here. Looking beyond January and a change of administrations, he thinks he might go back to Oklahoma.

It was there that Jones started a paper for neighborhood kids, then landed a job 10 years later when he was 15, covering high school news for the Muskogee Morning News.

Later on he went to the Muskogee Phoenix, and at the university at Norman, newspapering figured in most of the four or five jobs that helped see him through financially. He was graduated in the summer of 1961 and that was the year he came to Washington.

After getting his law degree in 1964, Jones volunteered at the Democratic National Committee. Two years later he went to work at the White House.

Heroin Wholesaling Lures Top Executives

By DAVID BURNHAM
New York Times Service
NEW YORK — Leon Aiken lived with his wife in a $75,000 house in Teaneck, N.J. He sent his two teenage children to private school.
Harold Munger lived with his wife in a semi-detached brick house in a middle-class area in the Bronx.
Luis Sotomayer lived with his wife in one of the best apartment houses in the Bronx section of New York.
All three men have one thing in common. Until they were convicted and sent to prison, they were top executives in the business of wholesaling heroin.

ly talented executives. These men each face many of the problems confronting legitimate businessmen.
Where can talented and loyal middle-level managers be hired? Where should the processing plant be located? Is plant security adequate? Has the competition developed a better packaging, marketing and advertising campaign?
A portrait of the heroin wholesaler in New York was pieced together by the New York Times from interviews with local, state and federal law-enforcement officials.
Most generalizations must be considered tentative. Nevertheless, law enforcement officials believe several broad points can be made:
— Negroes and Puerto Ricans have in recent years pushed their way into the rank of the major wholesalers.

— With the exception of the development of an important Cuban operation, the regular importation of heroin is still controlled by the Mafia.
— In recent years, many wholesalers have sought to increase their profits by eliminating or reducing the middlemen, the distributors who stand between themselves and the street sellers.
— Despite longer sentences outside New York City, increasing numbers of wholesalers have moved their warehouses, called stashes, and in some instances even their factories to New Jersey, Westchester and other nearby areas. One explanation for this move is that suburban police are considered less sophisticated about narcotics.

The profits of the wholesale heroin dealer are believed to be extremely large.
For example, one "ki" (one kilo or 2.2 pounds) of 85 per cent heroin cost a wholesaler such as Harold Munger $20,000 to $25,000, depending on how many kilos he was buying and the demand at that particular time.
One key point is that like Leon Aiken, Munger is a Negro. Ten years ago, the experts agree, top Negro wholesalers were very rare.
MUNGER, WHO was sentenced to 2 to 20 years in prison last month, "whacked" or cut the kilo of heroin five or six times, adding milk sugar, quinine, mante (an Italian laxative) and other adulterants, until it has been transformed into six kilos of 10 per cent heroin.

gers and "tapers" and maintained distributors to dilute and repackaged narcotic to a group of four or five lieutenants, who in turn would sell it to the street pushers.
Luis Sotomayer, however, had a different pattern of wholesaling. Officials said the most distinctive feature of his operation was his complete independence from the usual Mafia dominated sources of heroin. They indicated they believe he was the key New York representative of a large Cuban group that they suspect is importing more than 80 pounds of heroin each week into the U.S. from Cuba.

THE OFFICIALS indicated that Sotomayer, who several weeks ago was sentenced to seven and a half to 15 years in prison for possession of more than 13 pounds of the purest heroin ever seized in the U.S., dealt only in wholesale lots.

Operating out of a one-bedroom apartment, Sotomayer is said to have received regular bulk shipments from Miami and then sold to major dealers in big cities.

N. Koreans Ambush U.N. Patrol

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — Twenty Communist intruders from North Korea ambushed a 10-man United Nations Command (UNC) patrol Saturday in a new border flareup. The UNC warned it will take all necessary measures to meet North Korean "provocations."
The ambush killed one South Korean soldier and wounded two American GIs. The UNC demanded a joint investigation of the incident, but the Communists refused.
The incident took place at 1:40 p.m. in the wilderness near the truce village of Panmunjom. It came while GIs and South Koreans in the rear areas were just beginning to relax for the weekend.
The U.N. termed North Korea's action a "deliberate" violation of the armistice.

A Scientific Souvenir Hunter

By BILL DUNCAN

Albert F. Bush, an engineering professor at UCLA, is a typical tourist when he travels outside the United States. He brings home souvenirs.

Bush, a smog expert, goes about his souvenir hunting scientifically and brings back the strangest trinkets of all — captured air samples.

His ambition, he says, is to compile a worldwide catalogue of the airborne particles that cause air pollution around the world.

AFTER RETURNING from a trip, Prof. Bush analyzes and compares the tiny particles found by the millions and billions in every cubic foot of air around the world. He classifies them according to size, shape, number and chemical characteristics.

On his last trip in 1966, Prof. Bush stopped at 25 cities in Europe, Africa, Asia, Australia, New Zealand and Tahiti. In each place he drew a small sample of air into his portable thermal precipitator, deposited the particles on a small screened plate, and shipped the plates home.

At UCLA the plates are put into an electron microscope which reveal a strange array of particles, magnified up to 20,000 times and looking variously like water droplets, puffy clouds, ashes, pop corn, flakes and needles.

His findings showed a very heavy concentration of particles in air samples from Tokyo, and Calcutta, India. The greatest variety of particles was from Tokyo air.

LOS ANGELES' photochemical air pollution, Bush says, has a fairly low particle count compared to most major cities.

However, within Southern California there are cles, on a clear day in Los Angeles and increased another 10 times, to a billion particles, on a smoggy Los Angeles day.

ALBERT F. BUSH

In a cubic foot of undiluted auto exhaust, he found that count rose to a staggering 300 to 500 billion particles.

"Each combustion process adds to the load of particles in the air," he says. "Eventually, we hope to trace the particles back to their respective sources and help set guidelines for controlling emissions from these sources."

IN EVERY BREATH

Size of the specs can be measured against short line underneath the photo, which represents one micron or 1/25,000 of an inch. In the photo the particles have been blown up 5,000 times actual size.

some major differences in air particles found in Bush's probe. A rough count per cubic foot of air showed 10 million particles in the Mojave Desert and the figure went up 10 times, to 100 million parti-

Chaplains to Be Y Honor Guests

Military chaplains will be guests of honor and a "Man of the Year" announced at the Armed Services YMCA's Committee of Management annual meeting May 13.

"Emphasis will be on good entertainment — the type enjoyed by the many servicemen who utilize the Y — Capt. Mort Lytic, (ret.), meeting chairman, said Saturday.

"The yearly report will be distributed for individual reading and there will be no speeches," he added.

All three top officers will remain on another year. They are E. C. (Bud) Holton, chairman; Dale Hoskin, vice chairman, and Thornton Ibbotson, treasurer.

FOUR RETIRING committeemen will receive recognition for their service. They are Dr. Paul Woudenberg, Kenneth Davis, Charles Morgan and Dr. Carl Russell.

Two replacements have been named to date, Richard Wilson and Buck Lanier. Wilson is an attorney and chairman of the City's Armed Services Commission. Lanier is military editor of The Independent, Press-Telegram.

"The 'Man of the Year' idea is going to be continued each year, to recognize an individual who has contributed significantly to the Y's mission, programs and accomplishments," Bob Farnham, executive secretary said.

Fear Nazi Surge in German Voting

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI) — An estimated 5 million West Germans vote today in one of the most serious tests of parliamentary democracy since the collapse of Adolf Hitler's Third Reich.

Against a backdrop of leftwing violence and signs of neo-Nazi resurgence, the state of Baden-Wuerttemberg elects its 120-seat legislature in the last major balloting before national elections next year.

Politicians and analysts both in West Germany and abroad will study the outcome intensively for answers to four questions:

How is public opinion reacting to the wave of rioting that swept the country Easter weekend in the wake of the shooting of leftist student leader Rudi (Red Rudi) Dutschke?

Is the extreme rightwing National Democratic Party, which has entered six out of 10 state parliaments since it was founded three years ago, continuing the surge expected to carry it into the federal parliament next year?

How do Germans feel about the "grand coalition" of Christian Democrats and Social Democrats that has ruled West Germany since Dec. 1, 1963, leaving only the tiny Free Democrats in ineffective opposition?

What future on a national level has a loose grouping of far left organizations fielding candidates on a "democratic left" ticket in Baden-Wuerttemberg?

Most political observers predict the National Democrats, branded "neo-Nazi" by its foes, will be the chief beneficiary of the bloody riots that claimed two lives.

IN U.S. TEST

F111A Crash Laid to Brake Failure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force said Friday failure of an experimental speed brake at about 1,000 miles an hour caused the crash last October of an F111A swinging jet near Bowie, Tex.

The device was the only one ever installed in any F111, an Air Force spokesman said.

Three of the controversial F111s have gone down in Southeast Asia in recent weeks on bombing flights against North Vietnam. Four other swinging jets, including one Navy model, have crashed in the United States.

A report on the Texas crash Oct. 19 said the two civilian crewmen, pilot David J. Thigpen and flight engineer Max E. Gordon, detected trouble when the plane was flying at 39,000 feet with the speed brake extended.

After hearing a sound described as a "clunk," Thigpen and Gordon found the hydraulic system had failed. Control of the aircraft soon became impossible, the report said.

The Air Force said an investigation indicated a bracket assembly had failed, rupturing the hydraulic system tubing and disrupting the flight control system.

The $6 million plane was destroyed in the crash. The two crewmen, employed by the manufacturer, General Dynamics, were ejected successfully and were uninjured.

U.S. Inspectors Crack Down on Mail Abuses from Viet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department claimed Saturday to have made substantial progress toward halting abuses of the mail from Vietnam that included a soldier's sending his girl friend two live hand grenades as souvenirs.

In the latest development, during the first two weeks of this month, 285 soldiers and civilians ducked out of military post offices in Vietnam when they learned their packages would be inspected with mine detectors.

The souvenir hand grenades reached San Francisco last November during a test inspection that in a single day turned up 89 other packages containing weapons and explosives ranging up to a 3.5-inch bazooka rocket and a 106mm recoilless rifle shell.

Frank A. Bartimo, assistant Defense Department counsel, told UPI he believes abuses can be stopped. Bartimo also is chairman of the Pentagon's Drug Abuse Control Committee, which has been given authority to police against all sorts of mail smuggling.

Bartimo disclosed that within a few weeks the military post offices in Vietnam will be equipped with fluoroscopes — instant x-ray machines — as well as mine detectors to aid in the inspection.

The fluoroscopes are about the size of a large brief case and cost under $3,000 each. Some are equipped with instant cameras to take pictures that could be used as evidence if court martial proceedings resulted from illegal mailings.

Bartimo said there was no evidence that the soldier mailing hand grenades intended them as other than innocent souvenirs. His identity was withheld. Presumably he may have told his girl friend by letter to be sure and not pull the pins.

Hand grenades, both enemy and U.S., are among the most frequent items in the violations, Bartimo said. Several others were found during the test inspection and two were in packages mailed during the first two weeks in April.

TINY SURVIVOR SOOTHED

Kimberly Nichols, 3, is comforted by a neighbor Saturday after she survived a blast in Nashville which killed her mother, baby sister and three other family members. The tot was blown through a window and suffered minor injuries.

—AP Wirephoto

Five Killed, Tot Survives Blast

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — An early morning explosion killed five members of a family Saturday as it leveled a combination restaurant-service station on U.S. year-old girl escaped serious injury.

The blast, possibly caused by leaking butane gas or gasoline, blew windows from neighboring buildings and turned Zimmerman's Place, where the blast occurred, into a ball of flame.

Killed were Mr. and Mrs. James H. Blunkhall, about 49, and their daughter, Joy, 17; their niece, Chloe Nichols, 26, of Palatka, Fla., and Mrs. Nichols' daughter, Tammy Michele, 4 months.

Tammy's sister, Kimberly, 3, was the only survivor. She, like the baby, was blown free from the living quarters at the rear of the establishment, but escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Nichols and the girls had been visiting here since Mrs. Blunkhall's father, Mrs. Nichols' grandfather, died a month ago. A neighbor said they planned to return to their Florida home Monday.

Grenades Hurled, 2 Injured

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (UPI) — Grenades were hurled into a tavern and at two lodge halls and a garage here Friday night. Three of them exploded, injuring two persons and damaging three buildings.

The blasts were the latest incidents in a week of disturbances in this racially mixed Mississippi River port. A witness told police she saw a Negro youth hurl a grenade into the tavern, where both injuries occurred.

DAMAGED BY blasts were the tavern, the Knights of Columbus building and the Wright-Way Wheel & Brake Service garage. An unexploded grenade was found on the sidewalk outside the Scottish Rite (Masonic) Temple.

Police said all of the grenades were of a type used for training purposes by the Army. They were filled with gunpowder but are less powerful than those used in combat, ordnance technicians from the nearby Granite City Army Engineers Depot said. The source of the grenades had not been learned.

All of the bombings occurred within seven blocks of the tavern where the first grenade was tossed at 9:40 p.m. The last bombing occurred at 11:30 p.m.

MRS NORMA Tubbs, a waitress, told police she saw a slender Negro youth about 16 years old crawl up to the door of McCoy's Tavern and throw an object inside. It was a grenade which rolled under a coin-operated howling machine and exploded, blowing a hole in the concrete floor.

Richard Lindsay, 51, Mattoon, Ill., and Oscar L. Crossen, 32, Fairmont City, Ill., who were in the tavern, were hospitalized for leg injuries.

THIRD IN 2 MONTHS

Italian Students, Police Riot Again

ROME (UPI) — Riot police with nightsticks waded into demonstrating university students Saturday, touching off the city's third bloody riot in two months.

More than 3,000 students fled, screaming "assassins," when police suddenly charged. But they regrouped in nearby streets and fought back with bottles, coffee tables, chairs and umbrellas.

Some students overturned cars and used them as barricades. Police drove them from cover with powerful jets of water from riot control water trucks, then chased them down and dragged them off to jail.

Nineteen police officers, nine students and a press photographer were treated at hospitals for injuries.

Police arrested 205 students but released some later. They said 10 shops in the area were damaged.

THE RIOT erupted after students shouting "Yankee, Go Home" and "Long Live Ho Chi Minh" marched through downtown streets to the courthouse, demanding the release of two students arrested in the fire-bombing of the Italo-American Boston Chemical Industrial Corp.

The bombing, reported to have been intended as a protest against American policy in Vietnam, caused minor damage to the firm last week.

University students demanding university reforms clashed previously with police March 1 and 16, leaving hundreds injured.

Police precipitated Saturday's riot when they blew a warning bugle and then charged the students, who clearly were taken by surprise.

Apollo Test Scrubbed, Manned Moon Flight Set for September

By AL ROSSITER

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (UPI) — Space Agency Administrator James E. Webb accepted the recommendation of Project Apollo leaders Saturday and began preparations to fly men on the next Saturn 5 moon rocket.

The decision to eliminate another unmanned launch clears the way for the initial manned orbital flight of an Apollo moonship on the smaller Saturn 1B rocket in September and for the first manned Saturn 5 flight into orbit around November.

It also is expected to save upwards of $200 million — the price tag set on a third unmanned test flight of the giant moonship launcher.

Saturn 5 performed flawlessly on its maiden test last November, but the second one encountered three technical problems and one snag caused by human error April 4.

Apollo Program Director Samuel C. Phillips said the most serious troubles — engine failures and launch vibrations — are being corrected.

One remaining problem, a loss of unidentified objects from part of the rocket spacecraft, is also expected to be resolved.

Phillips said the decision to proceed to manned flight of the rocket could be revoked if unexpected problems develop in ground testing now under way.

"We retain the option of flying another unmanned mission if further analysis and ground-testing indicates that that is the best course," Phillips said.

Phillips said Wednesday he had recommended to Webb that the third unmanned Saturn 5 flight be eliminated from the program. After studying the plan and discussing the situation with advisors, Webb approved the recommendation Saturday.

Under the new timetable, Astronauts Walter Schirra, Donn Eisele and Walter Cunningham will ride a Saturn 1B rocket into orbit for an Apollo shakedown run lasting up to 10 days. That mission will be designated Apollo 7.

Astronauts James McDivitt, David Scott and

Russell Schweickart will be launched on the next Saturn 5 rocket and they also are expected to spend a week or 10 days in earth's orbit. Their mission is now Apollo 8.

As soon as Webb issued his decision, technicians at the moonport began dismantling the third Saturn 5.

Returns Book, Saves $460 Fine

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Bill Marvel says he avoided a $460 fine by returning an overdue book during the Indianapolis library's amnesty week on fines. The book, "The Story of Aircraft," was 9,215 days late. Marvel borrowed it in 1943 when he was 12 years old.

COUPLE HIT BY $1.08 MILLION TAX CLAIM
Eloise and Darren Erlin's Marijuana Cache is Taxable

FOR MARIJUANA

U.S. Collars Pair With Big Tax Bill

FAIRFAX (UPI) — Eloise and Darren Erlin owe the federal government $1.088 million, because of an obscure marijuana tax law.

"I can never own anything, open any bank account or ever be paid wages without the government getting its hands on it," moaned Erlin, 22, a dress designer.

The government lien was placed after narcotics agents said they found 337 pounds of marijuana in the Erlin's home here. A 1937 federal law provides a $100-per-ounce tax assessment on marijuana unless the owner has a tax stamp.

The couple said the Internal Revenue Service seized their $1,500 bank account, $970 in cash, and has taken an equity in their car.

A spokesman for the federal tax agency said in San Francisco that any lien follows a taxpayer for life, unless it's paid.

Senators Claim Offices Overcrowded Sweatshops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators complained Friday of what they variously described as overcrowded, appalling, intolerable and sweatshop conditions.

They were talking about their own offices.

The comments came on discussion of a bill to authorize a $12.5 million appropriation to purchase property adjacent to a present Senate office building with a plan to build an addition there.

The property is now the site of an apartment building that would be used temporarily to ease the overcrowding.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., chairman of the Rules and Administration Committee, said a poll had produced reports from 72 senators and 25 committees or subcommittees they were short of space.

Israel Rebuffs Arabs, U.N. Over Parade in Jerusalem

UNITED NATIONS — Israel Saturday rebuffed complaints of Jordan and by Secretary General Thant that a military parade through Arab areas of Jerusalem would undermine efforts for peace in the Middle East.

In a Security Council meeting, Yosef Tekoa of Israel, in the strongest statement yet heard on the subject, said Israeli troops in areas captured from the Arabs last June "are free to move, to act and to parade as they see fit."

The parade is planned for next Thursday.

THE COUNCIL had before it a report from Thant that Israel had not replied to a note he sent to the government on April 20, warning of the parade's negative effects on peace efforts and expressing his concern about the plans.

An Israeli spokesman said that no reply to Thant's note was expected before Monday.

Dr. Muhammad H. El-Farra of Jordan told the Council today that the parade, planned to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the State of Israel, was illegal under the 1949 armistice agreements.

Jordan has always complained about the annual Israeli parades in Jerusalem's new area as violating the armistice. But this year, El-Farra said the extension of the area covered is part of "a vicious plan to establish nonexistent rights in the Holy City and face the United Nations and the world with an established fact."

Before sending the note, Thant said, "I had become aware of concern in various quarters about the aggravating effect of such a parade in the Old City at this time on tensions in the area, and on the efforts to achieve peaceful settlement of the exceedingly difficult problems in the relations between the Arab States and Israel."

Hotel in Crestline Destroyed by Fire

CRESTLINE (UPI) — A fire Friday night destroyed The Valley of the Moon hotel here, Crest Forest Fire District officials reported.

Damage was estimated at nearly $20,000. There were no injuries. The San Bernardino County sheriff's arson squad was investigating origins of the blaze.

THANT'S NOTE had not been made public until Saturday. He said he had written it because "it is understood that much of this parade will be on the east side of the armistice demarcation line and in part of what is known as the Old City of Jerusalem."

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

New York, N. Y. (Special): A scientific research institute has discovered a medication which has the ability in most cases — to actually shrink hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from the itching, burning and pain. Then this medication starts right in to gently reduce the swelling of inflamed, irritated hemorrhoids.

Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, in Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so.

Govt. Phone Cable Cut in Colorado

DENVER (AP) — A telephone cable carrying five government communications circuits was cut Saturday five miles east of Trinidad, Colo., a spokesman for Mountain States Telephone Co. said.

Angry Collegians Disrupt Campuses

By DON HASTINGS

Angry over a wide variety of grievances, college students brought tumult to campuses across the country. At Columbia University in New York, militant collegians occupied several buildings, forced cancellation of classes, took over the office of the school president and held a dean and two aides captive for more than 14 hours in protesting plans to build a gymnasium in a park in an adjoining Negro neighborhood.

After four days of turmoil, University officials said it would suspend construction of the gym. That didn't end the disturbance, however, as demonstrating students, lotaling about 1,000 of the 27,500 enrolled, rejected all other faculty proposals to settle the rebellion. The intense negotiations appeared to fail over student demands for amnesty for strike leaders after settlement. The administration refused.

On other campuses, students who said they were member of the Students Organization for Black Unity took over the office of the provost of Long Island University's Brooklyn campus in a racial dispute. A sit-in at Boston University ended with a promise by the school president to increase the number of Negro students and offer a course in Afro-American history. Student protests also disrupted classes at Olympic Community College in Bremerton, Wash., Boston State College, Ohio State University and the University of Georgia.

THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS at New York and southern New England high schools and colleges boycotted classes Friday to protest the Vietnam war, but elsewhere the scheduled nationwide demonstration fizzled. Most schools across the country reported normal or near-normal activity.

AFTER 156 SUITS IN THE SOUTH, the federal government filed its first school desegregation action in the North under provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. It charged a suburban Chicago school district with racial discrimination in faculty and staff assignments.

TO HELP SOLVE THE PROBLEMS plaguing cities, some of which have resulted in violence, the White House announced creation of the Urban Institute, a "think tank" that will serve as the government's center for research into the problems. The government-supported center will be headed by economist William Gorham, 37, who has been serving as assistant secretary of health, education and welfare.

IN A MOVE TO HELP PUT DOWN disorders that erupt in U.S. cities, Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford offered a special riot control command center be established in the Pentagon. The Directorate of Civil Disturbances Planning and Operations will be responsible for supplying "prompt and effective supplementary law enforcement assistance" to local authorities.

Commander of the directorate will be Army Lt. Gen. George R. Mather, who commanded federal troops sent to Chicago earlier this year to help restore order. His chief deputy will be Air Force Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Cunningham, an expert in the airlifting of troops.

SAYING HE BELIEVES he can do more for Vietnam peace as a private citizen, Arthur J. Goldberg resigned as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. He will be replaced by George W. Ball, former undersecretary of state. President Johnson's announcement of Goldberg's resignation was a frosty one with none of the usual praise for a job well done, indicating policy differences apparently led to the stepdown.

CENSORSHIP OF MOTION PICTURES, books, magazines and other materials "harmful to minors" was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court in two rulings Monday. The court held that state and local authorities may classify material as unsuitable for minors, but only if the statutes are clearly drawn.

THE DRAFT CALL FOR MAY was increased from 44,000 to 45,900 by the Department of Defense. The additional 1,900 men will be assigned to the Marine Corps. The June call was set at 29,500.

NO ONE WAS SURPRISED Saturday when Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey announced that he is a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

CONTINUING HIS WINNING WAYS in presidential preference primaries, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota pulled more than 400,000 of the Democratic votes in Tuesday's election in Pennsylvania. He was the only candidate on the ballot and far outdistanced the write-in favorites for New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Vice President Humphrey.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon was an easy victor on the Republican ballot.

THE MOST POWERFUL nuclear explosion ever set off in the United States was detonated underground at a Nevada desert test site. It sent shock waves rolling for hundreds of miles, but there were no reports of damage or escape of radiation. The Atomic Energy Commission test had been protested by some scientists and others as potentially dangerous.

THE LARGEST CHURCH MERGER in U.S. history was completed Tuesday with formation of the United Methodist Church, a combining of the Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren churches. The merger produced a giant Protestant denomination with 12 million members.

THE WAR

For the third week, contacts between the United States and North Vietnam dragged on without representatives being able to agree on a site for preliminary peace talks.

Washington has proposed 15 Asian and European capitals as possible locations, but Hanoi has declined to budge from its proposal of Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia, or Warsaw, capital of Poland.

IN VIETNAM FIGHTING last week, a third U.S. Air Force F111 was lost. The planes entered the war only one month ago and were grounded after the second one crashed March 30. They had resumed bombing missions April 11.

On the ground, Allied officials warned of possible enemy offensives in the far north and around Saigon. Concern centered on the A Shau Valley, gateway from Laos to the old Vietnamese imperial capital of Hue. South Vietnamese forces probed into the valley, supported by massive B52 bombing raids.

Fete Wilmington Doctor for Valor

A Wilmington physician, whose pistol dealt out "bad medicine" to two pharmacy bandits last December, is one of five persons selected to receive the 1968 Award for Valor of the Los Angeles County Employees Association.

Dr. Paul H. Goodley, 36, will receive the award at 10 a.m. Thursday in ceremonies before the Board of Supervisors. He moonlights as a reserve deputy sheriff when he isn't serving as head of the medical group that bears his name.

SHERIFF'S RECORDS gave this account of Dr. Goodley's duel with the bandits in a Lomita Boulevard pharmacy Dec. 26, 1967:

Dr. Goodley entered the pharmacy just after the bandit had accosted the owner, Stephen Meier, 30. While one gunman demanded narcotics of Meier, the other, stationed at the door, thrust a knife against Goodley's back and ordered him to walk to the rear of the store.

But the doctor jerked a .25-caliber pistol from his pocket, whirled and shot the bandit in the chest four times. He then exchanged shots with the other gunman, who managed to grab his companion and flee from the store.

DR. GOODLEY, whose left hand was lacerated when a bullet shattered a pharmacy bottle and sent the glass flying, gave chase in his car but lost the fleeing gunman. A bullet that passed through the bandit shot by Goodley struck Meier on the knee.

The physician-reserve deputy apparently administers shots as skillfully on the firing range as he does to patients. He holds a state pistol marksmanship championship.

DR. PAUL GOODLEY
Award for Valor

Emission Reduced in New Automobiles

INDIAN WELLS (AP) — The president of the Automobile Manufacturers Association says air pollution emissions on new cars will be reduced by 79 per cent.

Thomas C. Mann spoke to the spring conference of the Motor Car Dealers Association of Southern California at this desert town near Palm Springs. He said the decrease in hydrocarbon emission may not be immediately evident because there are so many older cars still operating.

Sears Follows Long Beach Store's Lead in Gun Sales

By FRANK ANDERSON
Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s new corporate directive tightening the sale of firearms by its retail outlets has been "standard policy with us," the manager of the giant merchandise chain's Long Beach store said Saturday.

Commenting on the firm's Friday announcement that it will no longer sell guns or ammunition to persons under 21 or accept mail or telephone orders for firearms, Cecil Brown said:

"OUR STORE at 450 Long Beach Blvd. hasn't received official word of the new policy yet, but it has always been our procedure to ask proof of age. We have never sold to minors, nor have we accepted mail or telephone orders for the gun merchandise."

Brown said Sears stores do not carry handguns. He added that his store's practice already was aligned with the directive announced in Chicago by Ernest L. Arms, corporate news director of Sears.

"We will require proof of age, both at the time an order is placed and at the time it is picked up," Arms said. "And guns and ammunition must be ordered in person and picked up in person."

A similar policy had been issued Thursday by Montgomery Ward & Co. Arms, however, said the rival firm's directive did not influence the Sears announcement, which had been in the works for several weeks.

MRS. JANET Cotter, a managerial assistant at the Sears Los Altos store at 2123 Lakewood Blvd., concurred with Brown's comments. "I'm sure the policy is aimed principally at catalogue sales," she said.

Sears, which sells sporting type rifles and shotguns, will publish an explanatory statement in the gun sections of new catalogues, Arms said.

The policies announced by Sears and Montgomery Ward have yet to be echoed in legislation sought by proponents of tighter controls on the sale of firearms. The efforts of legislators, such as Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., have met strong resistance from those who argue that control laws threaten the "citizen's right to bear arms" guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution.

THE CAMPAIGN for tighter laws on the sale and registration of guns gained national attention after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, and it has gained impetus since Dr. Martin Luther King was shot to death by a sniper in Memphis on April 4.

Railway Tax Break Hit by Assessor

SACRAMENTO (AP) — County Tax Assessor Irene Hickman said Saturday the State Board of Equalization is "deficient in its duties" for not fully assessing railroad property.

She said while railroads own property extending to 400 feet on either side of railway tracks, the Board assesses only 100 feet for taxation purposes.

"IT IS estimated there are 36 acres a mile of track that is not now on the tax rolls and that Southern Pacific alone has more than 35 miles of track in Sacramento County," Mrs. Hickman said.

"This represents thousands of dollars lost to Sacramento County each year," she said.

30 Aftershocks Echo Nevada Nuclear Blast

PASADENA (AP) — Friday's biggest-ever nuclear blast in Nevada yielded a record number of earthquake-like aftershocks, the Caltech reported.

The explosion itself caused an earth shock felt more than 300 miles away, equivalent in force to that of a medium strong natural quake. Seventeen minutes later, the chamber created by the underground blast collapsed, sending out another shock wave with half the strength of the original.

In all, the laboratory had recorded more than 30 shocks from the site by mid afternoon. The most previously recorded was four.

Dr. Don Anderson, director of the laboratory, attributed the aftershocks to failing and settling of rock displaced by the blast, which had force equivalent to a million tons of TNT.

Some scientists and others had expressed fears before the blast that it might touch off natural earthquakes along established fault lines in the area.

Anderson said there was no indication that this had happened.

Bobbies Make Big LSD Haul

LONDON (AP) — Drug squad detectives have seized a quantity of the psychedelic drug LSD valued at $3.6 million on the black market.

Scotland Yard said it was one of the biggest drug hauls ever in Britain.

Police were said to have raided premises in two separate areas of London-Clapton in the east and Bayswater in the center of the city.

Five men and a woman were arrested and charged with conspiracy to break Britain's drug laws.

MARY'S 'DUNCE CAP' MISSING

Here's How 'Queen' Lost Dunce Cap Avoiding Wreck

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

As the level of water dropped during the pump-out of the Navy's huge dry-dock, holding the Queen Mary, shipyard workers noted — and not without some degree of surprise — that one of the Queen's dunce caps was missing.

"Dunce caps" is salty jargon that describes the bronze, cone-shaped caps on the end of three of the ship's four propeller shafts.

The cap on the forward port propeller is gone.

When officials of the Museum of the Sea Aboard the Queen Mary noted the missing dunce cap, they moaned:

"Wouldn't you know it would be off OUR propeller?"

It is the plan of the museum developers to encase the forward propeller in a steel housing with thick plate glass windows. Future visitors aboard the Queen Mary will get a fish's eye view of the 20-foot, four-bladed propeller as it slowly rotates in water.

WHILE THE MUSEUM officials first learned the cap from their propeller was missing only after the Queen became high and dry, it was no surprise to James Bain, one of two former Queen Mary crewmen. Bain has remained in Long Beach to assist with the work of converting the former monarch of the North Atlantic into a museum and hotel-convention complex.

Bain was serving aboard as sanitary engineer when a near-tragic incident occurred that cost the museum its dunce cap.

It was in April of 1967, shortly before the Cunard Line decided to sell the 81,237-gross ton luxury liner to the city of Long Beach.

The sea-queen was nearing Cherbourg on a crossing out of New York.

It was just before midnight, Bain recalls.

MANY OF THE ship's passengers were enjoying the last night at sea celebration, unaware a dense fog had set in.

Suddenly the radar observer on the bridge called out:

"Fishing boat fleet dead ahead, sir!"

The Queen Mary was in the shipping lanes where she was supposed to be. The fishing boats were where they should not be.

"Full speed astern!" the captain ordered.

With agonizing slowness the four, 35-ton propellers came to a stop.

Slowly ever so slowly the huge screws, responding to the thrust of the 200,000-horsepower turbines, began to reverse.

THE 16 BLADES of the four propellers sliced through the ocean, straining to get a bite to pull the massive hulk to a stop.

The ship — at one time the heaviest movable object ever made by man — shuddered as the propellers struggled to halt the forward momentum of 60,000 tons of dead weight.

The strain was too great on the forward port engine. The shaft was pulled out of the bearings five inches.

DESPITE the damaged shaft, the captain managed to avoid the collision.

The following day the Queen Mary limped from Cherbourg to a drydock in Southampton, her home port.

In an attempt to keep on schedule, supplies and passengers were loaded aboard while shipyard workers rushed to repair the damaged shaft.

There was no time to replace the dunce cap. It was left off.

The incident has left the museum directors with a situation to ponder.

"Should the missing dunce cap be replaced by one of those removed from the other three propellers to restore the forward port propeller to its original condition?"

"Should the cap be left off, to be pointed out to future sightseers as a Queen's memento of just one incident during a sea career of 34 years and 1,000 Atlantic crossings?"

4th Act Coming Up in Long Running Grove Mayor Show

The curtain will rise again Monday on the fourth act of Garden Grove's long-running show, "I Want to be Mayor."

The show which has been drawing a full house since it opened April 17 is expected to be a sell-out once more despite poor reviews from enraged residents who claim the councilmen's performance is sad and Chamber of Commerce President George Sayles, who points out "extended public debate will cause a breach in the mutual cooperation a city council must possess to move a community forward."

COUNCILMAN REECE Ballard who instigated the special 4 p.m. matinee performance said Friday "the matter of electing a mayor must be settled and council should meet every single day until that decision is reached."

"Somebody will have to change his mind," he said.

His four colleagues feel basically the same.

The impasse on the question of selecting a mayor stems from the fact that each candidate has nurtured dreams of getting the top spot.

ONLY ONE, to date, has come out disclaiming interest in the post. That one is Louis Lake.

"I'm not interested in becoming mayor," Lake told the Independent, Press-Telegram, "the rest want it. I was mayor once and that's enough."

A 2-2-1 split has developed over the choice. On the two attempts following the April 17 reorganization meeting, Lake has lined his support up for Mayor Pro Tem Kathryn Barr. Councilman Laurence Schmit has pushed Ballard to the fore.

ALL THE while New-comer John Dean who defeated Mayor George Honold at the polls on April 9 has refused to cast what could be the deciding ballot. He continues to accuse his colleagues of "petty factionalism" — the same colleagues he hopes will turn to him to take command.

EDITORS AT CONFAB

America has a "constitutional inability to face the complexity of the civil rights problem," the director of the United States' Commission on Human Relations told a conference on Mass Media and Race Relations at UCLA Saturday.

"We don't understand what's going on in the black ghettos," said Roger Wilkins. He cited the Kerner Commission on Civil Disorders which blamed "white racism" for much of America's racial problems.

Wilkins was one of a number of experts in both media and race relations who addressed the conference in Sunset Recreation Center at UCLA. Local journalists with expertise in the area of racial news coverage served as resource personnel at the meeting. William Broom and Sterling Bemis, editor and managing editor of the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, attended

MALCOLM EPLEY

LOCAL scientists, amateur and otherwise, are invited to ponder (and explain if they can) an otherwise unreported phenomenon observed by Bert Martin of Lakewood on the morning after the Vandenberg missile sky display west of L.A.

Martin was unlocking the gate of a place where he works in Hollywood (Cole Ave. near Santa Monica Blvd.) when he saw a flash out of the corner of an eye. This was followed by a loud crack as a chunk of ice, possibly weighing 20 or 25 pounds, fell to the middle of the Cole Ave. pavement a few feet away.

The ice shattered and crystals flew in all directions. It was obvious the thing had fallen straight down. There were no buildings around from which it could have dropped. No airplanes overhead. Martin says the bits of ice were of a bluish tinge.

Martin agrees it's far-fetched to relate the incident to the missile display because the ice fell about 11:30 a.m. Thursday, while the missile burst at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. But he'd sleep better if somebody could offer some sort of rational explanation. It's a bit alarming, ice falling in big hunks out of nowhere.

WHEN they named John Dickson, head of L.B. Promotion, as the "Worst City Official of 1968" at the recent Jr. Chamber of Commerce Gridiron Banquet, Dickson wasn't there to receive the high honors.

The other day somebody dropped the trophy on his desk without ceremony.

Now Dickson, who knows it's a tongue-in-cheek bit of monkey business, wasn't too humiliated about it all, but he's completely put down by the etched inscription on the trophy. They've misspelled his name!

Now Dickson wants to know if that makes the Long Beach outfit the worst Junior Chamber of Commerce in the United States?

FINAL remittances have been received for a memorial fund collected from the citizenry for Mrs. William Isham, whose husband, a Long Beach police officer, was killed in line of duty last August. The women howlers group here took the lead in this effort, which was supported by this dept.

Mrs. Isham has asked me to convey appreciation to all concerned.

"I consider it a tribute to Bill and to the Long Beach Police Department that so many people have contributed so generously," she writes. "Please convey my sincere thanks to your readers who were so thoughtful."

In a related development, the Police-Citizens Relations Committee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce is working on a proposed memorial plaque-and-pool setup honoring the 19 or so men who have been killed in police work here. Architect Dwight Bennett has prepared a beautiful design for a memorial to be set up in the grounds of the Public Safety Building in the Civic Center. It is to be hoped this excellent project can be carried out with cooperation of city officials and grateful citizens of the community.

DRIFTWOOD—Big news assuring that the DC10 will be built in Long Beach came in the shape of a major work order for the City Engineer's office. New facilities needed for the "10" require extensive changes at the airport and movement of many lessee operations there. Congrats to Larry Roberts, editor of the Broadcaster, house organ of the L.B. Postal Workers Union. At a banquet last night, Roberts was honored for more than a dozen years of editorship and the Broadcaster for a long, unbroken publication record.

ADM. RALPH GARRISON INSPECTS SEA CADETS AND GETS A SNAPPY SALUTE FROM SIDEBOYS AS HE LEAVES

Admiral Rates Navy League, Cadets Review Outstanding

Navy League and Sea Cadets came up with an "outstanding" at their annual inspection and review at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Inspecting officer was Reserve Rear Adm. Ralph Garrison.

The group included 57 youths from the Long Beach and Orange County area.

There were over 200 parents and guests present.

Marine Cpl. Jared K. Larsen is the training non-commissioned officer.

The Adm. Garrison Award to the top Sea and Navy League Cadet was presented by Robert Farnham, president of the Long Beach Navy League Council.

—Staff Photos by SKIP SHUMAN

Jeffrey R. Miller was the Sea Cadet winner and William Brown won for the Navy League.

Farnham termed the inspection results and review "as smart and precision-minded as I have ever seen."

The youths carried out regular Navy procedures throughout — from the time they "piped" Adm. Garrison aboard until he departed.

Capt. Vernon Fierce, Los Alamitos Reserves skipper, was in overall charge.

"Cpl. Miller's hard work with these boys paid off well," the captain said. "I know our guests were as impressed with the performance, as I was."

KING OLAV VISITS L.B. AREA

KING OLAV V
Visits San Pedro

King Olav V of Norway arrives today for a 48-hour Southland visit that will include attendance at a San Pedro church service, a visit to the McDonnell Douglas Long Beach plant, and a tour of Los Angeles Harbor.

The king, on a 15-day state visit to the United States at the invitation of President Johnson, will arrive at Los Angeles International Airport at 6:35 p.m. from San Antonio.

The arrival marks the king's third visit to the Southland, but his first as reigning monarch. King Olav, who succeeded to the throne in 1957, was here as crown prince in 1939 and again in 1942.

The king's first scheduled activity is at 7:20 p.m. today at the Norwegian Seamen's Church, 1035 S. Beacon St., San Pedro, where he will attend services.

At 10:45 a.m. Monday, the king will tour the McDonnell Douglas plant, followed by a 1 p.m. luncheon with the aircraft firm officials. The McDonnell Douglas visit, unofficial sources said, was to give the monarch a close-up look at a typical Southern California industrial plant, and was also scheduled because Scandinavian Airlines has flown a succession of Douglas DC-model planes in its fleets.

At 10 a.m. Tuesday the king will be escorted on a tour of Los Angeles Harbor, followed by a 12:15 p.m. luncheon aboard the Princess Louise with Mayor Sam Yorty.

The king's entourage does not include any members of the royal family.

Heading the local entourage is Gustav Heiderg, Norwegian consul-general, who maintains offices in San Pedro.

King Olav will also be honored at a dinner to be given by Jack Valenti, president, Motion Picture Association of America, Inc.,

Monday evening at the Century Plaza, where the royal party will be headquartered.

King Olav will leave Tuesday afternoon for San Francisco.

Cultures of East, West Compared

"Eastern man and Western man are the same biological animals, but beyond that similarity, their cultures make them very different."

Thus Dr. Laurence Thompson of the Asian Studies Department of USC voiced a recurrent theme at the third annual comparative literature conference at California State College at Long Beach Saturday.

The annual conference — titled "East and West — In Literature, Culture and the Arts" — viewed the contrasts and likenesses of the Orient and the Occident.

DR. THOMPSON, speaking on an afternoon panel, lauded comparative studies in all fields from literature to public affairs.

"The comparative method shows us both the variety in cultures and the essential humanness of all people," he said.

"But," he cautioned, "comparative literature is not going to do away with poverty or war. Just because we understand other peoples doesn't necessarily mean we'll be able to live happily with them."

CITY ARTS COUNCIL PICKS NEW DIRECTOR

The Long Beach Regional Arts Council has announced that Clara Andrews will be their new executive director effective Wednesday.

Mrs. Andrews, a prominent figure in local civic community service, will resign her present position as the executive director of the Long Beach Community Volunteer Office.

As a civic leader, Mrs. Andrews has been associated with the volunteer service since 1951. She has also worked with the Community Welfare Council and the United Way.

MARRIED and the mother of two, Mrs. Andrews said she is looking forward to the challenge of the Arts Council post with anticipation.

"The Arts Council is not only something the commu-

'Dutchess' of Pike Gets Policemen's Stamp of Approval

By WALT MURRAY

Dutchie Allen, flower lady of the Pike and ardent admirer of policemen, has proven again that concerned citizens can get things done.

When a new six-cent stamp honoring policemen is issued May 17, the outspoken "Dutchess" of the Pike can take part of the credit.

Dutchie — with other people across the country who believe society owes police officers a great debt — besieged the postmaster general for a stamp honoring policemen.

And when the government recently decided to issue such a stamp, the postmaster general's office sent Dutchie a note thanking her for her concern.

The stamp will go on sale in time for National Police Week, May 12-18.

Dutchie, who sells flowers in bars along West Ocean Boulevard and in the museum zone, has adopted the Long Beach police officers who patrol the area — and the policemen have adopted her.

"They're the kindest boys in the world," she says. "People don't think of cops as humans, they think of them as cops. Well, let me tell you, they're more human than most of us."

"No one bothers to look at the policeman's human side," she scolds.

Dutchie, who refuses to reveal how old she is except to concede she's "middle aged," has in turn earned the love of the police.

They buy her candy and jewelry and perfume on holidays, because she has no family to bring her gifts on days like Christmas and her birthday.

L.B. Girls Win Concert Dates

Two Long Beach high school music students are among 95 top young instrumentalists in the nation headed this week to rehearse for a concert in New York's Carnegie Hall under the direction of famed conductor Leopold Stokowski.

Laura McCrary, 18, of 1355 Grand Ave. and Jane Zook, 17, of 6100 Birkdale St., also will play a preliminary concert in Constitution Hall, Washington, D.C. The girls will board an American Airlines Astrojet Wednesday for Washington, first stop on their eastern tour.

The Washington concert on May 7 and the New York event May 9 are the culmination of third annual "American Youth Performs" nationwide music talent search sponsored by American Airlines. The orchestra and 120-voice chorus which will appear were selected from schools in more than 100 cities.

Laura, a six-year viola student, was selected as a candidate for the program by Michael Pappone, music director at Millikan High. Jane has studied oboe six years and was nominated by Roland Sandberg, Wilson High music director.

Both girls were required to submit tape-recorded performances for auditions in New York. The recordings were used in the final selection for the concerts and also to determine qualifications for musical scholarship awards.

Arrangements for the Long Beach participants were coordinated by Fred Ohlendorf, Long Beach Unified Schools supervisor of music, and Walter Krieger, American Airlines representative.

Race Issue Is America's Big Story

MOST OF us are satiated with reading about racial strife. The subject is ugly and repellent, perhaps because it challenges the sluggish conscience.

Dislike it as we may, however, this is the dominant story in the domestic history of the United States for this decade. It may remain so for decades to come.

The story is more than a national crisis. How to deal with it is a primary concern of officials and public agencies, including police departments, in hundreds of cities throughout the country.

Every person of good will must go on reading and hearing about racial discord. He must learn as much as he can about its causes and what is being done to prevent or modify it. And he must do so in the context of his own community.

For these reasons the Independent, Press-Telegram offers a seven-part series by a staff reporter, Jim Goodrich, on the facts of racial separatism and hostility, actual and potential. The first installment appears today.

A REFERENCE point for the series was the 1,500-page report issued March 3 by the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders. This report documented the "shame of our cities" and the "crisis of our nation," as Goodrich explains.

His series relates the essence of the commission report to conditions in Long Beach's predominantly black central city and the efforts here to foster mutual confidence between "two societies . . . separate and unequal."

Long Beach has been fortunate in the relative calm of its race relations. If it is to remain that way, all of us must engage ourselves in the long, difficult movement toward one society living in peace.

economy by making it harder and more costly for everyone to borrow money. Commercial banks borrowing from the Federal Reserve System will have to pay an interest rate of 5½ instead of 5 per cent. Rates to corporate and individual buyers will go up all along the line, possibly to as high as 7½ or 8 per cent on long-term home loans.

Obviously something is wrong with the economic structure when money to buy or build a home becomes that costly. Less drastic and more effective measures are essential.

Martin believes that most of the answer must come from an increase in federal taxes and a cut in federal spending. The Committee for Economic Development, an organization of independent-minded businessmen, agrees. It urges adoption of the proposed 10 per cent surcharge on individual and personal incomes, along with a multi-billion dollar reduction of expenditures.

LIKE THE increase in credit rates, both of these measures are unpleasant and unpopular. But no painless way has been found to remedy feverish inflation. The alternative of price and wage controls does not exactly fit the ailment; in any event, it is both more painful and more dangerous.

The House of Representatives returned to work last week after a 10-day spring vacation. High on its calendar is the Senate-passed 10 per cent tax raise and $6 billion spending reduction. It's a good thing the House members are well rested; they will need their best energy to perform major surgery in an election year.

ceived $6,075 on that account. Legislators also are entitled to $150 a month to apply on lease payments on a car, along with a gasoline credit card for which the state pays the bills. All this adds up to a tidy package of around $25,000 a year.

In the 1966 revision the voters authorized the Legislature to raise members' salaries up to 5 per cent per year, except that no increase can become effective during the two-year term of an assemblyman.

If the bill does not pass at this session, legislative salaries will remain frozen until 1971. From the outside it looks like a painless freeze.

MOST Californians favor a well-paid Legislature, as their votes attest. But the pending bill does seem to be overdoing a good thing. One certain effect would be to encourage other state employees to take a hard line for massive raises, budget or no budget.

The bill should remain exactly where it is — in limbo, with no hearing date set and no apparent chance for passage.

Once Again We'll Pay for L.A. Parking

From Our L.A. Bureau

COUNTY politicians, goaded by downtown Los Angeles interests, are prepared to soak taxpayers county-wide for a gold-plated civic center parking lot-mall facility that will cost $10,000 for each parking space provided.

The four-level underground garage is slated for 2½ acres bounded by the County's Hall of Records, the Law Library, Hill Street and Broadway — in the middle of the smoggy downtown area.

THE PLUSH facility will provide only 600 parking spaces. But the landscaping and terracing of the mall atop the garage will be so lavish that the total development cost will be an estimated $6 million. That doesn't include a price tag on the multi-million-dollar land value.

The plan was approved by supervisors Tuesday.

This isn't to say that the latest addition to the civic-center mall won't add some needed sparkle to the drab flophouses and poverty-row area in the smoggy central city.

But the latest free-spending program raises some serious questions on the scope of the county's economic policy. Can taxpayers justify a $10,000-per-car-parking lot in the same era when a serious fund pinch faces such vital services as welfare, law enforcement, institutions, etc.?

WHY IS THE county saddled with the cost of beautifying downtown Los Angeles? Why does the county continue to locate more offices in downtown Los Angeles when the congestion is so great that it is uneconomical to provide parking facilities?

This latest gold-plated parking and mall frill comes on the heels of other give-aways to the downtown Los Angeles power bloc. A multi-million-dollar square block of land is to be given to the Los Angeles Performing Arts Academy — a resource that could have been sold to ease tax pressures.

The downtown Los Angeles Music Center — in competition with private centers throughout the county — is subsidized by county taxpayers.

ALSO, COUNTY joint-powers backing was granted to the controversial $38 million downtown Los Angeles convention center.

Increasingly, suburban taxpayers are being taken for a fiscal ride by powerful civic center interests. The favorite sport of downtown Los Angeles: finding a way to stick other areas with the bill for downtown beautification projects.

The concept of a mall, "El Pasco de Los Pobladores de Los Angeles," recalls the exciting history of yesterday. The Los Angeles area that benefits from it should pay for it, not countywide taxpayers.

The county justifies its parking complex by pointing to new downtown Los Angeles buildings planned for county offices.

If the parking is that costly, one would think the county would review its plan for a new $29.4 million Criminal Courts Building, a $9.9 million Health Department Building and other facilities.

THE COUNTY should locate its new offices in more economical locations — outside downtown Los Angeles. Elsewhere, the costs are lower on land acquisition, parking, development, etc.

Modern industry long ago turned to suburban relocation and decentralization to cut costs.

Eventually the county must decide whether its prime aim is to provide Los Angeles with a glittering downtown skyline of new county-built buildings — or efficient, low-cost government.

It is time some one blew the whistle on the downtown Los Angeles power bloc. Otherwise, countywide taxpayers unwittingly will be picking up the tab for a costly skyline redevelopment project.

Wirtz-Pogo Pattern for A U.S. Ethic

IT MAKES ME ASHAMED, said W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Labor, that we should "settle" for Social Security.

In the context of his remarks Friday at the Coconut Grove luncheon honoring women Democratic workers, Wirtz was not distressed with Social Security itself — only that Americans should regard it as an illustrious end to one's life.

It would make a great deal more sense, he said, to be born at the age of 85, spend the next 15 to 20 years on a Social Security basis, then have the satisfaction of working for 40 years and, after that, the marvelous experience of going to school and being educated and finally "have the doctor pick you up by the heels and pat you goodbye."

Wirtz is distressed also at the relative meaninglessness of his own department's work force statistics. We can measure whether a person is on a job "but there is no social indicator to measure the quality or equality of human life."

The Secretary's regard and endorsement for Vice President Humphrey is tied up in that regard for the quality of life. As if to match claims of courage made by supporters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Wirtz told newsmen Humphrey said the "hard-to-say" things about civil rights 20 years ago.

Asked if he agreed with the Kerner Report — the President's commission on civil disorders — that ours is a white racist society, that we are heading for two societies, white and black, separate and unequal, Wirtz answered, "I sure do."

If it had been any "less strong or less specific," he said, "it would have been wrong."

TO NEWSMEN, and again to the Democratic women, Wirtz reemphasized commission conclusions, "the most scathing indictment of this society in its history. No one can claim to be well read if he has not read all the way through it. It's the most important document ever to be issued in this country (excepting the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution). Anyone who has not read it is a functional illiterate as far as his obligations of citizenship are concerned."

He recalled the Martin Luther King funeral oration line: "We know not whether we face chaos or community." And UN Ambassador Arthur Goldberg's parting shot that we live in "a world in which survival is still an open question."

Wirtz chose upbeat. "The case for the prospect of community is better than the case for chaos. There's a great deal to be said for justifiable love for this country."

HE TURNED to Pogo for text: "We have met the enemy and it is us . . . Our problem is unsurmountable opportunity."

The hope, Wirtz suggested, is "the change going on in our national ethic." As recently as five or 10 years ago, he said, "most of us were fatalists, predestinists and determinists — whatever happened to us was the fault of others and we thereby lessened our own responsibility."

"We've recognized suddenly, in the last few years, the continuing human capacity to perfect human relationships."

"But we don't get (in this country) what we STAND for — we get what we WORK for . . . As citizens, we have got to INVENT the future . . . We ought to be talking about social opportunity instead of social security — and we are not far away from doing just that."

'The Name's McCarthy, Not McCasey . . .'

Don New Look, Bobby Urged

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Alarmed by recent polls, advisors to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy have been strongly urging him to don a new image for the crucial California primary campaign.

Californians close to the New York Senator are fearful that he'll lose the state to Sen. Eugene McCarthy, unless a "new Bobby" is projected to Golden State voters.

Recent state-wide polls have shown a narrowing of the gap between Kennedy and the Minnesotan, and Kennedy's California partisans fear the development of a "gut opposition" to the New Yorker.

THE KENNEDY advisors want the senator to recognize that the average California Democrat is a peculiar breed of cat and essentially is more conservative than his brethren in other large population centers.

They see the key as the great middle class of the "barbecue society" and feel that Bobby should:

—Concentrate more on consumer and financial issues in a state where the average guy currently is smarting from the effects of income taxes that have doubled and trebled this year.

—Go after the farm vote in a state where 40 per cent of the payroll is tied to agriculture.

—Soft pedal the civil rights issue in a state where an open occupancy measure was turned down 2-1 in the 1964 election.

These advisors are particularly dismayed by such Kennedy demonstrations as appearances in Watts and with farm union leader Cesar Chavez.

"FOR EVERY farm worker vote Bobby gets by associating with Chavez, he loses the votes of four Teamsters and cannery workers," declares a Kennedy partisan from the state's farm belt who believes Chavez-led strikes are resented by other workers because they resulted in work stoppages for them.

But most important for Kennedy in California is confronting the "ruthless image" — the impression of a man who opportunistically came into the race after McCarthy proved President Johnson's vulnerability.

These Kennedy advisors remember their recent history all too well and point to the fact that Republicans lost the governorship and a Senate seat in 1958 when Sen. William F. (Big Bill) Knowland shoved aside Gov. Goodwin Knight for the gubernatorial nomination. This looked like ruthless opportunism and the appearance helped defeat both Knowland and Knight.

They feel that the only way for Kennedy to overcome the image is to meet it head on — as he did at Los Angeles a week ago — instead of doing a toe dance around it.

THE MOST interesting thing about the alarm behind the advice being given to Bobby is that it hardly existed when April bloomed. Most Kennedy partisans believed that the state was in the bag.

Now they're deeply concerned not only over the trend shown in the recent polls but also by large-scale registrations by "stop Kennedy" Republicans and evidence that big labor will give behind-the-scenes support to McCarthy.

Labor leaders generally favor Hubert Humphrey, who won't be on the California ballot, and calculate that a blunting of Kennedy in the state's key primary will help the vice president get the prize at Chicago in August.

It's A Little Too Soon For 2nd Raise

IN A RARE show of unanimity, the 20 Republican state senators have voted in caucus to oppose a bill that would increase the annual salary of California legislators from $16,000 to $17,600.

Their action was a stroke of good politics, for no public official has ever hurt himself by opposing a raise in pay for his own office. It also amounts to fiscal restraint at a time when state administrators say funds are short and services must be cut.

ONLY 16 months ago legislative salaries went up from $7,200 to $16,000 a year under the constitutional revision approved at the election in November, 1966.

The lawmakers also get a $25 daily living allowance while the Legislature is in session. Last year each senator and assemblyman re-

L. A. C. SAYS Credibility Gap Continues to Widen

By L. A. COLLINS Sr.

ONE OF THE greatest problems of government is that of regaining the confidence of the public in government information releases. This was indicated at the recent meeting of newspaper editors in Washington, D.C. It is also raised by the support by Robert McNamara for Senator Kennedy. It should be recalled that a large part of McNamara's unpopularity was caused by his department taking the attitude that it was alright to lie to the public at times. His chief assistant Sylvester was widely quoted and criticized for this attitude in dealing with Vietnam releases and in general concerning Defense Department news. This loss of public confidence was the reason for McNamara being kicked upstairs—to the World Bank. It must be assumed he would be a part of the Kennedy Administration should he become President. TV tapes of McNamara's support of Kennedy are being used in the Indiana primaries.

A report by a committee of newspaper editors on the Johnson credibility gap gives some reasons why newspapers are critical of the way news releases are made. An Associated Press release from Washington, D.C., says:

"REPORTERS have found it tougher to cope with news manipulation by the Johnson Administration than with others before it, a committee of editors said Wednesday.

"Under L.B.J., the coping is immeasurably more difficult because official deceit is practiced both when there is a reason for it and when there is not," said a report by the American Society of Newspaper Editors. The annual report, by the society's Freedom of Information and Press-Bar Committee, said, "The credibility gap yawns wider in the Johnson Administration than it did in preceding regimes largely because this Administration follows a policy of obscurantism for its own sake." Webster's dictionary defines obscurantism as 'deliberately making something obscure or withholding knowledge from the general public.'

"The committee gave this example: In May, 1967, the President was asked at a news conference if he was considering replacement of Henry Cabot Lodge as ambassador to Saigon. The answer was an unqualified no. A few days later the appointment of Ellsworth Bunker to succeed Lodge was announced. The White House said later that the President had told the truth when he said he wasn't considering any change because the decision had already been made."

"The committee commented, 'The President and those around him speak eloquently in defense of freedom of information. But when it comes to releasing information which the Administration can control, there is far more emphasis on control than on release.

"The Pueblo incident, the surprise and success of the Tet offensive, and the shocking post-mortem of the 1964 Tonkin Gulf incident all combined to damage further whatever credibility the Administration had left. The truth had been a casualty in all three cases," the report continued.

"The believability of the government had become a major factor in the war and in the unity of the nation." The report added, "Credibility has become such an issue that the Administration potshots the press to siphon off some of the heat. There was Secretary of State Dean Rusk hinting at the familiar charge that a free press helps the enemy, with his question: Whose side are you on?"

"THE COMMITTEE said blaming the press for bad news was becoming more widespread among the public, too, partly because of the 'sheer volume of bad news.'

"As the press is generally blamed," it predicted, "the danger is that more and more people will begin to feel that what they want is less freedom of information."

The above are only a few of the examples of misleading information given out by government agencies. It is not comforting to now find Mr. McNamara in the Kennedy camp. No one has given more misleading news releases than Kennedy during the time he was Attorney General and his brother's advisor during the Bay of Pigs fiasco — or his indefinite campaign statements he has been making on Vietnam or our economic and social problems. From him and the President the credibility gap has widened with little hope it will be closed.

Assessor's Tax Stand

EDITOR:

In discussing my initiative proposal to limit property taxes to one per cent of market value, I have compared our present tax situation to the old fable about the young men who were challenged to break a large bundle of sticks all tied together. Even the strongest of them couldn't break the whole bundle. But then up stepped a man who, by taking and breaking one stick at a time, soon had the entire bundle broken.

This, in effect, is what I am trying to do with this property tax ceiling initiative — to take one stick, in this case, the property tax stick, and make a start at breaking the bundle.

Everyone agrees the property tax is too high; everyone agrees the entire tax structure needs reform; but everyone looks at the whole bundle of taxes and no one is willing to take that first step that must be taken before we are ever going to get any meaningful tax reform.

And in the meantime, special interests get their special tax exemptions at the expense of the homeowner, who gets nothing but bigger tax bills.

Our initiative calls for separating the property-related services from the people-related services, namely, schools and welfare, and using the property tax only for the property-related services performed by the county, cities and special districts. This logically relates the property tax to benefits received — a position supported by the Southern California Research Council, Governor Reagan and prominent economists such as Dr. Gerhard Rostvold.

The proposal that the state should finance welfare costs is also supported by Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh.

I do not offer this initiative as a "miracle cure" for all our tax ills. I do offer it as a beginning of the overhaul of the tax structure the Independent, Press-Telegram called for in its editorial of April 15.

Time to Grow Up

EDITOR:

Let's all face this terrible struggle and fracas we are in with courage, respect and guts.

More and more patriots should emerge and lead the weak and discouraged to survival.

This war is not a personal crisis, it belongs to all of us if we like it or not.

It's about time we all grow up as men and women.

With continuous prejudice and diversions we destroy our principles and our rights.

Sick Society

EDITOR:

A friend of mine was puzzled over statements connecting Dr. Martin Luther King's murder with a sick society. He felt that the assassin alone was guilty. I cannot agree.

I know too many people who find sardonic pleasure in mimicking others whose accents or color are different from theirs, who scoff at others living in substandard housing and who detest the jobless and uneducated. Many of these same people would call King a communist or rabble rouser. They would have responded in kind to Jesus the Jew, Gandhi the Indian, or Socrates the Greek. I deeply believe that the sickening civil disorder in our cities is a symptom of, an ironic response to, a far more insidious sickness within a large segment of our society.

Humphrey Is Best Qualified

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — A private poll among professionals in government and politics in this city would show an overwhelming judgment that in the whole observable field of candidates on both sides of the fence, Hubert Humphrey possesses the best collection of concrete qualifications for the presidency.

Persons outside those professional categories may attribute what weight they will to that judgment. It is arrived at by the kind of objective technical analysis for which not much room exists in campaign competition for popular favor.

The professionals note that Humphrey is the kind of candidate it is possible to vote for, in the positive sense, as distinguished from those whose hopes rest on the prospect that fewer will vote against them than against a rival.

Almost the only audible opposition to Humphrey right now comes from ultra liberals among Democrats (and not even from all of them) who claim that Humphrey, to serve his own ambitions, has betrayed their cause after having once been its leader. The professionals argue that Humphrey, on the contrary, has made himself more effective in that cause than his critics by enlisting support from constructive conservatives. That technique, incidentally, was urged upon the ADA last fall by one of its own more savvy stars, Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

In the catalog of achievements, the listing of Humphrey's productive legislative initiatives is longer than that of any of his competitors, including as it does the Peace Corps, the Food for Peace Program, the treaty banning nuclear tests in the atmosphere, the Alliance for Progress, and Medicare, plus various efforts in the field of disarmament not yet reality but not yet dead, either.

FREDERIC COLLINS

The professional analysis of Humphrey also takes into account the fact, which is nothing to boast about but has contributed greatly toward making him what he is today, that his experience as a youth and young man taught him things his rivals can never know about people in trouble. Drought, depression, and a plague of grasshoppers were enough to seem like the malevolent workings of a blind fate against which there was no way to fight. There are those in the population today who seem to themselves to be the targets of the same awful forces.

HIS PARLIAMENTARY generalship in bringing the 1964 Civil Rights bill through the Senate, involving skill, persuasion, and hard work, is counted as surpassing any of the achievements of Lyndon Johnson, who is causally thought to have invented Senate leadership.

An incomplete list of his assets could wind up with reference to his spontaneous enjoyment of existence, even its most rigorous and adverse intervals.

There are those who are not charmed by Humphrey "because there's something about him," not otherwise defined.

It would seem excessively pessimistic to regard that as a serious handicap to his candidacy, because it probably is not the kind of thing which decides people's minds when they are picking a president.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Have you considered your position should Nixon, Kennedy and McCarthy drop out?"

Too Much Help?

Now Humphrey Backers Offer Aid to McCarthy

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Sen. Eugene McCarthy stubbornly refused help from Sen. Robert Kennedy in the Wisconsin primary campaign, but now he's wondering how to handle similar offers of help in upcoming primaries from Vice President Hubert Humphrey's supporters.

CAPITAL CHATTER

Repeated pledges of assistance in the form of manpower and even money have been directed to the McCarthy camp in recent days by Humphrey backers who want to forge a 'stop Bobby Kennedy' alliance with the independent-minded Minnesota senator.

The immediate focus of the Humphrey camp's generosity is on Indiana's May 7 primary, where McCarthy and Kennedy have their first head-on clash. But the offers of help also extend to later primaries where the two Democratic contenders are pitted against each other, such as Indiana, Nebraska, Oregon and California.

CONTEMPLATION of a topsy-turvy political year caused Rep. Charles S. Gubser, R-Calif., to shake his head recently.

"By fall," Gubser observed, "I wouldn't be surprised to see the New York Mets and the Washington Senators in the World Series."

Jobs Becoming Big South

TIFTON, Ga. — One week spent below the Mason-Dixon Line convinces me that the Negro revolution, now convulsing big Northern cities, may be headed back South. It began ten years ago with troops in Little Rock, police dogs in Birmingham, riots and bombings in Mississippi. Then it swung North to New York, Newark, Detroit and Chicago. Now there are telltale signs it is swinging South again.

The South has scored tremendous advances since the Supreme Court's school desegregation decision of 1954. The buses, the railroad stations, playgrounds, parks, most of the schools are desegregated. A Negro has run for Congress in Mississippi. Negro sheriffs have been elected in Alabama. A Negro has served as chairman of the school board in Louisville.

But the Negro battle cry is now economic equality. Having won his civil rights, he wants job rights. And younger Negro leaders are not willing to hold still for education and job training. As a result, there have been twenty fire-bombings in the relatively progressive university town of Gainesville, Fla., between January 1 and March 15; and there have been attacks on the police in the up-to-date city of Greenville, Miss., for the first time in history.

There are two schools of thought in the South regarding Negro progress. The first believes that the Negro is not taking advantage of what he's got. The second believes the South — and the rest of the nation — is moving too slowly toward racial equality.

Probably Negroes have made their greatest progress in Atlanta, where there are five universities, all available to Negroes, and where the college-educated Negro can get a job immediately and get promoted rapidly. In Atlanta, far-sighted leaders like Mayor Ivan Allen are looking for qualified Negroes to appoint as firemen, policemen, and other municipal jobs, but having difficulty finding them.

In Georgia I found that people have soured on their governor, Lester Maddox, who once handed out ax handles to prevent his restaurant from being integrated. The racial ideas of former Gov. Ellis Amalf, though far ahead of his time, now represent the majority of Georgians.

Rights Issue

Even in the rural farm area of south Georgia there is a definite desire for economic opportunity for Negroes.

However, you can understand Negro impatience. In Jackson, Miss., the State Democratic Executive Committee has just turned down a proposal by Ronald Frank, who described himself as a "white conservative," to give Negroes more participation in Democratic political affairs. Mississippi has had a popular ratio of 60 per cent white, 40 per cent black, though recently the black population has dropped to 38 per cent.

Most Southern business leaders recognize the importance of job training and are pushing ahead to try to meet the requirements of the Negro industrial revolution. Most Southern governors are not. Governors like John Bell Williams of Mississippi, Lurleen Wallace of Alabama, Lester Maddox of Georgia, have their feet planted firmly in the doorway against change and will keep them there until the looting and arson of the North spreads South. If it does, the white majority in the South is a lot tougher than the white majority of the North, and the Ku Klux Klan will undoubtedly ride again.

Young GI Qualifies Under New Disability Amendment

A 21-year-old soldier, permanently disabled by wounds in Vietnam action, has become one of the first young servicemen to qualify for disability benefits under 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act.

Philip Steenrod, a patient at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital, has been awarded a $133 monthly benefit.

Although Social Security records are confidential, Steenrod permitted his story to be told so that other young workers will become aware of the benefits offered under the new amendments in cases of severe disability.

PREVIOUSLY, federal regulations required that applicants must have worked at least five years under Social Security coverage before they could be eligible for benefits. That excluded Steenrod, with only 3 1/2 years, and he was turned down for benefits late last year.

But effective Feb. 1, 1968, Steenrod — along with many others who became disabled before their 24th birthday — needed only 1 1/2 years of coverage under the new amendments to qualify for disability benefits.

Al Henderson, field representative for the Long Beach Social Security office, aided in filing a new application for Steenrod, resulting in the award.

STEENROD, of Sidney, Ohio, was wounded May 3, 1967, while on patrol in the An Hoa Valley of Vietnam with nine other men of the First Air Cavalry.

"Two platoons of North Vietnamese regulars pinned us down with hand grenades and automatic rifle fire about 11 o'clock that night," Steenrod said. "I was hit five times."

Steenrod was rescued by helicopter the next morning, and spent time in various hospitals before being brought to the VA Hospital here, a center for paraplegic research and treatment.

J. Clayton Hollister, head of the local Social Security office at 1235 Pine Ave., said Steenrod's story was being told to call attention to the new amendments. He urged any person who became disabled prior to reaching age 24 and who has at least six quarters (1 1/2 years) in jobs covered by Social Security, to contact the local office.

L.B. Opens Applications for Civil Service Posts

If you've had experience as a telephone operator and you're not busy, give the Long Beach Civil Service Board a ring.

The board is accepting applications, through next Wednesday, for city jobs as telephone operators. The jobs pay from $380 to $469 a month.

Applicants must be available to work day, swing or night shifts, as well as weekends. Tests for the positions will be held May 7 at 8 a.m. in Veterans Memorial Building.

The city also is seeking applicants for positions as correctional officer, which pays $495 to $610 monthly. Applications must be filed Thursday, and exams will be May 9 at 8 a.m. in Veterans Memorial Building.

Other jobs now open in city government are civil engineering assistant, engineering aide, harbor engineering assistant, accountant, draftsman and stenographers. Applications will be accepted through July 25.

Additional information and application forms may be obtained from the Civil Service Board, Room 332, Municipal Utilities Building, 215 W. Broadway.

Survey to Aid Special Cases

Norwalk-La Mirada Unified School District is conducting a survey of exceptional children in the area to provide programs for adequate school services for all children.

Dr. Louis G. Zeyen, superintendent, said the survey is designed to locate visually handicapped, deaf or hard of hearing, crippled or health impaired children as well as trainable mentally retarded youngsters.

All residents of the district who know of children in the various handicapped conditions who are not currently receiving special educational services are asked to contact Miss Bea Crowner at the Norwalk-La Mirada Unified School District headquarters.

Council OKs Dredging of L.A. River

About 250,000 cubic yards of silt will be dredged from Los Angeles River channel in the vicinity of the Magnolia Avenue bridge under plans approved by the City Council.

The city manager's office has been authorized to advertise for bids on the project, which will cost an estimated $225,000.

City Engineer Jess D. Gilkerson said silt deposited during the winter season in the river delta has raised the elevation of the channel bottom in the vicinity of the bridge from -47 to -32 feet.

Design on the piers of the bridge was based on the -47 level, Gilkerson said, so the dredging is necessary before Guy F. Atkinson Co. can begin construction.

The dredged material will be deposited on Pier J to the south and east of the Reef Restaurant.

City Manager John R. Mansell said the material will eventually be used in site development on the triangular land area on Pier J which is to be developed as part of the Queen Mary Project.

DILUTED DOLLAR

Jet Hetrick, Orange County Goodwill Industries controller, measures 1968 dollar against buying power of today's deflated cartwheel. Hetrick's coin collection will be part of hobby show at Goodwill plant during National Goodwill Week, May 6-10. Public's invited to tour plant, 5th and Fairview streets, Santa Ana, where physically handicapped are trained for jobs.

L.B. Racial Meeting

A second meeting for the formation of an urban coalition in Long Beach similar to one recently set up in Los Angeles has been set for May 15 in the First Providence Missionary Baptist Church, 801 E. Hill St., at 8 p.m.

The Los Angeles coalition seeks to bring together all organizations in the community as a sounding board for proposals to lessen racial tensions and forward de facto integration in the city.

In an earlier meeting at Grant Chapel A. M. E. Church, only nine of the 40 persons present were official spokesmen for the groups they represented. Others were interested parties from churches, neighborhood groups, the police department, schools and civic organizations.

Mrs. Raymond A. (Wilma) Sites, president of the Long Beach Area Council of Churches, and Rev. Harvey Williams, president of the Long Beach Community Improvement League, who had called the meeting, served as unofficial chairmen.

On two points nearly all were agreed:

1. There is a need for all groups seeking to overcome prejudice and racism to have a central forum in which to arrive at unity of purpose.

2. Long Beach should form its own coalition rather than being swallowed up by Los Angeles.

A steering committee and a membership committee were appointed and instructed to contact civic, church, and business organizations and industries.

CITY INITIATES 'STANTON DAYS'

A battle of the bands, races, golf tournament, stage show and beauty contest will mark the city of Stanton's initial "Stanton Days" which gets under way Wednesday.

The five-day celebration, sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and city Recreation and Parks Department, officially will open with the 6:30 p.m. battle of the bands on the carnival grounds at Beach Boulevard and Chapman Avenue.

Thirteen bands will compete in the contest which runs from 6:30-10 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

The golf tournament is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. Thursday at the Los Alamitos Country Club. Fifty-four golfers will participate.

Field events including egg-toss contests and potato scrambles are set for 10 a.m. Saturday at the Wakeham School, 7772 Chapman Ave.

The celebration highlight will get under way that evening when a dozen young women will vie for the Miss Stanton title 7:30 p.m. in the community hall, 7800 Katella Ave.

They are Gloria Brewer; 16; Terri Duarte, 17; Karen Stokes; 16; Robin Nelson, 16; Mary McGuire, 17; Sharon McAley, 18; Laura Shirley, 16; Jan Chambliss, 18; Catherine Doane, 17; Mary McDowell, 18; Ronnie Lopez, 17; and Jacqueline Elam, 16.

The carnival will run through Sunday.

Clean That Garage for 'Army' Drive

The Salvation Army's annual Spring Clean-Up campaign begins Wednesday with all of the Army's Red Shield trucks poised to help housecleaners remove unneeded items from home and garage.

Conducted by the Men's Social Service Center of the Army, the drive is calculated to give work to the homeless, unemployed and handicapped men who come to the Salvation Army for help. "Campaigns such as this are what makes our human rehabilitation program function," said Lt. Col. R. D. Gifford, general manager for the area encompassing Long Beach, Torrance, Redondo Beach, San Pedro, Gardena, Bellflower, Norwalk and Hawaiian Gardens.

In addition to driving the Red Shield trucks, Salvation Army personnel also serve as truck helpers, work in the Army's repair shops and clean furniture and clothing for resale in the nine Red Shield stores located in the above listed communities. The facilities are regarded as a boon for value-conscious buyers.

"Low income shoppers make many purchases at prices within their budgets," said the colonel. The rehabilitative program has the support of a wide range of community leaders in all of the areas listed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Service what you need—do this through greater effort at communication. Many want to understand. Give them a chance. A Gemini individual could play significant role in adding to your possessions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Cycle high. One born under Taurus may need encouragement. Give it. The more you offer, the more you are likely to receive. Watch dress, appearance. Many look, judge and try to learn.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Time to be retiring today. Do more listening than asserting. Activity shown in connection with organization, club, group. You get news, which requires you to exercise discretion.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): How you react to reality concerning wishes is emphasized. Today you find out where friends stand and why. Be analytical. Face truth and it will set you free. Overtime work indicated.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Duties can be transformed to pleasures. Key is finding out the way and the potential. Look beyond immediate indications. The future beckons; it can be bright if you heed the call.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Deal with situations, persons, ideas. Means what concerns you, not what concerns them. You must be willing to reach, express, judge. Nothing is handed to you on a silver platter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Follow through on things. No matter how erratic a plan it may be, believe in it. Do some work, test, observe. Key is to live up to principles. Ignore associates, coworkers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Act on public relations, how others react to your ideas. See clearly. Don't round the waters with far-out theories. Use of partner can help if you know your true drive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Study, volunteer message. Your way of conveying basic facts is significant. You may have skipped essential details. It is, correct oversight. Today you can catch up. Do so.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Greater freedom of thought, action is indicated. Personal magnetism, talent today is high. You can sell programs, ideas. People are drawn to you. Take advantage by honestly expressing yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Give needed attention to details around home, office. Key is adjustment. What you seek is close at hand. Know this. Avoid going too far afield. Close ranks with family members.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, you are a natural leader. Your voice is regarded as unusual. You could excel in drama. Social activity accelerates—you have more opportunity now than in recent past.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Gemini. Social word to Pisces. Harmonize relations at home.

THE PENNEY STORY

Wanted: A better name for "white goods"

By ROBERTA NASH

Once upon a time, white goods were white. The name was given to things like sheets and pillowcases and towels, etc. The name is still used today.

But today, life is much more colorful. White goods are red and blue and green and yellow and just about any other color you can name. Yet our ads still say "Come on in for our White Goods values."

There must be a better name but we haven't been able to think of it. Can you? Please send your suggestion to me in care of the manager of your Penney store.

Skeleton 10,000 Years Old Dug Up

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A woolly mastodon that roamed lower New York State about 10,000 years ago has turned up in Albany, dead and decidedly thinner.

The skeleton of the elephant-like creature, about three-quarters intact, was turned over to the New York State Education Department by construction men building an interstate road in Orange County.

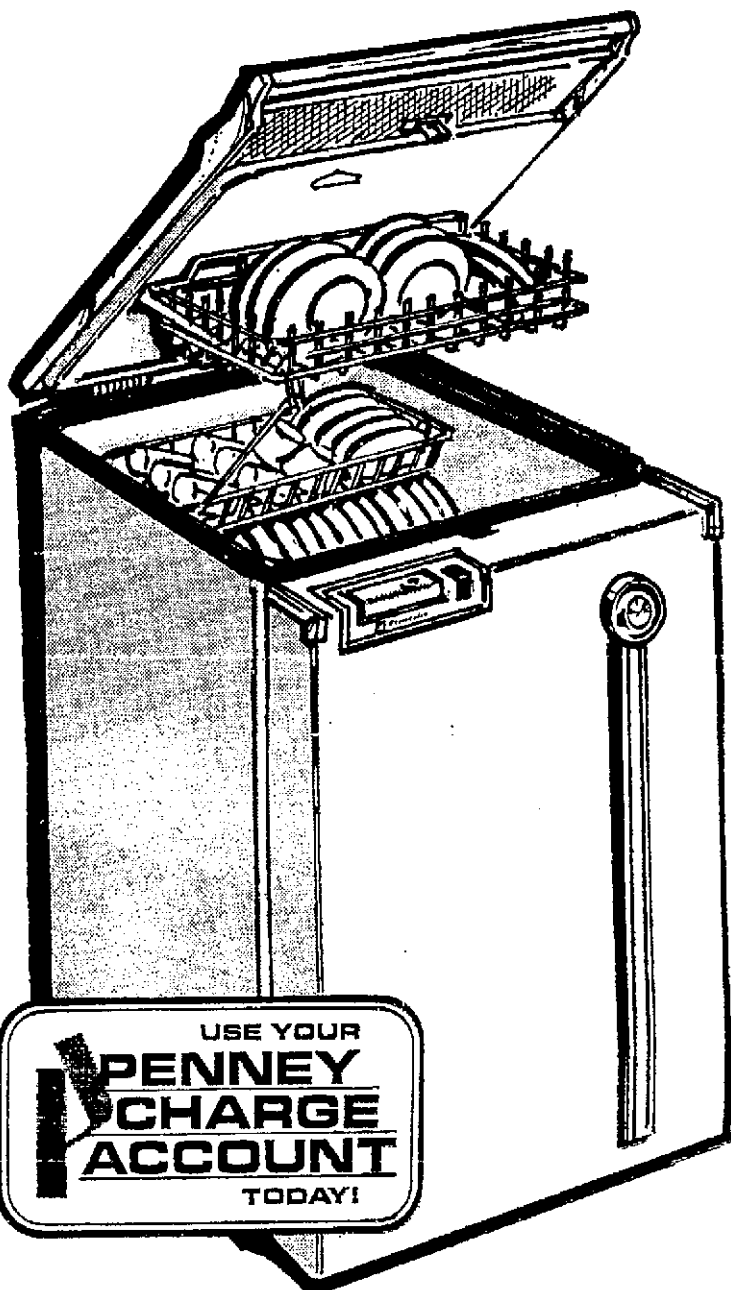

State Paleontologist Donald W. Fisher estimated the skeleton to be about 10,000 years old and said that a more accurate figure would be available after scientists run radio-isotope tests on the remains.

L.B. Pair Team Up on Copter in Viet

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

Odds are against two Army helicopter crewmen from the same city being on the same chopper — but two Long Beach GIs beat the percentages at Phu Loi, South Vietnam.

When Spec. 5 Bill MacDougall, 21, returned to Phu Loi after Christmas leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William L. MacDougall, 3767 California Ave., there was Spec. 4 Fred Robedee, 20, assigned to "Judie" with him.

Robedee, son of Mrs. Rosemary Robedee, 6419 Marita Ave., is home now finishing up 30-days leave after extending his tour six months — the same as MacDougall.

Robedee said he did not know MacDougall until they met in Vietnam.

"I went to St. Anthony's High School and Bill went to Poly High," he said.

More than 20 per cent of 213th Assault Support Helicopter Co. (Black Cats) are from Southern California. Robedee said, "But it was sure a surprise to pair up with Bill."

"Judie," a CH47 Chinook all-purpose copter, has been flown all over by the two GIs — MacDougall the flight engineer and Robedee the crew chief.

The Black Cats are attached to the 1st Infantry Division (Big Red 1).

"We supported Dak To, Loc Ninh and were right in the middle of the action during the Tet offensive. Several times we were in 'village lifts' to move villagers safely away from some impending action." The copter carries twin 60-caliber machine guns and a M79 grenade launcher.

"Duty is actually better in Vietnam than on some stateside bases and that is one of the main reasons I extended. I am also planning on getting to Bangkok on my R&R later this summer," Robedee said.

"And in the long run our presence in Vietnam will have paid off. Bill feels the same way," he added.

MacDOUGALL (L), ROBEDEE, 'JUDIE' sen, Lawrence DiFiore, Kaz Fujita, James Michalka, Ronald Pope, Deane Robertson, Fred Ruiz and John Stein Jr.

Shull New League of Cities Chief

Mayor Dean E. Shull of La Habra will succeed former Mayor George E. Honold as president of the Orange County League of Cities and chairman of its executive board.

Honold, defeated April 9 for reelection, also lost his seat on the Local Agency Formation Commission, and Councilman Frank Noe of Cypress, former mayor of that city, was named to succeed him until expiration of his term on Dec. 10, 1968.

Mayor James Workman of Villa Park will succeed former Mayor William Martin of Laguna Beach on the Local Agency Formation Commission. His term will expire Dec. 10, 1971.

Completing the League of Cities reorganization, Councilman Lloyd Gummere of Seal Beach was nominated as vice president, a post held by Shull. Councilman Robert Wilson of Costa Mesa, a former mayor, was named as director to succeed Duane Winters, who lost his seat on Fullerton City Council.

Elections are scheduled May 9, when the League's executive board meets at Orange.

Silverman Re-Elected

Ben Silverman, a semi-retired real estate salesman, has been elected to his second yearly term as president of the Long Beach chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Three vice presidents also were elected at the organization's annual membership meeting last week. They are Conrad Housley, a space engineer; Dr. Henry Cohen, a history professor at California State College at Long Beach, and Elmer G. Hill, an attorney.

Other new officers include Dave Fisk, treasurer; Katherine Lynn, secretary, and Mel Meeks, program chairman. In addition, three persons were named at-large members of the chapter's 10-man executive board: John Reidy Jr., Rick Kries and Jules Seretan.

Blind Pianist Pretends He's Sighted

NEW YORK — George Shearing, the prosperous blind pianist and sound-maker, believes in keeping it all light and airy, never reminding anybody he's blind, just pretending he's a member of the sighted world.

"And we should do everything possible," Shearing says, "to get blind people into the sighted world."

"It's a mistake to steer them into occupations that keep them in the blind world."

One recent Christmas season, Shearing and his lead dog, Lee, a handsome Golden Retriever, went shopping near Shearing's home in Los Angeles. His wife warned Shearing not to take Lee, who was new at the time, into a gift shop. "One swish of his tail and down goes all that expensive glassware — $100 each!" Mrs. Shearing said.

"So naturally, I went into a gift shop," recalled Shearing. "A customer came over to me and relegated me to the position that the blind are usually thought of as being in. He tried to put a 50-cent piece in my hand. I said 'Oh, please, no, I just came in to see the manager.' He said, 'Oh, PLEASE, and Merry Christmas,' and kept trying to force the 50-cent piece on me.

"I just tell you that," Shearing said, "to show you what a bum I look like when I'm around home."

CURRENTLY Shearing, a blondish, smiling, seemingly happy chap, is performing at the Rainbow Grill. Blind since birth, he was working as a pianist in a pub at 16, then joined orchestras. He had to learn all the orchestrations by heart whereas the other musicians merely had to read them.

"The Hadley School for the Blind in Winetka, Ill., has many courses for the blind that qualify them for positions in the sighted world," Shearing mentioned. "I'm taking a course right now in business law and making my reports in Braille."

"Of course, that doesn't mean that everybody taking the courses will get jobs. You can be the greatest blind pianist in the world. But if the boss of the club is afraid you're going to fall down, or if he would rather have a sighted girl than a blind man, you might not get work."

"These are all obstacles which the tenacity of the blind person must overcome."

The constant smile on Shearing's face is due to his conviction that "nobody wants to be bothered by a morbid or sorry-for-one's-self attitude that the world owes you something because you are less fortunate than others."

"THERE IS ALWAYS somebody who is far less fortunate than you are. And if you have this in mind, then you will at all times attract people to you. Because you are not a burden on their morale. You help to boost their morale."

"I want immediately to put people at ease. I prefer to take hold of their arms. I do ask them to cut up my food when they join me in a restaurant. I would look far more awkward if I didn't. All this is meant to soft-pedal my blindness."

"And if I trip on the pavement, I will say 'Come on Shearing, you blind son of a gun,' and they will laugh, rather than blame themselves for not telling me to watch my step."

Shearing carries a small slate about 4x6 inches with a stylus in his pocket which he uses as a Braille notebook. He notes phone numbers, addresses and funny remarks. He remembers one couple saying: "Mr. Shearing, we're both adversaries of yours. We're both musicians and we have permanent pitch."

WRITES, PAINTS TOO

This Stripper Has Master's Degree

By JAMES M. SHANKS

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cynthia Edelman is 28 years old, has almost three feet of black hair and a master's degree in both English literature and medieval history.

She is a writer and contributing editor for several publications. She also paints, works as a secretary, has done a bit of modern dancing, and thinks she may become a schoolmarm.

She doesn't, in fact, sound at all like a girl who would be a stripper at Chicago's last remaining burlesque theater. So it isn't remarkable that people at the burlesque house keep asking her: "How did a nice girl like you end up in a place like this?"

"It sort of all started as a comedy act, for my own amusement," she says. "I was working as a cashier at the Plaza (another Chicago burlesque house which has now switched to movies) and the manager had been trying to get me to dance for about two years. One day I decided to try. It had to be unusual just to keep me interested."

IT WAS UNUSUAL enough to shake up the strip buffs at the Plaza.

Stepped in the tradition of Evelyn West and Tempest Storm, they didn't expect a "fresh college coed" cavorting and disrobing in free form modern dance to a blare of folk-rock music.

The hippie set came to dig Cynthia, too.

The Town Theater switched from avant garde cinema and underground films to "sex and sin" movies and live burlesque — Cynthia and others — without notice.

The change was so abrupt that one night the avant garde set came expecting to see the Orson Welles version of "Falstaff" and got Cynthia a la mode instead.

"They came back in couples, no less," the theater manager said happily. "We're not dead yet."

CYNTHIA WAS happy, too. "The young people coming around now appreciate a lot more what I'm doing — presenting the joy of sex instead of the old sadism bit," she said.

The "joy of sex" is the form of modern dance coupled with old fashioned strip. Cynthia feels she has added something to the classic bump and grind of a traditional ecdysiast.

"I think I appeal much more to the fantasies of the audience," she says. "What man hasn't dreamed of seeing an attractive girl sitting somewhere reading a book, going up to her and saying, 'Take off your clothes,' and having her do it?"

"But I only do this infrequently. I've seen too many girls who take to the bottle or worse after they've been in the business for a while. That's not for me."

Neither is the alleged youth fetish of American life. "I may look younger," she says, "but I never lie about my age. At 28, I'm more attractive than I've ever been, and at 25 was more attractive than at 21."

Whither Cynthia? "Teaching, possibly, or writing. I don't have the control to do this (stripping) as a career. I need to recuperate too much. I'm covered with bruises and splinters from the stage as it is."

Wealthy Yank Faces Trial in Actress Killing

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Scotland Yard detectives have arrived in the United States to return Robert Lipman, 37, to Britain, where he is to stand trial for the slaying of a French model.

The extradition of Lipman, a wealthy New Yorker, was ordered recently by U.S. Dist. Judge M. Joseph Blumenfeld, who studied evidence linking Lipman with the murder of 18-year-old Claudie Danielle Delbarre.

Miss Delbarre, who was fond of boasting that she wore the shortest miniskirts in London, was found dead in her flat last September in the Chelsea section of London.

Lipman was eventually traced to the Institute of Living in Hartford, a psychiatric retreat for the wealthy.

NEWHALL (AP) — Roaney, a 45-year-old gelding once owned by the late cowboy actor William S. Hart, has died of old age. Roaney would have been 180 years old if his life span was measured by the life expectancy terms of man. Hart willed his famous Horseshoe Ranch and home to Los Angeles County as a regional park.

Bottomless Act Raided: 23 Seized

MONTREAL (AP) — The latest gimmick in Montreal discotheque attractions, "bottomless" dancers, has fallen afoul of the city police's morality code.

In a raid on a St. Catherine Street club, were the new attraction had been billed since Thursday, police arrested 14 dancers and waitresses, the club manager and eight minors.

The dancers wore a one-piece costume which covers the upper part of the body completely but in the lower regions presents the effect of a vertical bikini.

A club spokesman said the style was brought in "because customers got tired of the topless craze and wanted to see something new."

Crackdown Urged on Poland Artists

WARSAW (AP) — The Communist party newspaper Trybuna Ludu Saturday urged stricter controls on Poland's actors, artists and writers.

The newspaper said there has been too much tolerance and "we don't have to convince anybody that the situation cannot be tolerated any longer."

Negro Conductor Pioneers Way to New Field of Music

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — As the first Negro ever named music director of a symphony orchestra in the United States, Conductor Henry Lewis, 35, broke through one of the last unbattered barriers against his race in the world of music.

Lewis believes his recent appointment to head the New Jersey symphony orchestra, based in Newark, not only will lead to the appointment of other Negroes to such positions but will encourage Negro youngsters to pursue careers as conductors and classical musicians.

After Lewis' appointment, some comments implied it might have stemmed from sociological as well as musical considerations since Negroes constitute a majority of the population of that city, scene of devastating rioting last summer.

But the articulate Lewis doesn't buy this. As a matter of fact, he said, "I believe they still had a little problem -- that a few of them didn't want a Negro."

He had outstanding qualifications. Lewis has been a professional musician for nearly 20 years and guest conductor of many of the major symphony orchestras in the United States.

Although Negroes have distinguished themselves in many areas of music, such as jazz, few except for singers have starred in the classical field.

Why? Lewis offered a diagnosis: "The extra difficulty in instrumentalism is that to make it, you have to start early. You have to start when you are 5 or 6 years old and devote you life to it."

This, Lewis said, required "an awful lot of parental push and help."

"In the past parents felt there was no opportunity in that field for a Negro so why should they push their children to spend the time at it that it takes to make two doctors."

Ellis Outsmarts Quarry for WBA Title Decision

Combined News Services

OAKLAND — Underdog Jimmy Ellis, never losing his cool, used his sneak right hand Saturday night to score a split 15-round decision over frustrated Jerry Quarry and win the World Boxing Assn.'s heavy-weight title.

Ellis, weighing 197 pounds to Quarry's 195 and making the most of a four-inch advantage in reach, was most impressive during the middle rounds when he bombed the Irishman from Bellflower with hard rights and lefts to the head after Quarry vainly waited for him to come in.

Referee Elmer Costa voted the fight to the Louisville boxer, 7-6, and judge Fred Apostoli, who is the former world middleweight champion, saw it for Jimmy, 10-5. But judge Rudy Ortega called the bout a draw, 6-6.

Quarry called Ellis, who beat him over 15 rounds on a split decision, "a smart fighter who fought according to his plan."

"I simply didn't have it tonight. That's all there is to it. I'm sorry I didn't win but I didn't deserve to win. Please don't make that sound like an alibi.

"Ellis was the better fighter this time but I think I could have beaten him if I had been able to fight my fight."

Did Jerry think after the one judge called it a draw he had a chance?

"Never," replied, "if they had given me the decision I wouldn't have taken it."

Ellis called Quarry a good fighter but not the best he has met.

"Henry Hank gave me my toughest fight when I was a welterweight," said the new champion.

"I fought my fight. He hit me a couple of good shots but it didn't put me out of commission. I hurt him a couple of times with right uppercuts. He's a good fighter — rate him No. 2."

Angelo Dundee, Ellis' manager, said his fighter would be an active champion.

"Line 'em up," Dundee said of the other heavy-weight contenders. "We'll fight them all."

However, while well-wishers swarmed around him in and out of the ring and again in his dressing quarters, Ellis hedged.

"Some people think Muhammad Ali is the champion," said Ellis. "Others think Joe Frazier is and still others think I am."

"I don't know if this thing will ever be settled, but I'm willing to fight Ali if that will decide it once and for all."

One thing Ellis and Dundee insisted on was that they will not take on Frazier, who is recognized as the world champion in New York, Massachusetts, Illinois, Maine and Pennsylvania.

"He (Frazier) refused to get into the tournament to decide the champion," said Dundee. "So he doesn't deserve a shot at Jimmy."

"If he wants to meet Jimmy, then first he will have to beat Al Jones."

Jones, whom Dundee called his "policeman," is unbeaten in 21 pro fights, according to the fight manager.

Quarry said he didn't consider himself washed up and promised he would be back.

"While I'm sorry about this performance," said Jerry, his head held low, "I'll be back. You can bet on that. This was only my second loss as a pro."

There were no knock-downs. Each fighter sustained a slight cut in the early going, Ellis bleeding slightly from below the right eyebrow during the first round while Quarry had a cut open on the left corner of his right eye in the second.

Ellis stuck to a perfectly conceived fight plan in the internationally televised bout which grossed $125,000 for each boxer. Quarry, who likes to lurk along the ropes and then bomb his opponent with counter punches, rarely got a chance as the rangy Ellis skillfully kept just far enough away from the blocky Irishman to stay out of harm.

Then Ellis, a former sparring partner for the dethroned

Cassius Clay, whose title he now holds, would flick in pesky left jabs then score with a right hand from nowhere which has earned him the title of "The Cobra."

As early as the fourth round, Ellis had Quarry shaking his head in disgust and beckoning to his Louisville foe to come in. But during that round Jimmy started in, then backed away five times and Quarry would lunge forward, only to get tied up.

Ellis, a father of six, spun out the fight during the last two rounds mainly by keeping his distance and dancing. En route to the verdict, Dundee would yell at Ellis between rounds; "Only twelve minutes to go . . . only nine minutes to go . . . now don't blow it."

It marked Ellis' 26th victory in 31 professional bouts. It was Quarry's 32nd pro bout and his second loss against 26 wins and four draws. The previous defeat, also a decision, came at the hands of Eddie Machen.

Angels Wine but A's Dine

By ROSS NEWHAN

The Angels acquired pitching help Saturday night. The Seattle Angels that is.

General manager Fred Haney signed ex-Dodger World Series hero Larry Sherry, recently released by the Astros, to a Pacific Coast League contract.

The 32-year-old righthander will report to Seattle Wednesday, but it is anticipated that Anaheim is his future residence once the arm is ready.

At the Big A Saturday night, Bill Rigney could have used Sherry, if not something stronger.

Oakland's cup again runneth over as a crowd of 10,120 whined and the A's dined on nine hits en route to a 6-3 victory.

The A's came to Anaheim with a team batting aver. of .202, but they have rapped 21 hits in stringing consecutive wins here for the first time.

Jack Hamilton, who hurled a complete game in his first start last Monday, yielded two runs in the opening round and was chased in the fifth when Rick Monday's bases-loaded double highlighted a four-run rally.

This time Bobby Locke, Tom Burgmeier and Minnie Rojas provided adequate relief, but the damage had been done.

Averaging only 2.5 runs per game, the Angels were held hitless through six innings and scoreless through seven by James Augustus Hunter.

The Catfish was kingfish and the crowd was on the edge of its seats when Tom Satriano lined a single with two outs in the seventh to shatter thoughts of a baseball first — two no-hitters in one day.

Hunter, however, was unable to emulate Tom Phoebus and he also was

Pincay Bags Six Winners

Shoe Watches as

His Mark Matched

Even as a spectator, Bill Shoemaker ranks as a Hollywood Park winner.

On the sidelines Saturday with a crowd of 47,536 which turned out to honor him on "Bill Shoemaker Day", the injured riding great witnessed an outstanding saddle performance by Panamanian Laffit Pincay Jr. who won six of the nine races to tie a 15-year-old Shoemaker record.

Pincay capped his sextuple with a scintillating come-from-behind victory aboard Poleax in the 28th running of the $37,920 Will Rogers Stakes.

Poleax, charging from seventh place in the field of nine, overtook leaders Right Or Wrong and Glory Hallelujah in mid-stretch and then after attempting to pull himself up when he got to the front, rallied under Pincay's urging to score a neck triumph in 1:34 2-5.

The time equaled the stakes record, set in 1957 by the millionaire Round Table and tied four years later by Four And Twenty. But unlike those two heavy favorites, Poleax returned $21.80, $7.20 and $5 in recording his biggest victory.

It was Shoemaker, talking to a television audience, who tabbed Poleax as his longshot selection. And the riding star, the winner of 18 of the past 19 Hollywood titles but unable to defend his championship because of a leg fracture suffered at Santa Anita, added "records are made to be broken and I'm sure my Hollywood marks will someday be topped."

Shoemaker could have seen one of his major marks go by the boards had Pincay won the ninth and final race. But after five successive wins, Laffit peered out, finishing a badly

Dodgers Need More Bush League Bats

By GEORGE LEDERER
Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — The analysis of a game depends upon which side of the fence one stands. Saturday, the Dodgers and the Giants stood fences apart.

For one thing, or two, the Giants hit a pair of home runs, one against Don Drysdale and one against Jim Brewer, while Mike McCormick permitted but five singles for a 3-0 victory.

McCormick, the National League's Cy Young Award winner of 1967, thought he pitched rather well to pick up his first win of the year. The Giants agreed with him.

On the other side of Candlestick Park's clubhouse corridor, the Dodgers begged to differ. They had been begging for an opportunity all day and this was their moment.

Coach Danny Ozark shook his head for openers and said a Class B minor league club would "wear McCormick out. Why? Because they wouldn't know what was coming."

If minor league hitters could get to McCormick, what's stopping the Dodgers, now batting .215 after their fourth shutout in 15 games?

"The difference," said Ozark, "is that we're so dumb. All of our righthanders tried to pull his screwball instead of hitting the ball where it's pitched. Our biggest trouble is that all our hitters are alike. They commit themselves too soon and all day long they were swinging at his motion."

Acting manager Lefty Phillips thought Drysdale "pitched well enough to win, but you can't win when you don't score."

This was the third time the Dodgers failed to score against a lefthander, Chris Short of the Phillies and Jerry Kosman of the Mets having blanked them in the season's first 18 innings.

Acting manager Lefty Since then the Dodgers had some success against lefties, winning four and losing once.

McCormick, who had been shut out while losing his first two decisions, reversed matters with the tantalizing screwball.

He set down 14 Dodgers before Ron Rairly and Luis Alcaraz singled in the fifth. Alcaraz singled again in the eighth and the other hits were by Willie Davis and Wes Parker. Davis was caught stealing and only Parker reached third base.

Drysdale yielded six of the Giants' seven hits and two runs. The first hit was enough.

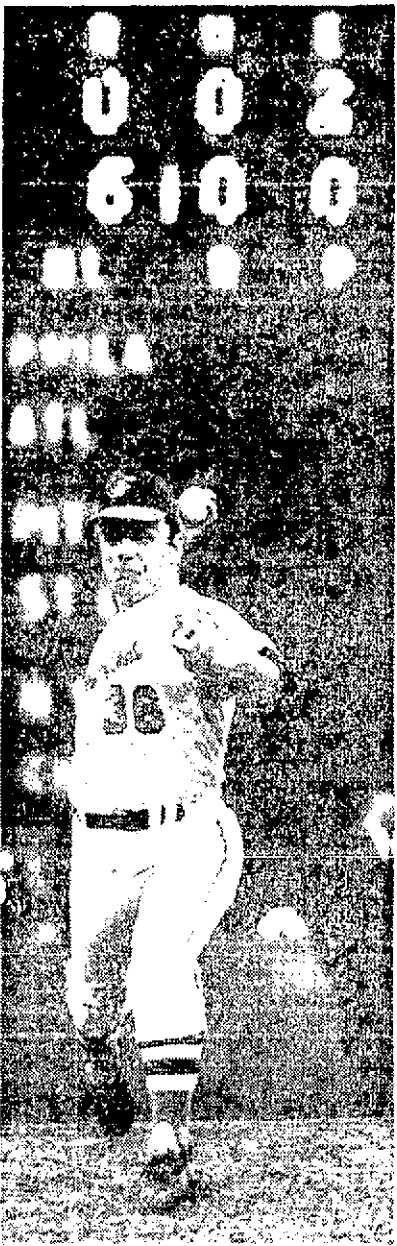

Willie Mays hit a full-count breaking pitch into the left field seats with two out in the opening inning, spilling another bottle of correction fluid on baseball's record books.

Willie's second homer of the season was the 566th of his career. No record there because Mays holds all of them for righthanded home run hitters. It was his 90th against the Dodgers, which may or may not be a record. And it was No. 13 against Drysdale, which is a record, one up on Willie McCovey.

More significant to the

Record Relay at Mt. SAC

By JOHN DIXON

One world record was overhauled and a half-dozen best-of-the-year marks were established as a host of future American Olympians cavorted Saturday on Mt. San Antonio College's lickety-split speedway.

Fourteen meet records fell in the 10th and most interesting Mt. San Antonio Relays. Nothing less than a superior performance brought victory in any event, and 10,000 oohed and aahed throughout eight hours of action.

The decathlon, pentathlon and a half-dozen other events may add to the record roster in today's concluding competition commencing at 9:30 a.m.

A Fort MacArthur Army foursome put together outstanding efforts in each leg to establish a world mark of 9:33.4 in the distance medley relay, taking a few ticks off the mark of 9:33.8 set by Kansas U. last year.

Bob Tobler (formerly of Brigham Young) got 'em off and running hard with a 47.2 440, Darnell Mitchell (ex-Ohio U.) added a 1:50.2 half-mile, Tom Von Ruden (ex-Oklahoma State) clocked a sensational 2:56.1 1,320, and Preston Davis (ex-Texas) got the laurel wreath with a 3:59.9 mile.

Bob Day (ex-UCLA) was scheduled to run in place of Mitchell, but he was felled by flu 15 minutes before posttime, and the running order and distance was quickly, adeptly juggled by coach Ralph Higgins.

Steeplechaser George Young, as frail as a toy poodle outside, as tough as a bulldog inside, and Randy Matson, the human redwood, were selected track and field athletes of the meet.

Young hasn't won an easier race since he chased the girls in third grade.

The Arizona school teacher stayed near the pace, accelerated with a lap

RICH ROBERTS

Sentiment is Not Catching

"You never feel secure in baseball—not once you're traded, you don't. You should never get too tied down to one team, too sentimental about it."—John Roseboro.

You're the catcher and your ball club has a three-run lead in the last inning and a favorable wind to keep the batters honest.

"So I said, 'To hell with it — throw fast balls and let 'em hit it,'" relates John Roseboro, who had seldom lived so recklessly before.

It was almost like the good old days when Roseboro came with the Dodgers from Brooklyn — "one of the last years they had one of those big powerhouses — Snider, Furillo, Hodges and those guys. Drysdale is the last now."

It was a decade from which Roseboro has detached himself with remarkable grace, even before the day the Dodgers traded him to the Minnesota Twins.

If he's at loose ends he doesn't look it, appearing absolutely exquisite in his light gray hand-tailored English suit, vested and booted and conservatively mod. And if he's the least bit nostalgic, he doesn't sound like it, either.

"It doesn't hurt if you look for it," he says, "and I guess at age 30 or 31 you start to look for it. I knew that we needed a shortstop badly on the Dodgers, and an old catcher is more or less expendable.

"I prepared my wife for it long before I was traded. I said, 'Look, we're liable to be going somewhere this year.' I was lucky I came to Minnesota. I could have gone someplace where I didn't have an opportunity to make any extra money."

ROSEBORO, NOW 34, rode through the rise and fall of the Dodgers, observing the club's evolution with a cool but candid eye. Behind a facade of great pitching, the decay started when the sluggers got old.

"When we moved to L.A. most of them were over the hill. Then they went from power to speed. If you don't have a good, strong powerful offense, then you gotta make an offense with your feet. You use what you have.

"In the past few years the Dodgers didn't have anything to use .... didn't have power, and after we lost Willis we didn't have speed. So we were just plain outta luck."

In desperation, then, the Dodgers began to trade and, Roseboro says, "it changed again. It wasn't what you call the Dodgers.

"Most of the teams had been raised right through the organization. We still didn't have the power and the defense wasn't that strong. One of the trades didn't work out too well as far as the fellow performing up to par, which hurt us quite a bit. We struggled last year. We really struggled."

ROSEBORO, APPARENTLY referring to Bob Bailey, senses that the struggle is over with the power-happy Twins, although it doesn't alter his thinking behind the plate.

"You always try to be as scrappy as you can with runs. If you're four or five runs ahead you pitch the guy the same as if it's a one-to-nothing ball game. I do, anyway."

As Roseboro occasionally departs from that practice, as related earlier in this piece, he's crossing the grain of theory developed under cautious Walt Alston.

"Walt was a beautiful man," John says. "I haven't seen a man like this in a long time. In all the years I was there I very seldom heard him say a harsh word about anybody. If a guy makes a mistake he wasn't one to go to the sportswriters and alibi that 'well, we blew the game because so-and-so made an error.'"

"He's a conservative man. Baseball-wise, he doesn't take too many chances. He plays by the book but has been successful, so you can't knock him. I can see why he's been there so long. He's a great man."

ROSEBORO WOULD like to be a manager himself someday, but he isn't rushing his retirement "as long as my body holds up.

"You can't just walk away from baseball and make this kind of money. I'd like to manage. I think after 10 or 12 years in the major leagues you're as qualified as some of the managers."

On the other hand, Rosey is realistic enough to realize that if the Twins don't win this year he may be moving on again.

"Minnesota went all out this year to shoot for the pennant," he says. "They gave up a young shortstop (Zoilo Versalles) that has all the potential in the world, if his temperament's right.

"Well, if they win this year, great. If they don't, then they might have to get rid of this old catcher that's making pretty good money.

"You're always expendable in baseball. But if you've got the ability to play ball and you're not hurting you can always play somewhere. I don't really worry about it anymore. To hell with it, come what may."

TRACK ROUNDUP

James' 43.9 Anchor Leg Leads Villanova at Penn

Combined News Services

Larry James' 43.9-second anchor quarter-mile leg, the fastest ever run, gave Villanova a victory in the mile relay at the Penn Relays Saturday as the Wildcats won a record total of five relays.

Official records are not kept on relay legs, but observers could not recall a faster 440.

The Villanova time, 3:06.1, was one of nine meet records set at this 74th annual relay carnival.

A sophomore from White Plains, N.Y., James ran the quarter in 45.2 earlier in the month, one of the fastest ever run from scratch.

Other meet records came in the triple jump won by Aaron Hopkins of Toledo at 53-5/4, also a collegiate record, and from Richmond Flowers of Tennessee in the 120-yard high hurdles at 13.5.

Van Nelson, a tireless running machine from St. Cloud, Minn. State, scored a record breaking distance double and famed Jim Ryun was too tired to finish his baton chores in the 59th Drake Relays Saturday at Des Moines, Iowa.

A capacity Drake Stadium crowd of 16,000 saw Ryun, Kansas' world record holder at one mile, 1:50

Tearful Quarry Clan: 'Say He Didn't Lose'

OAKLAND (UPI) — One of Jerry Quarry's sisters, Diane, cried unashamedly, another clung to her mother's arm. His young wife walked in a daze and Jerry himself held his head low.

This was minutes after Jerry had been beaten on a split decision by Jimmy Ellis Saturday night for the WBA heavyweight championship.

"It can't be true," sobbed

Diane. "Jerry didn't lose. Please, mother, say he didn't lose."

Quarry's wife, Kathleen, who only a week ago suffered a miscarriage and has been out of the hospital only two days, walked glassy-eyed away from the scene of battle, fell into a friend's arms and said:

"I'm so tired, I'm so tired. Maybe I shouldn't have come. Poor Jerry."

Jerry's mother had all she could do to console her children — there are three boys and four girls besides Jerry — and didn't have time to comment.

"I'm sorry for Jerry," she said while trying to console Diane. "Please let me take care of the children."

Quarry visited with his family for about 10 minutes before letting newsmen into his dressing room.

Later, as the newsmen filed out, some members of his family came back into the dressing room.

"I'm sorry," he said to one of his brothers. "I'm sorry, but we'll come back. You can bet on that."

to glory, and defeated Pat Traynor by 40 yards. Young was clocked in 8:40.0, a meet record by 7.4 seconds.

Matson won just as easily. Or maybe easier, for his competition ceased to exist after his first practice put when he fondled the 16-pound shot as though it were a tennis ball, then muscled it three feet beyond the marked landing area — approximately 68 feet — while garbed in warm attire.

Matson's series was 69-10 1/2, 66-1, 68-0, foul (69 feet), 68-10 1/2 and 67.2. His winner was the longest put ever on foreign soil — outside of Texas — and fifth longest in history. Matson's world record is 71-5 1/2.

"I'm well satisfied, but hope to throw better soon," the 265-pound Matson proclaimed.

The day's premiere achievement was Bob Beamon's long jump of 27 feet, 4 inches — but it was ruined by access wind, 8.9 miles per hour.

The day's most competitive race was the half-mile. Wade Bell jumped a packed field with 350 yards to go, and had the gold medal on his mantle until Martin McGrady caught him in the last stride.

Both were timed in 1:49.4, with Dave Perry third in 1:50.0 and Danny Tague fourth in 1:50.5.

Ron Whitney's 50.1 in the 440-yard hurdles is a 1968 world best, and the 17-1 pole vault of Bob Seagren, 203-8 discus throw by Jay Silvester and 53-10 1/4 triple jump by Art Walker rank close.

Tomnie Smith and Lee Evans, who have announced that they will boycott the Mexico City Olympiad, blazed over the track. Coming from far back, Smith won the 220 in 20.5, and anchored the Santa Clara Youth Village's victorious 440 relay team, 39.9. Evans ran a 20.6 220 on San Jose State's winning 880 relay team, and led the mile relay team with a 46.2 clocking.

COOL IN CLUTCH

Celtics' Secret: Poise

By DOUG IVES
Red Auerbach, who is never at a loss for words, claims to know why the Celtics will beat the Lakers again for the world title of pro basketball.

No, it is not their fast-break, their shooting, their defense, nor even Bill Russell.

It's poise. Intangible as it is, poise is something the Celtics possess that the Lakers don't. At least the Lakers don't have it in the same quantity, according to Auerbach.

"We don't lose our cool when it counts," says the fiery general manager. "It takes a lot of championship games to develop the kind of poise we have. In the clutch, someone always comes through with the big play or the big basket."

That was the case Friday when the Lakers barged back from an 18-point deficit to within three points, only to find the Celtics calm and competent.

When the Lakers, in their haste to get even, finally put up some quick shots from bad angles, the Celtics inched out again on the clutch shooting of Larry Siegfried and Russell to win, 127-119.

The experts will say it is still a game of running, shooting and defense, but poise is something nice to have when all else is even.

Another sellout crowd of 17,000 is guaranteed at the Forum for tonight's fourth game — a game that the Lakers must win or resign themselves to being six-time losers to Boston in championship meetings.

The Lakers remain confident, but they will have to get more firepower out of Archie Clark, who may be feeling the pressure of the playoffs more than anyone.

The talented little guard who hit 48 per cent from the field during the regular season is well off his game against Boston. His percentage is a frigid .320. What's worse, he hasn't made a basket in the second half of the last two games.

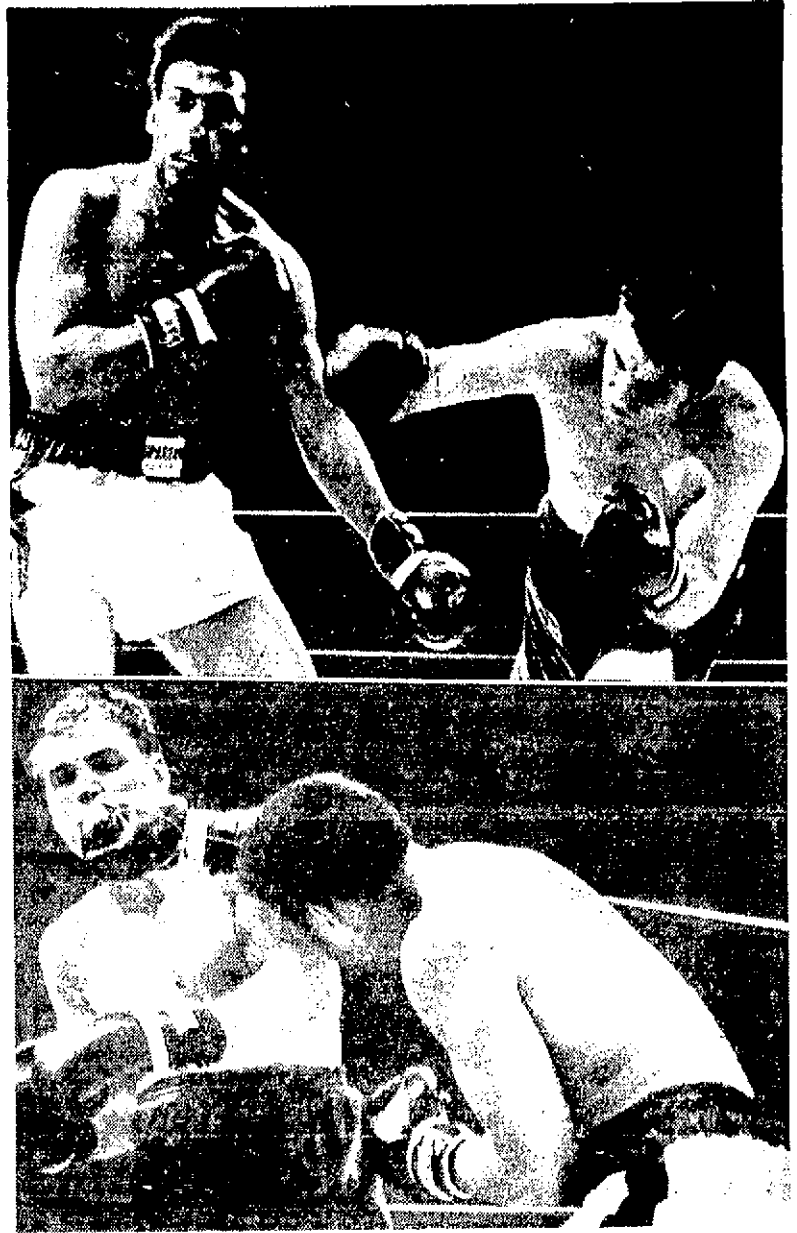

At only 6-foot-2, Clark has had many shots blocked by the taller Boston guards, and his driving the middle is restricted by the presence of Russell.

ALL THAT COUNTS NOW...

If Lakers expect to even NBA playoff series with Boston tonight, they must stop Bill Russell, who moves around Mel Counts on way to one of his baskets Friday at Forum.

The little Cougar said he wasn't pleased with his performance. He has a lifetime best of 12:53.0, the American record.

Besides his victory in the 220, Miller of the Trojans also won the 100 in 9.6 to tie a meet record and anchored the 440 relay team.

ing up from fourth at the stretch turn. Royal Exchange, the only Derby non-eligible in the field of six, led most of the way but dropped back to third at the finish, four lengths behind Trouble Brewing.

Either SC Defense Poor or QBs Good

By LOEL SCHRADER

USC's desperation search for quarterback depth may have ended during a 60-minute scrimmage Saturday at Cromwell Field.

With holdover quarterback Mike Holmgren sidelined with a thumb injury, freshman team graduate Karl Francis of Santa Ana and Bob Chandler of Whittier passed for 324 yards and three touchdowns. Shaking his head, Trojan coach John McKay observed: "Either our pass defense is pretty lousy or our young quarterbacks are pretty good."

Francis connected on 10 of 21 passes for 158 yards. He threw touchdown passes of 29 yards to Walt Fai-lor and four yards to Terry DeKraai, the latter a transfer from Long Beach City College.

Chandler hit on 10 of 15 for 166 yards and an 11-yard scoring pass to Sam Dickerson.

Junior college transfer Bill Holland, an extremely promising fullback, rammed five yards for a fourth touchdown.

Bucs' 41 FTs Edge Pipers

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — New Orleans, outshot from the floor, converted 41 of 51 fouls Saturday night to defeat Pittsburgh, 111-108, and take a 3-2 lead in their playoff for the American Basketball Assn. championship.

The sixth game in the best-of-seven series will be played next Wednesday in New Orleans.

The Pipers played without Connie Hawkins, the ABA's leading scorer and most valuable player. Hawkins sat out the game with a torn ligament in his right knee but a club spokesman said he would play Wednesday.

The crowd swelled to once-beaten Dewan as the 9 10 choice. But the William Haggin Perry colorbearer, after offering a mild bid in the early stretch, faltered to finish fourth, beaten five and one-half lengths.

"This horse is good right now and I'm lucky, I guess that's a pretty good combination," Pincay said.

Pac 8 Singles

Crown to Smith Again at Ojai

OJAI (UPI) — Stan Smith won the Pacific Eight singles championship, Ojai Valley version, Saturday by overpowering his USC teammate, Bob Lutz, 6-3, 6-3.

Smith has won the title for the past three years and his finals victim last year was Lutz.

The two also reached the finals of the doubles but had to default because Lutz had a painful blister on the big toe of his left foot.

Smith required only 46 minutes to dispatch Lutz in the singles finals, only one phase of the 69th annual Ojai Valley Tennis Tournament.

USC won the Thacher Cup by 16 points to 15 for UCLA.

UCLA's Steve Tidball and Roy Barth won the doubles championship by default.

In the men's invitational singles, Joaquin Loyo-Mayo of the Mexican Davis Cup team, and Jim Hobson, formerly of USC, qualified for today's finals.

In the women's invitational singles, two UCLA girls made the finals — Pixie Lamm and Betty Ann Grubb. Miss Lamm beat Peggy Michel of La Jolla, 6-3, 6-4. Miss Grubb scored an upset in the semifinals by ousting Mimi Arnold Wheeler of Santa Barbara, 5-7, 8-6, 6-4.

LEAPIN' LIZARDS!

Oakland's Reggie Jackson won this race with ball and was credited with "steal" of third base in first inning of Friday's game with Angels. Jim Fregosi takes throw from catcher Bob Rodgers after Campy Campaneris scored on fly ball. A's won merry-go-round, 8-4. The A's won Saturday, too.

Spruce up for warm days ahead

The first warm days of spring call for barbecues and picnics on the patio . . . where families and friends will gather for outdoor fun until the first hint of winter.

Now's the time to start sprucing up the area with new furniture and accessories to insure a summer of care-free, casual enjoyment.

The freshest designs for outdoor (or indoor) furniture are on the market this season . . . from expanded metal groupings to the appealing textures of rattan.

Outdoor furniture manufacturers have a few surprises in store this season . . . such as the armchair with a slide-out snack tray hidden beneath its seat and a sofa with built-in end tables at each side.

ACCESSORIES ARE a must in the outdoor area for '68 to lend that personal touch.

Hammocks, for instance, are synonymous to lazy days of summer. George McArthur & Sons, Inc. are showing a new rope hammock, one that rocks and a variety of conventional styles in handsome bright florals and plaids.

Sun umbrellas (some clamp-on chairs and chaises) are made for beach, garden or patio. Macon Umbrella Corp.'s newest design is bright polka dots — others are trimly tailored.

Spring-summer 1968 could be the brightest on the Southern California scene . . . color, color, color is everywhere. Oranges, greens, yellows, blues and bright floral prints are dominating the spectrum.

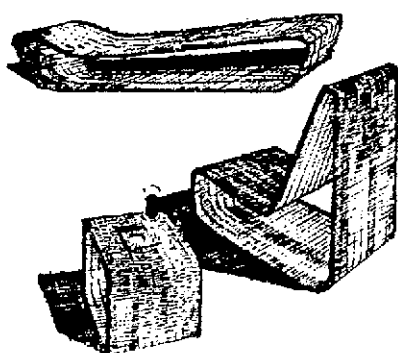

Now's the time for the big move—outdoors that is!

California show stopper . . .

Splash of color in fresh, young designs for today's living . . . unique new indoor-outdoor furniture from California

Sunset Inc. abounds with liveliness. Delightfully different, the grouping is made of marine plywood then covered with bright plastic coated paint that resists weather, is water proof and adds new excitement to your outdoor area. Table above has built-in barbecue as added surprise. Entire line, including bar, stools, variety of tables and seats, and port sun cart, are available in two-tone finishes or daisy pattern at Bell's Bixby Knolls Furniture, 3855 Atlantic Ave.

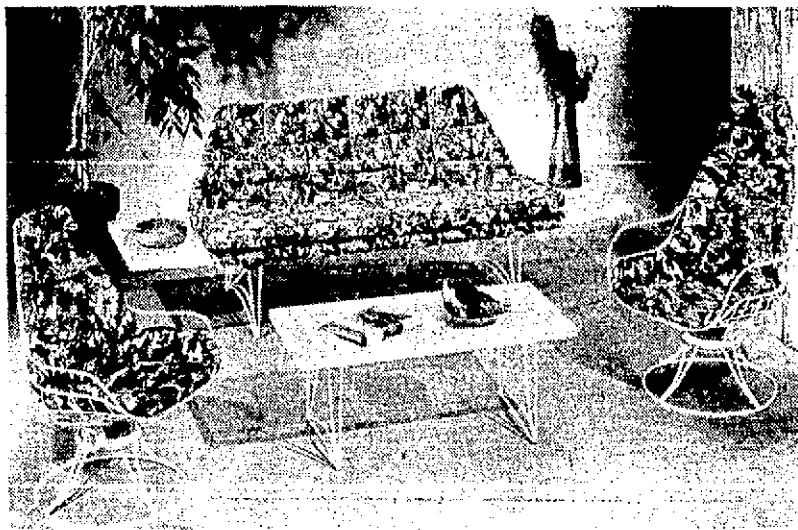

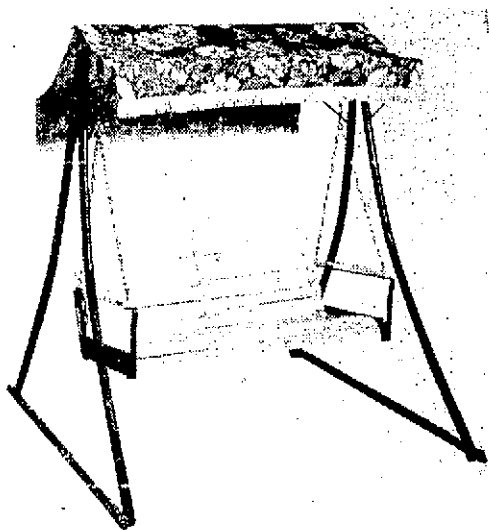

Many uses for mini-chaise . . .

Lay it flat for easy sunbathing, fold it for carrying, sit in it in two positions (front or back) . . . also has built-in towel rack for the swimmer. This versatile little mini-chaise is welcome addition for pool, beach or patio. Telescope Folding Furniture Co., Inc.

Swing into summer . . .

Patio swing by Goshen adds charming accent to any outdoor setting. Seat is posture-contoured for comfort.

Garden of flowers . . .

Handsome functional design characterizes new Delray group . . . frames are durable welded steel finished in mar-resistant, baked-on enamel. Removable seat and back cushions are covered with choice of colorful new patterned plastics. By Homcrest Co.

IN CHOOSING FURNITURE Young brides are 'cool customers'

Today's young bride, compared with her mother and grandmother, is generally a very cool customer when it comes to important purchases. Not only is she better educated and more sophisticated, she's had enormous exposure to good taste in decorating through newspapers and magazines.

And yet, when it comes to making decisions on important key furnishings such as a dining ensemble, the most "unflappable" bride-to-be can develop a case of nerves over budget, space, type and style, according to Barbara Brody, interior decorating consultant.

THE WAY TO resolution, Miss Brody claims, is to bear in mind that the dining area — whether it's a grand separate room or a cozy kitchen corner — is the hospitable heart of the home. It should be both inviting and stimulating as well as comfortable.

"For enduring good looks, invest as much as you can afford in the actual table and chairs. See to it that they're not only durable and easy to care for, but smartly designed and comfortable, too," she advised.

"And once you've made this basic purchase, splurge with imagination instead of money to do the decorating. By taking advantage of every Cinderella trick in the book, from inexpensive wallpapers to dime-store potted plants, you can make any room smile back at you."

Pretty patterns

Skillful combination of colors in pattern sets pace for room, and predominant hues are picked up in other elements—striped wallpaper, patterned upholstery, for example, as seen here. Carpet ties whole scheme together.

Carpet variety will floor you

Chic checks

Neatly-tailored "mini-checks" are style feature of this new carpet, which underscores comfort and quiet in a home office. Tightly-looped pile surface made of continuous filament nylon is its practical feature—engineered for hard wear and easy maintenance.

Striking stripes

Decorating magic on a budget... even moderately-priced carpets these days have exciting patterns, such as bright stripes, to add color interest, complement furniture styling.

SHAPES, COLORS, AND "LOOK" OF MODERN FURNISHINGS CALL FOR TOTAL INVOLVEMENT

Wild, bright, snappy--- that's the modern look!

Thinking modern? Don't be timid, if you are. It's the sharp juxtaposition of shapes, space, and color that makes modern work in home decor.

Soft-edge furniture, an idea remnant from the 1930's, has been brought up-to-date in new shapes and colors. The tufted, overstuffed look provides the plush to offset the sharp lines of chrome, glass, and wire accessories which frequently surround it.

Achieving just the right "feel" in such a room is quite easy. Unlike traditional furnishings which often have traditional relationships to accompany pieces, modern is "right" when it looks right to you.

Asymmetry, new uses of whole walls to include high and low areas, and unbalanced groupings take on a pleasing form because the "usual" rules of utilizing space are suspended.

"Balance" soft-edge couches, soft shaggy rugs, and very "in" fur covered pieces with geometric art in metal frames. Add a chrome-legged table and your room "goes together."

Brighten that shadowy corner

How do you enliven dull corners in your living room?

According to James L. Adler, member of the American Institute of Interior Designers, the secret is lighting and color.

One simple answer, he feels, is a good-sized plant with light coming through it.

If you use furniture in the corner to gain function in addition to esthetic effect, you can select tall furniture or low pieces with decorative wall treatments above them to give height.

The bedroom of your dreams—translated from the French...

PLACE VENDÔME
by Thomasville

Here's elegance you've longed for in furniture... a style tracing back to Louis XV's reign in France. All the charm of that great era of design is here . . . in curving lines and carved motifs, in gilded brasses and fine canework. And, like French cabinetmakers of old, Thomasville has used prized walnut veneers, carefully selected, patiently hand-rubbed. The Patina finish has richness and clarity, like vintage wine. See Place Vendôme today and start planning your new bedroom.

The lovely curving lines, the graceful cabriole leg and curved motifs bring the spirit of that luxurious era to your dining room today. You see the Louis XV influence, too, in the beautifully inlaid parquet table top, in grille doors and the imported cane. With Place Vendôme in your dining room you'll be proud to welcome your guests.

Decorator-minded homemaker wanted something "different" for entrance to game room. For accent area adjacent to stairway she ordered miniature rock garden, flanked by pecan wood-grain. Four poles are painted for splash of color. Accessory items blend in with motif.

Teen-agers can grow up with Alicia

After teenag's grand clutter and great casualness a "young lady" looks for some "grown up" sophistication. This often means a room with a traditional flavor. And for a wise girl it means choosing every item not only for now but for other rooms later on.

Painted furniture is good for any age and particularly pretty for a bedroom. The choice this season is from an Italian inspired group called Alicia by Thomasville.

The color is a very soft grey-blue, trimmed with a bit of white, overlaid with the thinnest of glazes. The barely visible brush strokes of the glaze leave a mellow shaded effect. The grey-blue color is really a neutral and will live happily through many changes of color scheme.

If set against a white wall on a greenish-gold carpet, fabric can repeat all three colors. The fabric headboard can be easily removed either for cleaning or replacement.

Collection sheds new light . . .

Forecasting styles in designs and colors, Haeger's new Lamp Collections include six important categories.

Each one serves a specific need in today's decorating of interiors covering: Traditional Trends with both lamps and artwares in Far East and American Colonial styles, along with new Mediterranean Baluster Lamps on iron stands, and a creative collection of Contemporary Styles in both hand-thrown jars and ball-shaped bases.

Haeger has augmented its extensive Far East Collection to include classic forms of Old Chinese vases and urns. Among new glazes are Oriental Yellow, Azalea, Pumpkin Crackle and Oxblood.

TRADITIONAL styles in lamps are shown in Candlestick bases, vase-types and classic jars in round and six-sided designs. Equally traditional is the Mediterranean group of turned candlesticks on iron mounts. Further important additions to traditional styles are American Colonial lamps in Baluster bases with gold American eagle of the federal period.

About the cover

Blue room with crystal sconces and chandelier has white accents from graceful damask-upholstered furniture, shirred Roman shade, Nile green draperies, and wall color in next room.

Combination makes serene setting for formal drawing room in traditional home or wherever sophisticated elegance is desired. Furniture from Bryhill Premier.

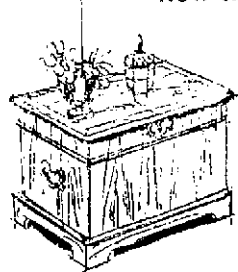

Glowing accessory

Here's a handsome twosome

Sofas are getting smaller — but they're pairing up. Remember the gigantic "around-the-corner" sofa that covered two walls in a small room and seated eight to ten people. Now, for easier decorating, there's the mini-sofa or loveseat. Conversation groupings are more natural, and since the handy little sofa can move away from the wall, vacant floor space can be gainfully employed.

FOR THE ODDEST PLACES

Mini-look is going big

In every home and apartment today, there's always the narrow wall, the small area in a foyer or hallway or other places where small furniture is the only answer.

Today's new "mini-look" has hit the home furnishings market and more and more small pieces are being designed to fit these areas. Drexel's Interior Designer, Frank Penfold Brown, A.I.D. says, "Go on a shopping spree especially for furniture for these small areas. Find pieces that are useful as well as decorative."

TALL NARROW pieces such as curio cabinets, umbrella stands, small chests are being designed to fit these small areas and many of them serve many functions. Look for the lingerie

TOP DESIGNERS ADVISE:

...Live with furnishings YOU like

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Top prize-winning interior designers emphasize the importance of living with furniture you like.

In the 10th annual Hexter "Interiors of the Year" award program, winners stressed that objects and design should be pleasing to the eye of the person who must live with them.

Michael de Santis, first prize winner, used contemporary furniture with antique accessories to create an eclectic look in an apartment.

In the living room, white pecky cypress was used along the fireplace wall. There is a dark green velvet sofa, a French pull chair covered in Celadon green suede, an Icelandic fur rug. Green crushed velvet is in a niche. The cushion of an X-bench is covered in white patent leather. Oak floors throughout are painted dark green.

THE DINING room is painted dark green with a dark green lacquered dining table with steel frame. He uses white lacquered dining chairs with green velvet seats.

Paul Krause, second prize winner, turned an 1836 Connecticut country farm house kitchen into a cozy little sitting room. On upholstered pieces, he used the sunshine colors, yellow and white chintz, giving the small room a glow against a background of white painted barn siding. He used exterior shutters indoors rather than draperies to "provide another outdoor quality," he says.

He used blue and white checked Roman shades for light control over the 12-over-12 window panes. There are red accents in the room. The floors are painted in a gray and white marbled pattern.

INTERIOR DESIGNER

Audrey Fiber won an honorable mention for a large house in Long Island that included a dining room and kitchen as part of the enormous living room.

In the living area, a blue and white fabric is used at the sliding glass doors. A large Portuguese blue and white rug is on the floor and there is a coffee table of stainless steel and glass. The floor is rust-colored Mexican tiles.

A black vinyl tufted sofa and chairs in mottled brown vinyl are part of a seating setting that includes a comfortable easy chair in blue and white woven fabric.

NAVY BLUE and white is the color scheme in the kitchen area where Portuguese tiles are on counter-top walls. There are French furnishings — a farm table, iron ceiling fixture, Louis XIII amoire for dishes, and an old cupboard. A maple chopping block is used for counter tops — especially fun for guests, she says, who always like to hack away at cooking meals for the hostess. She used Portuguese tiles on risers of the stairs.

Observing what decorators do in certain situations is helpful to non-professionals in applying ideas to their own homes working with furnishings they have on hand and with color schemes they enjoy, even if they seek professional decorating help.

Picture a hall

Turn hallways into a highlight of your home with clever arrangements of framed pictures. Too often hall space is neglected when it comes to decorating, and the hall is relegated to the role of utilitarian passageway.

Game set adds style to fun

E. H. R. Inc. of San Pedro has added a swivel game chair to its "Provano" collection.

Enjoyment of the game room, den or dining area will be enhanced with this Mediterranean-styled game set.

Ornamentation is the Quatrefoil — from the French "quatrefoil," four leaves; much favored in Gothic architecture. Its origins are as ancient as man's first use of the divider (Compass).

Complementing the setting is the Cantina Server, mobile on its shepherd casters, and equally at home as a serving cart, portable bar or buffet.

DARK WOODS and patterned carpet combine to offer dimensional and design interest to expansive kitchen. Part and parcel of pattern explosion in carpet world, the "Renaissance" style shows graceful scrolling in a lyrical mood, offset by line definition reminiscent of tiles. By Barwick.

In most neighborhoods, carpet on the kitchen floor is still far out enough to be a subject for debate around the bridge tables and car pools, with opinions pro and con generating almost as much heated discussion as proper hair lengths for high school boys.

A lot of the argument which keeps the kaffeeklatsches buzzing, however, is based on preconceived and outdated notions about carpeting. Carpet for the kitchen is not just any carpet. It is woven of special man-made fibers which have been engineered to resist stains and dirt and not to absorb liquids or foods. Tight, dense, low-level weaves have been worked out which are then bonded to a cushiony backing of natural sponge rubber or of foam rubber. Such carpeting on a kitchen floor can really take it, tests show.

Most of the questions women keep asking each other about whether kitchen carpet stands up under family stress and mess have been answered pretty thoroughly by the experience of the adventurous gals who have had kitchen carpet almost since it first came out. Home economists also have put experimental installations of kitchen carpeting to much more stringent tests than the material is likely to undergo in the average home kitchen.

IN SUCH DAY to day use, even those who doubted kitchen carpet's feasibility at first have been amazed to find that most spilled foods really do wipe right up and ordinary spots can be sponged off with water and detergent, while more stubborn greasy ones respond to cleaner fluid.

Regular vacuuming is all the upkeep the carpet needs for the most part, but if it becomes badly soiled it can be washed on the floor with a sponge mop or an electric scrubber — as easily as other floors are mopped and waxed.

What's more, these early pioneers of the carpet kitchen discovered some dividends they didn't think about when they made their choice. The first dividend is the way the carpet deadens noise—as an acoustical ceiling alone can't do. It not only absorbs the usual rattling of pots and pans, but children's voices and running feet — it even blocks noises from outside. The second dividend they discovered was that the cushioning underfoot cut down on the fatigue that creeps up on you after hours of walking and standing on hard floors.

Colorful carpets are decorating catalysts

"A background of colorful carpet is the best catalyst for creating harmony in a home, no matter what variety of fabrics and what type of furniture mix you may have," says Mrs. Lee Kolker, director of styling for a leading carpet manufacturer.

Mrs. Kolker describes the new carpets as having a chameleon quality. To the versatility which this characteristic contributes, she adds: "Plushes and motivational plains' repose in the room, they do not impose on the room."

Colored from sharp and bright to soft, subtle and light, 1968 carpets are designed for a "total look," she says. This makes for perfect coordination with traditional furniture, Spanish or Mediterranean styles and fresh modern pieces. She says that all types are gaining steadily in popularity.

The starting point for the "total look" is in colorful carpets.

Commenting on colors which are most popular now and expected to be in the seasons ahead, Mrs. Kolker says:

All golds and varied greens continue to be popular with traditional furniture; reds and hennas spark Mediterranean; blues, celadons and cloudy jades soften modern for a fresh approach. Monotones and multi-tones share the decorating spotlight this season.

THE COVER STORY

Sketch by Richard Toolis, HFD

...it's crushed, stretched and cut

The fabric story is one of texture, pattern, and color. New is a nylon plaid that looks like wool — a cotton and rayon that resembles linen. There are matelasses, damasks, and floral prints in big, beautiful patterns; there is suede cloth, cotton velvet, crushed and uncrushed, and a cut velvet which affords a wonderful richness.

Important to all homemakers will be the brand new upholstery fabric of Olefin fibers claimed to be permanently stain resistant and impervious to moisture, in themselves, requiring no special treatment to retard soil. This new fabric will be seen on several upholstered lines including a collection of dual-sleep lounges by Karpen Division of Schnadig Corporation.

GOLDING UPHOLSTERY Fabrics, Division of Golding Bros. Co. Inc., puts the accent strongly on new covers for traditional furniture — with minor emphasis on those for contemporary. Golding's fabrics for 1968 include the Veltura, a cotton suede cloth with the velvet look for use on provincial furniture . . . a traditional floral, Mayfair . . . a matelasse called Maxim . . . a novelty tweed — Holiday — in interesting block style for contemporary designs . . . Tanglewood, a textured damask . . . the Lansing, a cut velvet for French and Mediterranean designs . . . Dali, a Jacquard making its appearance on big, plump contemporary sofas.

Collins & Aikman, Home Fabrics Div., stresses matelasses and damasks for traditional furniture. The nylon matelasses — with end-and-end nylon warp construction with more than one color in the warp — are news again because the firm, through use of different yarns, is able to offer them at a lower price.

Fanny May Is Doing About-Face

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The Federal National Mortgage Association (Fanny May) will reverse its entire secondary market pricing operation on May 6 in an effort to pump more liquidity into the home mortgage industry, the agency announced last week.

Under the new plan outlined by Raymond H. Lapin, president of Fanny May, the agency will deal only in "commitments" rather than in mortgages that have already been created.

Instead of periodically setting rates for buying and selling government-backed mortgages from originating loan makers, Fanny May will auction commitments to buy them for three, six and 12-month periods.

The first auction will consist of $40 million of commitments for the three classes of mortgages. The amount granted each category will be divided on a pro rata basis.

IF, FOR EXAMPLE, a mortgage banker wants Fanny May to buy his mortgages, he will submit a bid to its Washington headquarters on a competitive or noncompetitive basis. The latter will be awarded at the average price of all accepted competitive bids.

LONG BEACH, CALIF., SUNDAY, APRIL 28, 1968

Fanny May will not accept an offer of less than $10,000 or for more than $400,000 in the first auction to afford smaller mortgage concerns an opportunity to compete.

The new free structure, Lapin said, will be one-half per cent on acceptance and another like amount if mortgage for six months, and 1 per cent for 12 months plus the mandatory common stock purchase requirement (one-half per cent on acceptance and another like amount if mortgages are deliveries).

Fanny May will still pay one-half per cent to those who service its mortgages.

This radical departure for the agency was predicated on a review of the tight money situation and its effect on private home building.

MANY BUILDERS have been unable to start construction because of the lack of one-year mortgage financing, for example, and this group should receive some relief, although the first auction of $40 million is considered by many in the industry as being too skimpy to cope with the problem.

Under the so-called free market system, Fanny May will provide controls over the volume of its commitments and permit the marketplace to determine the price structure.

"There will be no more transactions on a loan-by-loan basis, just commitments," Lapin said. "The market will now know what the going price is for three, six and 12-month periods."

"Builders will now be able to receive one-year commitments, which, because of the present tight money situation, they now find almost impossible. This should be reflected in the number of housing starts within a month."

One important factor in the new plan is that buyers who obtain a commitment do not have to deliver the mortgages if they find a better deal elsewhere, Lapin declared.

'Big Brother' File Now Exposed

Special to Progress Section

An Atlanta-based firm, the Retail Credit Co., has built up files on 45 million Americans containing detailed information on their private lives for use of insurance companies, an article in The New Republic magazine charges.

The article, "Big Brother Keeps Tabs on Insurance Buyers," by Stanford N. Sessler, alleges that insurance policies are often refused applicants based on information which the applicant has no way of refuting.

"Retail Credit inspectors scrutinize the drinking habits of everyone they investigate. A given file might touch on any number of allegations, including rumors of extramarital affairs and homosexuality. The individual concerned has no idea the investigation is taking place and never has the opportunity to answer for the charges," the magazine contends.

THE ARTICLE relates the story of one Pennsylvania man who tried to find out why his wife was refused major medical coverage by an insurance company.

Conducting his own investigation of Retail Credit, the man learned his wife had been turned down for being "an alcoholic," although she hadn't had a dozen drinks in 20 years of married life.

The firm, which has 1,800 offices and last year earned $135 million by furnishing its 40,000 customers reports on 35 million Americans, operates "in a shroud of secrecy and beyond the scrutiny of any federal or state regulation," the magazine alleges.

"The name Retail Credit is misleading," author Sessler contends. "Except for a subsidiary operation, it does no credit checking. The vast bulk of its business comes from investigations of people who apply for insurance; Retail Credit brags it works for every major insurance company in North America."

EVEN THOUGH the person investigated cannot obtain the file relating to him, it is available to almost everyone else, for a price.

"The State Department, FBI and other federal agencies as a standard practice use Retail Credit's and Hooper-Holmes' (a competing firm) data," Sessler writes.

"For a price, anyone can buy the material. You simply have your company make an inquiry under the guise of an employment check, and the report gets mailed out."

Giant Downey-Developed Anchor Could Revolutionize Salvage, Rescue Efforts

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Editor

At Aerojet-General Corporation's Downey plant, when they say "get a foothold in the sea" they mean just that.

Under development there for the Navy is a new anchor which is designed to embed itself in the sea bottom.

Its primary purpose is salvage and rescue operations.

Its use is rather simple, making one wonder why it hasn't been developed prior to this.

The embedment anchor is lowered to the sea bottom in a recoverable base. In the base is a 10-pound explosive charge and, when fired electrically from the salvage vessel above, the anchor is driven into the ocean floor.

The charge releases a buoy which leads to the recovery of the base.

THE ANCHOR itself weighs three tons and stands 12 feet high.

Three flukes extend from its shank after penetration to — as they say over at Aero-jet-General — "give it purchase."

Three anchors, to be exact, are under development. One is for use in sandy ocean bottom, one for deep mud and one for coral.

The new anchors could be used by Navy fleet ocean tugs, salvage vessels and submarine rescue vessels.

Requirement for the large anchors originated at the Navy's Supervisor of Salvage office at Washington, D.C.

(THE ANCHORS are being fabricated for tests in California waters and in Southeast Asia under a $275,000 contract from the Naval Civil Engineering Laboratory — NCEL — at Port Hueneme.)

Just how valuable could such an anchor be in emergency?

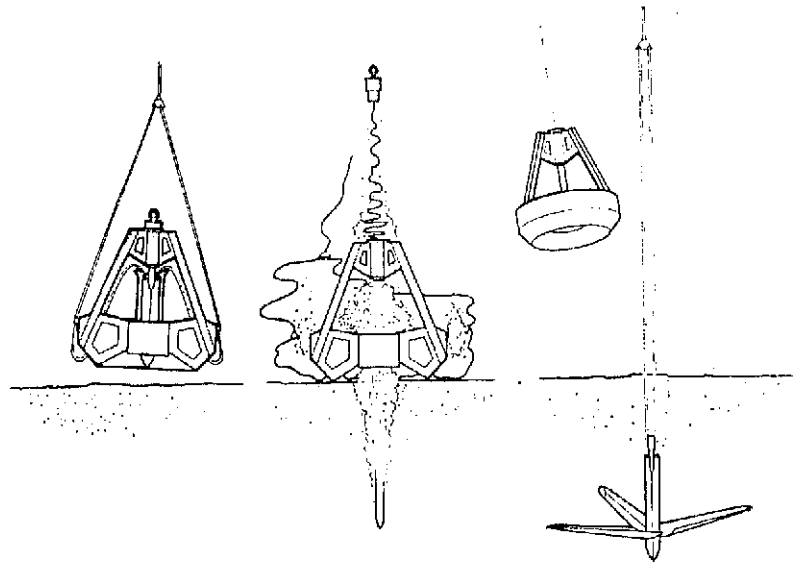

R. A. Thomason, Aerojet project engineer, says:

"With the anchor, chances are good that salvage tugs would have been able to pull the oil tanker Torrey Canyon out to sea after it went aground on the British coast this year."

"This would have saved the subsequent damage to the British coast from leaking oil."

Orange Laboratory Equipment 'Sniffs' Out Gold, Silver in Ordinary Sandstone

By Associated Press

Electronic devices that can "sniff out" invisible specks of precious metals in ordinary rocks are quietly revolutionizing the world's search for gold and silver.

In the past few years two major gold strikes and a silver deposit which reportedly could rival the Comstock lode have been found with space age techniques that enabled man to test the moon's soil without setting foot on it.

Government agencies and mining interests in the United States, the Soviet Union, Africa and Australia are systematically surveying broad areas for precious metals with these new tools.

The Russian effort reportedly is far greater than this country's, with a 10-year head start. Latest available reports indicate the Soviets are making more than seven million samplings a year compared with about 150,000 in the United States in 1967.

THE ELECTRONIC soil testers detect the presence of various kinds of metal by measuring the distinctive emissions each gives off when the rock is subjected to heat and other radiations.

Mobile laboratories — converted trailers — take the equipment to prospecting sites and make analyses on the spot.

A miniaturized soil-testing device using somewhat similar "radiation signature" techniques was carried to the moon by Surveyor spacecraft and detected was largely basaltic like that of the earth.

The gold "sniffers" are so precise they can find particles only a few microns in diameter, scattered as widely as four parts of gold per billion parts of rock. A micron is forty-millionths of an inch.

With today's giant trucks and power shovels, gold can be recovered profitably in open pit mines where the yield is as low as $2 a ton.

U.S. GEOLOGICAL Survey reports indicate two recent strikes in Nevada are averaging a third of an ounce of gold per ton.

That seems a small amount, but at $35 an ounce the gold yield is well within the profit-making range.

Operators estimate one of the deposits, near Carlin, Nev., may contain more than $100 million in gold. If true, this alone would be twice the current annual U.S. production.

The United States consumes $350 million worth a year for jewelry and industrial uses, leaving a $300 million deficit to be imported.

The California Division of Mines reports two new silver strikes near Barstow, each estimated to contain 25 million to 60 million tons of ore bearing one to four ounces of silver per ton.

IF THE higher estimates turn out to be right, this would amount to 400 million ounces, compared with 250 million ounces extracted from the old Comstock lode near Virginia City, Nev.

With silver bringing about $2 an ounce, the lower estimate of only an ounce per ton would at least pay expenses with modern techniques.

The new finds are not in the quartz veins of legend but are throughout large masses of rock, particularly siltstone and sandstone, which exist in vast quantities in Western desert and mountain regions.

mined the lunar surface

FRED TAHSE, engineer-scientist for Geochemical Systems Co., Orange, which makes surveys and analyses for large mining companies, gives this explanation of the difference between gold veins and the new finds:

"Gold sources usually are found in faults or cracks in the earth's crust. Where there are veins, this means that gold-bearing solutions have pushed up from the hot interior through the cracks and deposited the gold and usually quartz as they cooled."

"These are the richest sources, many times with almost pure chunks of gold imbedded in quartz. These nuggets, broken away by erosion, have betrayed the presence of gold veins to prospectors for centuries, and consequently are becoming harder to find."

"A SLIGHTLY different process created the deposits we are now learning to locate. They too are in or near faults but the gold bearing solutions pervaded the surrounding rocks, causing the gold to be widely disseminated and finely divided when it was deposited."

Because the gold particles are extremely fine and locked in the stone, they couldn't be seen and didn't show up in panning of stream beds. Scientists suspected gold was there, however, and development of instruments that can "see" such gold proved them right.

In its heavy metals program started in April 1966 the U.S. Geological Survey has made more than 240,000 analyses in field studies on land in 18 states and offshore along the West Coast and Gulf of Mexico.

THE SURVEY recently reported "several significant results," including the Nevada gold finds and others in Colorado and Wyoming.

The Colorado deposit, near Cripple Creek, averages $2.50 in gold per ton. The deposit in northwestern Wyoming contains only 6 to 35 cents in gold per cubic yard of rock, the report says. "The volume of rock involved is enormous — 50 cubic miles or more — and the possibility of finding higher grade concentrations within the area is good."

The survey says 90 per cent of its effort in this program so far "has been on gold because of its international monetary importance."

GEOCHEMICAL SYSTEMS COMPANY employees at Orange make tests of soil samples in search for gold. Frederick Iuppenlatz (top) prepares sample for analysis. Iuppenlatz (bottom left) and engineer-scientist Fred Tahse put gold samples through tests to separate dissolved gold from soil. Firm makes surveys and analyses for mining companies.

Casa Grande Homes, located near the cities of Lakewood and Bellflower, on Palo Verde just south of Artesia and north of South Street are now taking reservations for the third unit. Warmington Construction Co., builders revealed they have sold over $3,630,000 worth of homes in Casa Grande since the opening, and have reservations on hand for over $1,000,000 in homes in unit three, it was stated by Pete Blair, sales manager for the project.

Casa Grande is ideally located near schools, churches and shopping and are priced from $29,650 to $35,100 with FHA, VA and conventional financing. These three, four and five bedroom homes are one and two story and have all the customized features most wanted in today's homes, including wood floors and concrete drives, built ins and garden kitchens.

Record Higher Vehicle Traffic

In March, 8,466,404 vehicles crossed the seven state owned toll bridges, an increase of 5.8 per cent over the same month a year ago.

The Benicia-Martinez Bridge registered a record increase of 41.3 per cent. Benicia-Martinez also showed a new daily high on March 24 with 25,023 vehicles making the crossing. The previous record was set on Nov. 26, 1967, with 24,543 vehicles.

Vincent Thomas Bridge counted 431,153 vehicles, up 10.3 per cent.

Crime Curbed

A recent study of 25 major metropolitan areas showed that improved street lighting helped to decrease crime and traffic accident rates. The study found that in one city crimes against persons on the streets dropped 40 per cent, auto thefts 29 per cent, and business burglaries 13 per cent the first

Can the average Californian drive to New York in two days?

There's no problem at all — as was proved by two young non-professional drivers who have just set the new coast-to-coast "legal speed" record.

Without breaking the speed limit at any time, Jan Norbye and Jim Dunne, magazine writers, crossed the nation in 44 hours, 50 minutes and 56 seconds in a stock Pontiac Catalina station wagon — exactly the same type car in which suburban housewives take their youngsters to school.

If there's any secret to a two-day crossing, it's keeping the car nudged up to the speed limit at all times — and using as much of the new interstate highway system as has been completed.

ON THEIR ARRIVAL at the Los Angeles city limits on the San Bernardino Freeway, the pair had clocked 2871 miles from their starting point, the New York City entrance to the Lincoln Tunnel.

They had averaged 64.26 miles per hour in the Pontiac station wagon, alternating shifts at the wheel and stopping only for gasoline.

Their top speed was 70 miles per hour, and they never exceeded the legal speed limits of the 13 states they crossed on their record-breaking trip.

The record Norbye and Dunne broke, set in 1962 with a foreign car whose top speed was only 60 miles per hour, was slightly over 48 hours for the coast-to-coast drive. The first transcontinental record was made in 1903 when it took Tom Fetch in a Packard 61 days to drive from coast to coast.

Norbye and Dunne credited the interstate highway system, on which they traveled about 75 per cent of the time, and the station wagon's Cruise Control System for their fast average speed. Their route had been plotted by the American Automobile Association and neither had driven it before. The Cruise Control, an optional feature on all Pontiacs, automatically maintains a pre-set speed. They used it even in cities where the legal speed was only 25 or 35 miles per hour so they could keep an eye out for traffic signs and not have to watch the speedometer to be sure they didn't exceed the legal limit.

NORBYE, TECHNICAL EDITOR of Popular Science magazine, and Dunne, the periodical's Detroit editor, said total fuel cost for the trip was $71.29.

They used both regular and leaded gasoline and stopped at the first station they came to without regard to brand when their fuel gauge warning light came on to signify they had only 45 miles to go before their fuel would run out.

They said the automobile worked perfectly during the entire trip — and they never even had to add any oil.

Their food and drink consisted of roast beef sandwiches, chocolate bars, fruit and tea, all prepared before they started, and eaten while driving.

MODERNISTIC PARAMOUNT COMPLEX... Houses SCOPE Offices, Plant

SCOPE Began Without Fanfare; Firm Busy in Paramount Complex

One of Paramount's fastest growing businesses, which slipped into that city's industrial picture without fanfare, this week is celebrating its first anniversary. SCOPE (Southern California Offset Printing Enterprises) hums on an around-the-clock pace in its modernistic new plant at 16312 S. Garfield St.

Partner-owners are Raymond G. Butters, 37, of Garden Grove, and Thomas Sneddon, 38, of Palos Verdes.

Neither is new to the printing field.

Butters has been in the business for 19 years; Sneddon, for 12.

A major account is Normond Linder & Associates, Los Angeles, headed by Normond Linder who is associated with SCOPE.

SCOPE moved into the new 10,000-square-foot, $150,000 building a year ago and immediately installed $250,000 worth of late-model equipment, including a $70,000 Photon and a 70-foot-long Fairchild Color King press.

The press' capacity is 20 standard newspaper pages.

"What we have here," Butters said, "is an organization capable of giving fast, efficient service with minimum notice."

SCOPE employs 32 people, each an expert in his own department. The firm's payroll adds $260,000 annually to the Paramount-Southland economy.

NAREB President Pledges Open Housing Law Backing

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The head of America's 85,000 realtors has pledged full cooperation of his organization in implementing and enforcing the new

"open housing" law recently passed by Congress.

Speaking at the 49th annual convention of the Oklahoma Association of Realtors, Lyn E. Davis of Dallas, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said his members will stick strictly with the law in selling residential property.

"There will be some confusion among buyers, sellers and Realtors until the director of housing and development hands down his interpretation of the bill," Davis said.

"TITLE A of the bill is so loosely drawn that enforcement will depend a great deal on his interpretation," Davis predicted.

He said Realtors fought the open housing provision steadfastly for many years "because we believe it deprives the real property owner of a basic right."

"This law is contrary to what we believe is the right of every owner to sell, control and enjoy his property as he desires and sees fit."

New Paradise Manor Unit Nearly Complete

Construction of unit 2, consisting of 16 two and three-bedroom, two and three-bath homes, all with 400 square feet completely finished bonus rooms over two car garages is almost completed at Paradise Manor or townhouse community, just off the San Diego Freeway on Euclid Street in Orange County.

Pat Madden, sales manager for the Trans-Robles Corp., builders and developers reports that the acceptance of the first unit by the public has necessitated the new construction.

"Families like the pleasant relaxed air of Paradise Manor, the open floor plans with floating stairways to the second floor, the large bonus rooms where children or parents can obtain privacy, the compact recreational area with its completely equipped and superbly furnished clubhouse," Madden pointed out.

"Paradise Manor's three-bedroom, three-bath homes may be purchased for only $25,950," Madden said, "and it is a price our buyers can hardly believe in this day of $30,000-plus homes. We start at $19,750, with all homes being available for 5 per cent down."

From the Long Beach area, drive east on the San Diego Freeway to Euclid Street, then north on Euclid a short distance to Paradise Manor.

LUMINOUS CEILINGS... One of Many College Park Features

College Park Provides Full Home With No Extras to Buy

"College Park is the fastest-selling community in its area because it provides a 'total environment' for the entire family," is the proud boast of Jerry Henderson, marketing director.

"Buyers get a 'complete' home, with no extras to buy. The expensive, 'big-ticket' items such as luxurious carpeting, the latest of electric kitchen built-ins are in and ready for enjoyment," the sales executive explained.

Floor plans are engineered for efficiency and easy maintenance, to permit the homemaker to save steps, save effort and save time.

Family rooms, dens and bonus rooms make it possible for each member of the family to enjoy his or her hobby to the fullest. The models are open daily and inspection is invited. Take San Diego-Garden Grove Freeways to Valley View Street turnoff, go north on Valley View to Cerulean.

Sol-Vista Home Fair Is Big Attraction

One of the most popular points of interest in Huntington Beach these weekends is Sol-Vista's "California Home Fair" development at Slater and Edwards Streets. And, visitors are finding it hard to believe that all of these luxury four and five-bedroom homes are now available in the $31,275-$34,700 price range, says a spokesman.

As a matter of fact, these prices are a full $4,000 to $4,350 less than was the case just a few short weeks ago. At that time, Sol-Vista announced the price reductions in the interest of closing out the present development and beginning the construction of a new one.

A distinctive touch in all the living rooms of these homes is a handsome floor-to-ceiling fireplace of brick, stone or concrete. On all models, VA, FHA and conventional 6 per cent financing are available. Older homes may also be used in trade under a very convenient trade-in plan. The display is easily reached from either the San Diego or Garden Grove Freeways. From either, take the Beach Boulevard "off" left to Slater and the homes.

Set Briefing on Realtor Week Plan

Bernie Specht, a director of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors and of the Apartment House Association, will brief the Realtors on upcoming Realtor Week at their Tuesday meeting.

The group meets at 7:15 a.m. Tuesdays at the Crown Cafeteria.

A board visitation from the Hawthorne, La Mirada and Newport Harbor-Costa Mesa Boards of Realtors also is scheduled.

L.B. Chamber Lists Members' Comments

"Long Beach," newsletter published by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, is carrying a monthly list of comments from members on city affairs.

This month's suggestions, ranging from parking problems to beautification, included these remarks:

T. J. Gates, MacMillan Ring-Free Oil Co., Inc.: "Streets in Long Beach and the downtown area need great renovations."

C. L. Sutton, Rancho Diner: "Take-out restaurants on the corners tend to block traffic at intersections when they start backing up while waiting to pick up their orders."

Verna Ratliff, Anapine Liquors: "Parking is a problem since the city widened Anaheim. A city ordinance states that there must be so many feet of red curb from the corner, thus eliminating parking in front of my store."

Charlie Stuart, Security Prescription: "The Chamber should get involved in informing citizens about government in medicine and keeping it on a year-round basis, not just a once a year health fair."

Stan Miller, All Miller Roofs: "The city has put too much emphasis on the Queen Mary and has neglected small craft. The city should provide more slips for small craft because the boating business is becoming stagnant."

C. E. Brookins, Priscilla Cake Box: "The program of beautifying the city is important, but it's long-term. An overlooked object in need of beautification is our alleys."

Henry E. Rindome, R & R Sportswear: "We need young blood in Long Beach."

Thomas L. Christianson, Virginia Patio Flower Shop: "Unsanitary business establishments are not keeping up with shopping centers. We need more beautification."

Leo Shultz, Leo Shultz Furniture: "I think the slogan for the Long Beach Chamber should be 'It's great to do business in Long Beach.'"

Juliet L. Welch: "I would like one-way streets to become two-way streets again because one-way streets seem to encourage speeding."

Andrew Lacoio, A & B Escrow, Inc.: "Our city fathers are not definite enough on any action. They lack confidence in decisions."

Palatial Living Space in Bixby Hills Homes

Interior living space reaching palatial proportions gives owners of Bixby Hill homes unlimited versatility in self-expression through furnishings and decor.

That is the observation of Mrs. Dorene Smith, project sales manager for S&S Construction Co.

"Classic elegance is possible only with huge open areas to work in," Mrs. Smith explained, "and Bixby Hill designs stress this in all floor plans. This is evident as soon as the visitor steps into the commodious entry hall of any of our model homes."

THE LONG BEACH development, occupying a historic site that once was the headquarters of Rancho Los Alamitos, has become the newest exclusive residential area of the city, enjoying countrylike seclusion within minutes of all city conveniences.

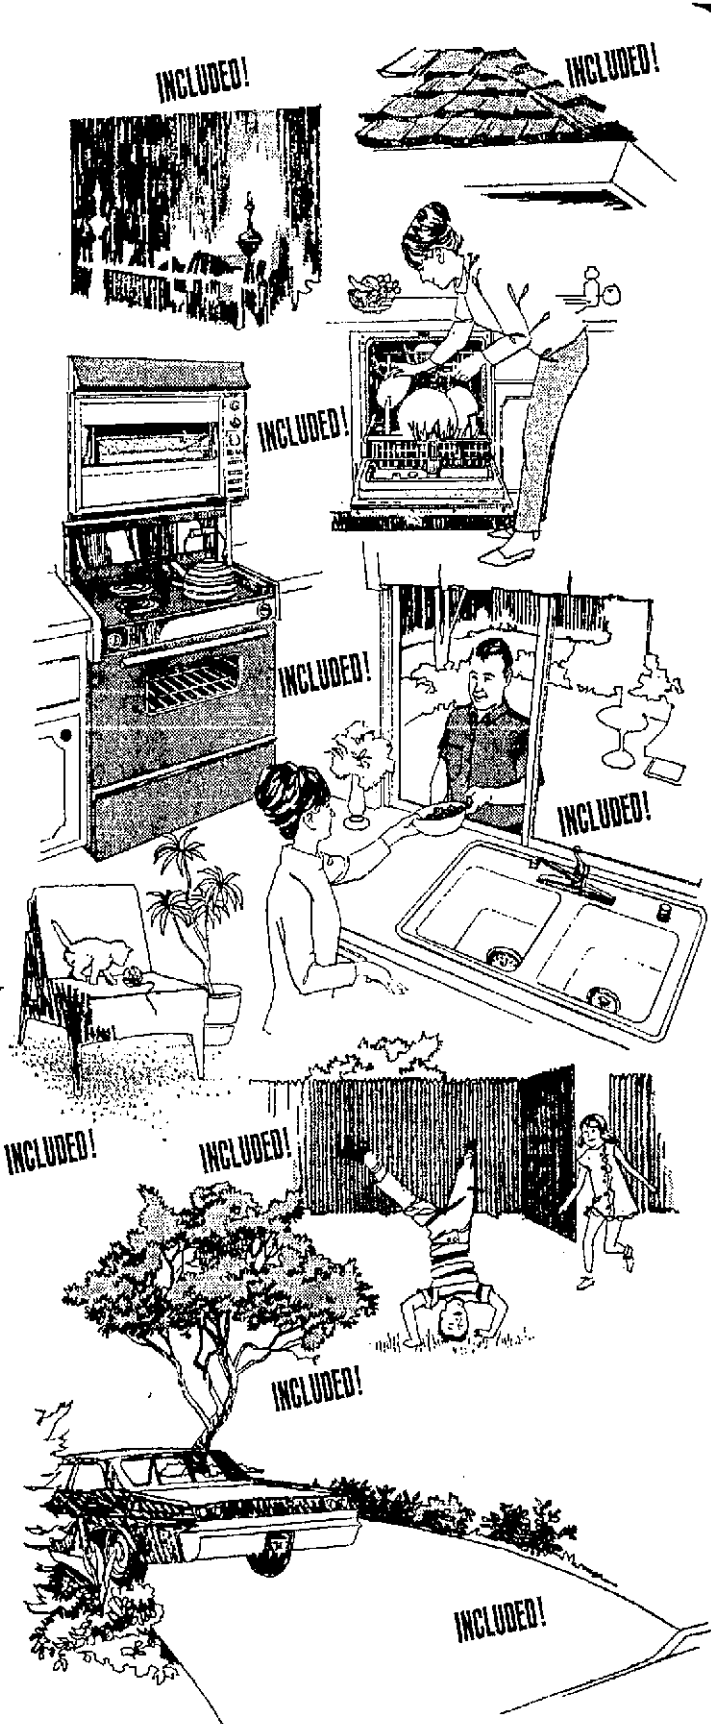

Offered are three, four and five-bedroom homes, all with living room, formal dining room, breakfast room, family room and den. Atriums, patios, balconies and porches add practical and enjoyable outdoor living space.

The homes are priced from $55,000, with excellent conventional financing. To visit the models, from San Diego Freeway take the Palo Verde turnoff and go south on Palo Verde to Bixby Hill.

Automotive Personality of the Week

If they ever held a contest for the best-dressed man on Auto Row I'm sure the easy winner would be Ray Fladeboe who runs the Mercury-Cougar store in Bellflower.

I've met the big, affable man on many occasions and I've yet to catch him when he wasn't sartorially resplendent, impeccably dressed... just like a page out of Playboy. (Not the center spread, silly).

But Ray has worn cloth of a different cut which, uniquely, is probably why he's now a new-car dealer in Southern California.

RAY FLADEBOE

For Mr. Fladeboe wore the uniform of the U.S. Marines after enlisting in his home town of Willmar, Minn.

San Diego is where Ray took his basic training and the warm sunlight, ocean breezes, etc., made him a California "Be-backer." A "be-back," I might explain is a new-car shopper who, after a lengthy look at the dealer's wares, strolls out of the showroom with a nonchalant "I'll be back."

MARINE CORPS days over, Fladeboe went into the banking business, working for the B of A in Los Angeles. But Ray felt he wasn't getting to the top fast enough and when a neighbor suggested he get in the auto business he did just that.

In March of 1961, Ray bought the dealership of Lou Harrison at 17617 S. Bellflower Blvd., which he has operated ever since.

The Mercury dealer, his wife Jacqueline, and their four children — Candice, Denise, Bruce and Renae — live in La Habra Heights.

Free Lunch, Entertainment at Yorktowne Grand Opening

Grand opening of Yorktowne, a new community of moderately-priced homes being built by Shields Development Co., Inc. in Huntington Beach will be held today with entertainment and refreshments highlighting the festivities on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Headlining the entertainment will be KCOP's Dick Clayton of the TV "Papaboi's Toy Shop" program.

The Southern California Edison Co. and Gaffers and Sattler have joined forces to provide refreshments, including roast beef sandwiches, cookies, coffee and punch, with hostesses from both concerns on hand.

Although this weekend's celebrations mark the official opening of the development, Frank McFarland Sr., sales agent, pointed out that as soon as plans for the community were announced, and long before either the permanent sales office or model homes were built, interest among buyers was extremely high. As a result it was necessary to open an interim sales office in a trailer at the site.

Available at Yorktowne are homes containing up to four bedrooms, in one and two-story stylings, ranging in price from $22,995.

Yorktowne is located on the east side of Brookhurst Avenue opposite Constitution Avenue in Huntington Beach, and may be reached from the San Diego Freeway by driving south on Brookhurst.

Real Estate Syndication Essentially Growth Oriented

Among the forms of real estate investment, according to Al Sykes, president, Bellflower District Board of Realtors, is one that was relatively unused in California until the last 20 years or so.

That is the real estate syndicate, long popular in the eastern United States where professionals in investment combined resources to purchase large real estate holdings for a limited time, then sold them.

During the holding period, normally 10 years now because of tax considerations, the property is managed to increase in value. When sold, the "capital gain" is split among the syndicate investors according to their interest, Sykes said.

SOME syndicates have as an objective creating income for the investors during the life of the syndicate. When they sell, they recover their original investment, having already reaped income from it, he explained.

Whatever the purpose, the real estate syndicate has advantages for the investor with a comparatively small amount to invest. Ten people, for instance, with $5000 each to invest, could use the $50,000 as down payment on a $250,000 office building, paying a management fee out of rental earnings.

DEPENDING on the condition of the building, office rentals, competition, trend of the area, and other factors, each investor, at the end of the syndicate period could expect to share in the earnings of a quarter-million dollar office building, according to Sykes.

Chateau Blanc Family Townhomes on Brookhurst Street in Orange County have established themselves as one of Orange County's most desirable residential communities, reports Pat Madden, sales manager for the Trans-Robles Corp., builders and developers.

Construction of unit No. 3 is almost completed, bringing the total number of homes in the beach-close (10 minutes) community to well over 100. The new homes will all continue to feature 420 square foot, completely finished bonus rooms, one of the principal reasons for Chateau Blanc's sales popularity with the homebuying public. The two and three-bedroom, two and three-bath homes are priced from $19,995 to $25,950.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Letter to Congressman Works Wonders

Numerous complaints are received from readers saying they cannot get any satisfaction when dealing with FHA or VA or other governmental offices. The reply to B.C. indicates how problems of this type are best resolved.

MR. MELTZER:

Everyone said they would help, but the only way I can save my house is to agree to an increase of the interest rate on my mortgage from 4 per cent to 7 per cent. You are my last resort.

I'm a veteran of World War II. In 1949 I bought my house on the basis of a 4 per cent 25-year G.I. loan.

Last summer I was in an automobile accident and was out of work for four months. I notified the bank and the Veterans Administration of my accident and they each told me not to worry. Since there was no income, I could not make the mortgage payments.

When I went back to work and money once more started coming in, the bank refused to accept payments. However, they agreed to forgive my missing mortgage payments if I would refinance my 4 per cent G.I. loan to a 7 per cent conventional loan. Actually the bank was never in danger of losing money because my mortgage balance is less than $3,000 and the house is worth over $20,000. Is there any way I can save my 4 per cent mortgage? B.C.

ANSWER: A question of this type illustrates the difference between theory and practice. A veteran by missing four months in payments is in default, and therefore the bank has the right to call the mortgage. It can demand in full—or it can foreclose.

In spite of the shaky legal position, practically, the mortgage can be saved. Firm and immediate action is required. If the veteran were to write to his congressman or his senators he would probably find that in a short time, as if by magic, an agreement would be worked out to reinstate the 4 per cent mortgage.

I have found that in dealing with government units it is best to start from the top down. In this case, for example, letters from the congressman and senators to the Veterans Administration expressing interest in the case will start the necessary wheels in motion at the local district office.

A direct complaint to the district office, in contrast, often accomplishes no such results.

My advice to readers who have FHA or VA mortgages facing problems which are not being satisfactorily solved at the local level to write directly to their senators, congressmen, and even the White House. I have found that this procedure usually brings the necessary action and results.

MR. MELTZER:

This may be a theoretical question, but it is a rather interesting one. If your answer is yes, I think I have found an almost sure way to make big money at very little cost.

My sister and brother-in-law are probably the two sloppiest and most careless persons in the world. Their house is piled high with junk and trash. In addition, both smoke like belching chimneys. With this combination they've already had three fires during the past year.

For less than $30 I can get a $10,000 fire policy on their home. After that all I'll have to do is just sit and wait. The money is sure to roll in. Anything wrong with my idea? I.P.

ANSWER: Don't bother spending the $30 for the fire policy, you'll never be able to collect. Your policy would be void because you have no insurable interest in your brother-in-law's property. This clause in a policy is specifically designed to remove temptation from imaginative persons like yourself.

MR. MELTZER:

My husband and I have about agreed that divorce is the only solution to our problem. The only asset of any substance that we have is our house. It's in both our names.

He says that since the money to pay for the house was earned by him alone, it is rightfully his. I'm not so sure about what rightfully is his, but what I'd like to ask is when the great day comes, will it be legally his? Mrs. S.B.

ANSWER: The general rule is that each person is usually granted a half interest on half the monetary separation. However, in some states if the grounds for divorce are adultery, extreme cruelty, or other such reasons, the judge, on his discretion, may grant a greater portion of the property to the innocent spouse.

(Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.)

Symphony in Sapphire

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Editor

Since its inception five years ago, Symphony Guild's annual Jewel Ball has been an event of grace and elegance.

The first ball, for which Mrs. Herman H. Ridder was chairman, was so successful as a fund-raising device for Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, that the affair has been staged each year since, its theme taken from a precious gem. This year the ball is "Symphony in Sapphire."

will enter a scene of classic beauty. A sparkling fountain, glowing lights and flower twined lattice will mark the entry.

Within, the atmosphere will be enhanced by Corinthian columns, those slender, fluted, elaborately graceful designs of Greek architecture. A Grecian gowned musician with a lyre will be a recurring motif in statuary and decorations. Tables will be centered by gleaming candelabra garlanded with blossoms.

Arrangements for the ball have been made by the chairman, Mrs. Richard D. Westervelt, guild president Mrs. Burton Benwell and the following committee chairmen: Mrs. Harold Bayer, decorations; Mrs. William E. Maschal, publicity; and Mrs. Robert F. Canaday, reservations. Other committee members are Mmes. Lewis C. Goodrich, Charles Evett, Ron Hughes and Robert Piwarzyk.

NEW LUSTER HAS been added to the ball this year by Mrs. Ridder, honorary chairman. She has innovated the Jewel Tables where Jewels of the Ball will be seated.

These are donors, who, recognizing the asset that the Long Beach Symphony is to the culture of the city, purchased special $100 per couple tickets to the ball.

Among these are former Gov. and Mrs. Edmund G. Brown; Mayor and Mrs. Edwin W. Wade; Messrs. and Mmes. Llewellyn Bixby Jr., John W. Hancock, George R. Johnson, Henry H. Powell, Roland E. Robbins, George P. Taubman Jr., Gus A. Walker, William W. Broom, Samuel C. Cameron, Don L. Nutter, Thomas A. Niekarz, Les H. Cohen, Herman H. Ridder, Daniel H. Ridder, Robinson A. Reid; and Mr. James G. Craig Sr.

Another, who wishes to remain unnamed, Mrs. Ridder described as "a Jewel who is a true friend of the symphony."

Many who sent checks added warm notes of response, lauding the plan to increase symphony support.

The orchestra's year-round activities include a series of Sunday evening concerts, young people's concerts, summer Starlight Serenades, student musician competition, auditions for young artists, concert previews and special concerts such as the one Arthur Fiedler conducted here this season.

The evening will begin with cocktails at 7:30 p.m. and dinner at 8:30 o'clock. Jim Selover's orchestra will play for dance.

WILD WAVES SAY

From bunny hop to some let's talk turkey talk

By Iola Maserson
Society Editor

WHILE THE Easter bunny now can afford to rest, the Poly High Hare really has to get a-hopping. Out of a class of 790 graduates from 1958, he has to help a reunion committee find 300 with whom they've not made contact.

Reunion will be a 9 p.m. dance and light, late buffet at Pacific Coast Club on June 15. Reason Poly's rabbit is nervously twitching his whiskers is that committee needs to know immediately how many copies to order of the special 10th anniversary year book being put out for those who attend. He'd appreciate your contacting Mrs. Al Cruchley (nee Kay Sutton), 3150 Arlotte Ave., Long Beach 90815, to make reservations.

The year book is to be dedicated to the late Jeff Cowan, son of our town's May and Neal Cowan. Jeff was one of Poly's all-time most popular students. He served as president of the student body in his senior year as well as president of his senior class, president of the junior class and president of any number of clubs and as well was a top athlete and fine scholar.

Chairman Mrs. Ken Hazard (nee Sherry Aldred), 2822 Albury Ave., announces these special books will be given as part of the $4 per person admission fee. Those who can't attend may order the books for $1 per copy.

On night of the party a photographer will take pictures of all couples on arrival. These will be put in booklet form and may be purchased for just 50 cents each. Between the special year book and the picture booklet, it will make a fine memory packet for '58 grads.

DURING A LUNCHEON this week, women at my table started talking about funny cooking mistakes they had made (funny now—not when they made them). Flo (Mrs. John) Brooks said that shortly after they were married she invited her mother-in-law and her mother-in-law's quite proper sister for dinner.

Among other things, she served fresh asparagus which, although nothing was said, was obviously not the bit of the meat. It wasn't until next day when she was throwing out the garbage, Flo found out what she had done wrong from her landlady, who witnessed what she was giving the heave-ho. She was throwing away the uncooked spear ends of the vegetable. She had properly snapped each stalk in two—but cooked and served the leathery bottom ends.

Much more recently Flo cooked a turkey for a family dinner party. John, who was carving and serving dressing from the bird, seemed to be having quite a hassle at one point. To both his and Flo's dismay, which flipped quickly to hilarity for all, he pulled forth the big serving spoon and on it was the plastic sack containing the giblets which the cook had forgotten to remove.

After Jerry and Jetta Jacobs were married Jetta decided her first company dinner would be for their mothers-in-law and other family members. She didn't make a mistake on one thing. She made a mistake on EVERYthing. They dined in a restaurant.

When John and Emily Wulffsun's son, John, was first married he asked his bride, Ann, to get the recipe from his mother for his favorite pie (lemon). Ann dutifully cooked same and served it with pride. But the pride went nose diving when she discovered she couldn't even cut it. Instead of three tbsps. of cornstarch, as called for, she had used something like three cups. When Ann called to say she thought she had gotten something wrong she added that she was pretty good at cement mixing, even if her pie baking was a failure.

WELCOMING SUMMER, daylight savings and friends will be Frieda (Mrs. Joe) Bishop, Pat (Mrs. Wes) Horton, Dorothy (Mrs. William) Ellery and Waula (Mrs. Seibert) Pearson when they are co-hostesses at a brunch Wednesday. Party will be at the Bishop home on California Avenue.

Because the hostesses decided on a daisy theme they went on a shopping spree to find identically trimmed dresses. Should say it was more of a project than a spree to find four identical gowns in pale yellow and of a proper size.

Frieda and Joe returned from a fabulous golfing vacation in Hawaii just in time for her to get her silver all polished for the party. They went with Ann and Jim Wood, Mary and "Red" Whisenant and Jane and Larry Houts.

During the two weeks they were gone they played all the best courses on Hawaii, Maui and Oahu. They rotated play by choosing new teams for each day. Frieda wound up being on the winning team every single day they played.

DURING Old Ranch Country Club's Guys and Dolls golf tourney, club tourney chairman Bernie Solomon took pictures on his instant playback TV camera of all players. These were then shown at dinners following each day's round. This sort of thing can even give an Arnold Palmer a trauma on a bad shot, without benefit of the additional buffeting handed out to Old Ranchers by comments of attorney Dan Farnham, MC.

Dangerous Dan took verbal potshots at everyone on camera to total delight of all not, at the moment, on center screen. You can imagine the kind of remark he made of the woman entrant who drove from the 10th tee and had her ball land in a water hazard on the 16th fairway in the absolute opposite direction of where she wanted to go.

Co-chairman of this particular tourney were Dr. Grog Hoskins and Sterling Clayton. Winners were John and Aileen Waterman, first; Dr. Irv and Louise White, second; and Bill and Norma Deebie, third.

IN A STATE of first time grandparental bliss are Bernie and Mimi Wishney. Son and daughter-in-law, Peter and Kathy, had a baby girl, Sherry Lynn, born at San Gabriel Community Hospital.

The hospital has a unique setup. From the indoor baby place, the little ones are wheeled up to windows and visitors may view them from the vantage point of a cool, shady outdoor patio. Visitors' hours last for a full hour both afternoon and evening. Mimi made both "shows" on first day after Sherry's arrival and planned to keep up her adoring vigil until Kathy and baby went home.

AN ARTFULLY done champagne reception, with happy people as the main subjects, was given to honor Lois Venne because of her Masters Exhibit of paintings and drawings at Cal State, Long Beach. Hosts were Courtney and Muriel Trostle at their home, 840 Santiago Ave.

Celebrating the attainment of her MA in art and the exhibit with Lois were her husband, Capt. Antoine, sons Anthony III and Paul, her brother and sister-in-law, Phipps and Shirley Rasmussen, who came from Orinda, plus an aunt, niece and nephew. Others toasting the artist were Dr. Charles and Jean Thompson (Charles is a professor of art at C.S.C.L.B.). Cooper and Joy Lindley, Earl and Virginia Milton and Dr. V. DeMott Sedgwick.

Also in a toasting mood were Capt. John and Wynne Elwell, Lyman and Nancy Lough, Dr. George and Ruth Scouter, Adm. John and Odette Davis, Robert and Mary Anne Hailey, Bette Arntzen and Jim Boyd.

...Jewels will add luster to ball

ing. Selover is a member of the symphony and several members of his dance orchestra also play in the symphony.

Excitement will mount that evening when the recipient is named for a Kashmir blue, antique cut sapphire from India in the area of Ceylon.

These precious jewels were known and mined long ago and trade was brisk when the intrepid Venetian traveler, Marco Polo, visited Asia in the 13th century.

The name of sapphire is the current form of a Sanskrit word meaning "dear to Saturn," an ancient god whose reign was considered the golden age.

Monarchs have cherished sapphires in their treasure houses and wore them in their crowns.

In the "Song of Songs," the Queen of Sheba sang of Solomon — "bright ivory overlaid with sapphires."

The bluest of eyes are sapphires, so, too, are the brightest of stars.

But when the ball is over, members of the Symphony Guild, mindful of the cause for which they work, will recall the guests in the words of Milton . . . "Now glowed the firmament with living sapphires."

The teen years are trying times--for adults

By ERMA BOMBECK

Marriage experts have always contended the most crucial span of a marriage is the first five years. I never knew why until this year. Neither party wants custody of a teenager.

Many parents tell me they have tried, without success, to communicate with their youngsters and have made great efforts to understand them. My problem is the reverse. My teenagers are forever nagging me, telling me what to do. They try to draw me into conversation to discuss my problems. When I close my bedroom door, they interfere with my privacy.

They borrow my clothes and want to be a pal to me. They tell me how to fix my hair, what clothes to buy, when I may have the car, and insist on knowing to whom I am talking on the telephone. They correct my grammar in front of my friends.

I've tried to tell them there is a generation gap. I don't care if my complexion breaks out from too much chocolate or if I don't have something special to wear for Saturday night. I have my own life to lead. But they refuse to treat me as an adult.

Take the other day. I was headed for the store.

"Mother!" screamed my daughter. "You're not going outside in white socks!"

"All my friends wear them," I said helplessly.

"You're not your friends," she said. "You're you! Why don't you wear those little nylon footlets I got you for Christmas. And what's with your eyes? You've got too much makeup on them. You look like you're having a migraine."

"What makeup?" I sighed. "I am having a migraine."

"If you'd get more sleep," she sighed. "You and Daddy out in the middle of the week until 2 a.m. I've read stories about those adult parties and I worry about you and Dad. You can't keep on like this. You'll end up like Susan Hayward."

"I AM GOING to the store. Good-bye."

"Are you coming right home or are you stopping off anywhere?"

"If I do, I'll wire you an itinerary."

"You don't have to snap at me. I am only showing my concern for you. Are you meeting Hazel Wilkins?"

"I may run into her. What's the matter with Hazel Wilkins?"

"She has too much spending money of her own and not enough responsibility. Besides, did you know she's a League of Women Voters drop-out?"

Later, I met Hazel in the parking lot. "I shouldn't be seen talking with you," she whispered. "My children think you are going to pot because you don't wear a girdle during the week. I told them I was going to the library to read U.S. News and World Report."

"I've got to dash, too. They're taking me to a sex lecture tonight."

"Why can't our children just accept us for what we are?" sighed Hazel.

"I don't know," I said. "It's just a pity they can't remember how rough it is to be an adult."

BUFFUMS' BEAUTY NEWS

Beauty Aids Focus On Skin Care From GermaineMonteil

If you've been looking for a beauty program, but have no time for experiments, Germaine Monteil offers you exquisitely formulated, carefully prepared treatment preparations.

Caring properly for your skin is the first step. And, proper care can be accomplished by spending a few minutes in the morning and a few minutes at night, cleansing your skin and treating it to lubrication and stimulation.

Germaine Monteil has created skin conditioners, cleansers and toners . . . each designed to do a specific job. And, each one, used properly, can help you awake the sense of beauty that lies within you.

Naturally, for creams or lotions to be beneficial to skin, they can't be applied one day, forgotten for a week, then applied again one evening when you're at a loss for something to do. Beauty must become a habit. Just like brushing your teeth, you must plan beauty into your day. An extra five minutes in the morning and an extra five minutes at night set aside for your skin is quite nominal when you begin to see the results: A new and more beautiful you.

Germaine Monteil's program of beauty begins when you first wake up. Your skin needs to be waked up too, and to do this she's created Skin Freshener, a soothing, citrus-herb lotion that completes your total skin cleanliness; helps texturize, clarify, 4.00 and 7.00. And, before you rinse with Skin Freshener, you can wash with Super Tone Skin Conditioner. It's a refreshing, crystal-clear liquid that helps to condition, purify, brighten and lighten the skin, 5.00 and 8.00.

To protect skin before applying make-up, use Super Moist Beauty Emulsion. It leaves your skin dewy and radiant. 7.50. 12.00. 20.00.

At night, your skin must be cleansed carefully. It's been exposed all day to dust, wind, sunlight. To wash effectively you can use deep-cleansing Super-3 Liquid Cleanser which is also moisturizing. 4.50 and 7.50. If you prefer a cream cleanser, Non-Aquifying Cleansing Cream is a light, fluffy, homogenized cleanser that melts to the touch, and softens as well as cleanses, 4.50 and 7.50. Follow this with Super Tone Skin Conditioner to tone your skin. It is a wonderful way to make skin feel tighter, brighter, 5.00 and 8.00. Then, rinse with Skin Freshener.

The most important of all corrective preparations, Bio-Miracle Cream should be used to stimulate skin. It's a must for skin that's lost its elasticity and vitality. 15.00. 25.00 and 40.00. Lubricate with Super Royal Cream every other night. This "leantly soothe" with Royal Jelly helps skin look brighter, smoother and dewy moist. 10.00. 18.00 and 30.00.

By following this kind of care program, your skin will reflect the attention you give it, within a very short time . . . and compliments will follow. Come in to Buffums' Cosmetic department and let the consultant at the Germaine Monteil counter help to guide you with your selection.

REPRESENTATIVE TO DISCLOSE BEAUTY SECRETS AT BUFFUMS'

It's fortified with Royal Jelly and Vitamin A.

For day-time wear, apply a tiny dot of Super Eye Cream below the outside of the eye and smooth towards the nose. Super Eye Stick is an emollient wand that glides lightly over eyelids . . . keeps them young, soft and lovely.

Safety play aids duplicate

A safety play is an insurance policy to protect a contract. It is most important in rubber bridge where overtricks mean little but also has its place in match point duplicate.

In the recent Metropolitan championships, Carol Leib and Jane Kerr won the women's pairs. One of their 'good' scores came when Carol wisely decided to take out an insurance policy on a four spade contract. East put the ace of diamonds on her partner's queen and Carol dropped the king. This type play is almost automatic with any good player irrespective of the possible need to establish an extra entry to dummy.

East returned the nine of diamonds and Carol let dummy's 10 win the trick. Then she went into a lot of study before leading the ace of clubs and discarding her jack of diamonds. This was her insurance policy. It made it impossible for her to make an overtrick, but nevertheless made it impossible for her to lose her contract.

Her next play was a low trump. East jumped up with the ace and led another diamond. Carol ruffed high, drew trumps stopping in dummy and discarded two of her three low hearts on the last two high clubs.

IT SHOULD be noted that the safety play would have been equally effective had West held the ace of spades. East would have been able to trump a heart, but the heart East trumped would have been the small one that Carol lost anyway. It should also be noted that if East had ducked the first diamond, Carol would have had to go down one trick and that a heart plus further correct defense would also have beaten her, but no one who wants to win waits for sure thing contracts.

Parasol Show to open --merry splash in May

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Editor

May is the month of merriment and whimsy — and the Parasol Show.

This annual art show and sale, put on by the Rembrandt Crew of Palos Verdes Community Arts Association, will be staged Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and next Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. in Malaga Cove Plaza, Palos Verdes Estates.

Under gay parasols, artists will exhibit their work, display portfolios of sketches and unmatted drawings, talk with visitors about their art and answer questions.

The atmosphere of tile roofs, arches, a splashing Neptune fountain — replicas of the famous one in Bologna, Italy — and graceful pepper trees is conducive to browsing and conversation.

The Rembrandt Crew, a group of women from the Peninsula, includes artists who exhibit throughout Southern California. Many have garnered awards in juried shows. Jean Dayton West and Florence Philleo are members of Women Painters of the West. Joan Fey and Marie Starr are represented in Joseph Mugnaini's book, "A Search for Form." A number have been commissioned to paint portraits and landscapes. All are serious artists.

THE PARASOL SHOW is held in conjunction with the Peninsula's "Homes Beautiful" tour sponsored by the Episcopal Church Women of St. Francis Parish. Each home, in addition to being of architectural and decorating interest, houses fine pieces of art.

The tour will be conducted from noon to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday with the route clearly marked by yellow arrows. Visitors will be served tea at St. Francis Parish House from 2 to 5 p.m. Tickets with tour maps may be purchased in advance at the Church office or, on tour days, at Malaga Cove Plaza, the upper church parking lot at Palos Verdes Boulevard and Via Rosa, or at any home on the tour. Donations are $2.50 and, for students, $1.

Homes on display will be those of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Stone, 2433 Via Campesina; Mr. and Mrs. William Strauss, 1705 Via Montemar; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Botello, 2739 Via Oleodus; and Mr. and Mrs. Eric Schiff, 2735 Via Oleodus, all in Palos Verdes Estates; and Dr. and Mrs. Wilmer H. Starr, 5 Quailridge Road, Rolling Hills.

A RECEPTION today from 4 to 6 p.m. will introduce "The Expressive Tradition of Japanese Pottery" in the Main Gallery of California State College, Long Beach.

Wednesday, the club will mark May Day by opening an exhibit at Los Altos Branch Library, 5614 Britton Drive. The paintings will hang through May 30.

Open to the public without charge, the exhibit may be seen through May 17 Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sundays and 1 to 5 p.m.

LONG BEACH Branch of AAUW will present "An Evening at the Museum" honoring director Jason Wong Friday at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Members, husbands and guests are invited. The museum docents will conduct informal tours of the current Sixth Annual Southern California Exhibition, refreshments will be served and Val Ames will entertain at the piano.

WITH EMPHASIS on beauty, the Shibui Show of Long Beach Art Association will open May 5 at the organizations gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd. and will continue through May 26. Entries will be received Monday.

BEST OF SHOW winners in Lakewood Artists Guild's recent Lakewood Center Show were Don Campbell, Hester True, Bonnie Noble and Rose White. Richard Keyes, art instructor at Long Beach City College, made the selection.

TODAY is Sketch Sunday for members of Spectrum Club. The all-male group will go to Ports O'Call in San Pedro to draw and paint fishing boats and

Friday is deadline date for Arts Council calendar

As its first public service, the new Long Beach Regional Arts Council will publish a calendar of summer cultural events. Distribution, free of charge, will begin in June.

Beginning in the fall, subsequent monthly calendars will be sent only to those who have joined the Arts Council.

Organizations and groups planning summer cultural programs of public interest are invited to send details to the Arts Council at 850 E. Ocean Blvd., Long Beach, 90802. Deadline for submissions is Friday. A special section will be devoted to activities for children.

The calendar is planned as a reference for individuals, families and out-of-town visitors. More than 20 art, music and drama groups queried before the inauguration of the Arts Council in March expressed the need for such calendar.

Choir concerts

The A Cappella Choir of California State College, Long Beach, will perform today at 4 p.m. in Covenant Presbyterian Church, Third Street and Atlantic Avenue. There is no admission charge.

Under direction of Frank Poller and assistant conductor Wesley Reed, the 70-member ensemble will sing selections from choral literature from the Renaissance to the present time.

The concert will be repeated next Saturday at 4 p.m. in the Little Theater on campus.

Best performer

Paul Johnson has received $200 and the Best Performer of the Season award from Los Angeles Euterpe Club. Currently he is portraying Marcello in Pacific Opera Theater's presentation of "La Boheme" in Long Beach Community Playhouse Studio Theater. A student at Cal State Los Angeles, Johnson studied music at St. Olaf College, Minneapolis College of Music and McPhail School of Music, all in St. Paul, Minn.

'Happening' and other art in Downey 'Variety'

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

At the Downey Museum of Art, spring has sprung, or is breaking out all over, depending on the point of view. Five artists are showing in "Variety." They are non-related except for the two painters Albert Shershow (mixed) and Charlotte Troesch (glassen).

The most arresting is the "Happening" designed and installed by Cyril Miles who brought it all from Detroit in a car-bus. We'll talk more about it after mentioning the two other artists in "Variety."

Margaret Cornelius, who travels extensively for the State Department, is represented by 16 large (and a number of small) batik paintings of "People and Places." They are absolutely charming, like "Boys' Day in Japan," and will travel over the U.S. under the auspices of the Western Association of Art Museums.

Alice Asman, working in oil and inks, does perfectly splendid drawings of Indians and things in Indian style.

NOW, to return to our Happening. If you have read with curiosity and envy of the Beautiful People, or the Turned-On People, or even just the Hairy Folk experiencing their happenings, you can go play at the Downey Museum, 10419 S. Rives Ave., any day but Monday, from 1 to 5 p.m. through May 19.

Rooms, passageways and tunnels are composed of watercolor and collage, walls, shiny panels that light up to project photographs, whirling Op discs and the like. A programmed, continuous tape gives the sounds of everywhere (maybe if we really heard these, we'd decide to do away with most of them).

Wicks concert Monday

Violinist Camilla Wicks will play the American premiere of Bjarne Brustad's "Concerto No. 4" at a concert Monday at 8 p.m. in the Mark Taper Forum of The Music Center, Los Angeles.

The program is for the benefit of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity for women. Margaret Heidenreich is president of the long Beach Alumnae Chapter.

Miss Wicks also will play "Sonata in A Major" by Platti, "Sonata in E Flat" by Strauss and "Second Rhapsody" by Bartok.

A native of Long Beach and former students at Progress School here, Miss Wicks has become one of the great women violinists of today.

By the time she was 17, she was ready to tour Europe where she played 90 concerts in 11 countries. She has made eight such tours.

In June, Miss Wicks will play four concerts with the Detroit Symphony at the opening of the Meadowbrook Festival.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: John and I have been married for seven years and I think I have a problem.

When we were first married, John decided that he wanted to go back to the university and get his B.A. degree, so I agreed to continue to work and support us so he could. John got his B.A., then decided he wanted a Masters, so I agreed to continue to work until he got that. Well, right after he got his Masters, he wanted his Ph. D., so I agreed to continue working.

I've supported both of us for seven years now. I will be 28 on my next birthday and would like to quit my job and have a family while I'm still young enough.

John could easily get a teaching position at the university and support us both, but he now says he's "out of the mood" of having a family, and he doesn't want me to quit working. I am at the end of my rope, and any comments would be appreciated.

—DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED: Part of the problem is your reluctance to look John in the eye and tell him what is on your mind—or else why would you be writing to me? If necessary, practice in front of a mirror, and learn how to say (convincingly), "Look, Baby, I have had it with the working. Let's YOU support US for a change!"

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 24-year-old "man" who has gone with a girl for four years, tells her she is "perfect" for him, and then balks at giving her an engagement ring? It's not the money because he is in business for himself and can well afford it.

He says an engagement ring is only a "symbol," but if I am so insecure that I need a "symbol" to be assured of his love for me, he will give me one—on the condition that I don't tell anybody.

I am about ready to throw in the towel. Can you help me?

—FED UP.

DEAR FED: Any "man" who would offer a girl an engagement ring on the condition that "she doesn't tell anyone," is a little boy grown tall. And tell Junior that an engagement ring symbolizes that "THIS GIRL IS SPOKEN FOR"—so why the big secret?

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to ABBY, Box 67700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90067, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'See Canada' fares cut by
CN Railway

MONTREAL — Special travel fares for families and young people who wish to continue the "see Canada" pattern established in Centennial Year, will be inaugurated this summer by Canadian National Railways.

G. C. Campbell, general manager of sales and services, said Canadians gave a clear indication of their desire to travel Canada by rail in Centennial Year, and the new incentives will encourage them to continue seeing their country. The railway carried more passengers in 1967 than in any of the last 22 years.

The new plans, which go into effect June 1, will offer discounts for family travel. "Youth Fares" for persons 21 and under, and an incentive ticket plan aimed at business travelers.

The incentives will apply under the Red, White and Blue fare plan, which continues.

THE RAILWAY also said some fare adjustments will be made on the same date, competitive conditions in more directly to differing various parts of the country. The adjustments will be relatively small on some designed to relate fares routes. On others, principally in the heavily traveled corridor between Quebec City and Windsor, they will average 10 per cent, depending on distance and competitive conditions.

For travel in Western Canada, and between Eastern and Western Canada increases will be about 10 per cent for short distances, tapering down to 5 per cent for journeys of 1,500 miles or more.

What clothes for Alaska?

One of the questions most frequently asked by the would-be Alaska visitor is, "What clothes should I bring? Is it warm enough for shorts? In the Arctic, is it always top-coat weather?"

Alaskans are quick to point out that summer visitors are indeed frequently comfortable in shorts. At the beach, in fact, bikinis for the ladies are very much in evidence (or pleasantly not much in evidence, as the case may be). Particularly in the interior regions, temperatures frequently climb to the eighties in June, July, and August.

Actually, the key to comfort in Alaska is an informal wardrobe (plus perhaps one dressy dress for midday and a suit for her escort, for nightclubbing in the larger cities). Comfortable walking shoes are a must. Slacks, shorts, and sport shirts and blouses are equally appropriate. A sweater or two — for coolish evenings after the mid-night sun goes down — will come in handy as will a light raincoat for the occasional summer shower.

The Arctic? It is a bit cooler there, even in the summer, than in the rest of the state. The airlines which serve the area, however, outfit their tour guests with summer weight parkas at no extra charge, so the visitor himself needn't worry about it.

Of course the visitor who intends to climb Mt. McKinley, hunt moose in the bush country, or skin dive should bring appropriate gear.

VANCOUVER'S WORLD-FAMED Stanley Park has an added attraction on its summer visitor schedule—the Vancouver Festival, which will present Russia's Bolshoi Ballet in performances of "Swan Lake" and "Giselle" from July 2 to 7. Other highlights of the Festival, which continues through Aug. 17, includes Strauss' "Rosalinda," the London Philharmonic, the musical "Sweet Charity" and famed Met coloratura soprano Anna Moffo. ANCHORS AWEIGH!
Luxury ships sail to vacation lands

Eight sailings of the Motson luxury liner SS Lurline this summer offer fun and sun seekers a nautical extension of their Hawaiian vacation.

A combination of the American flagship cruise and a visit to the famous islands also offers an overseas tropical vacation that never leaves U.S. territory.

There is space available on the Lurline cruises which depart from the West Coast or from Honolulu every 10 to 11 days during the summer months.

The 4½-day, five-night cruises between San Francisco-Los Angeles and Honolulu blend an entertaining daily program of shipboard festivities with informality and relaxation in the best tradition of the Islands.

As far as hotel space in Hawaii is concerned, the Hawaii Visitors Bureau reports that visitors should have no problem providing their reservations are made in advance.

STUDENT-TEACHER
CRUISES OFFERED

Students and teachers with small budgets and big dreams can enjoy the pleasures of ocean travel and the treasures of Europe through a special summer series offered by P & O Lines and American Express Co.

Budget accommodations on the two big P & O superliners, one sailing in late June and the other in mid-July, are available.

The Oriana, which sails from Los Angeles June 26, carries more than 1,400 in tourist class, has three swimming pools, a cinema, dance bands, a well-stocked library and other amenities to make shipboard life relaxing and pleasant. En route to England Oriana will call at Acapulco, Balboa, Cristobal, Curacao, Trinidad, Lisbon and Le Havre.

Starting July 14 from Los Angeles the CANBERRA will make a similar voyage to Europe.

After the Oriana and Canberra have docked at Southampton, American

A vast country breathing excitement for vacationists who love the outdoors and the fun and relaxation it offers, picturesque fishing villages, quaint mountain hamlets, teeming county seat towns fast growing up, and sophisticated cities...

Mountains covered with virgin forests whose denizens greet visitors at the roadside. Lakes and cold, swift-running streams where fishing was never better and on whose banks a picnic meal or campsite may provide the ultimate of pleasure. Canyons, caves, campgrounds, covered bridges, sawmills, great cattle spreads, mines, waterfalls, and wildflowers...

That is the Pacific Northwest which is generally defined as the states of Oregon and Washington and the Canadian province of British Columbia.

Toss in Alaska — more than three times the size of California — and you have an empire worthy of the envy and wonder of a king.

And the delight of hundreds of thousands of Californians who take their families there each summer.

LET'S START with Oregon, neighbor to California and the first state you will visit upon entering the Pacific Northwest, in your family automobile, or fly over if you make the trip by plane.

There's a new-old look to Oregon this year — a fresh look to highways and cities and resorts and parks and fun, and yet the same million-year-old look to snow-capped peaks and sun-washed beaches, to blue mountain lakes and white-water streams.

Perhaps the most important new look to you will be the highways that take you to forested campgrounds and luxurious city hotels. North to south and east to west there are new or improved routes to get there.

From border to border, the Interstate 5 freeway sweeps across Oregon — over the Siskiyou mountains through verdant valleys of the Rogue and Umpqua and the Willamette, past Medford and Roseburg and Eugene and Salem. It soars high across the Willamette on the magnificent new Maequam Bridge in downtown Portland and offers a choice of freeway routes northward or eastward to the fabled Columbia River.

And along the way, you will find easy access to routes that lead away from the freeway to such diverse sights and activities as the Shakespearean Festival at Ashland (late July to early September), the century-old gold mining town of Jacksonville near Medford, fishing at one of Zane Grey's favorite riffles on the Rogue near Grants Pass or on the North Umpqua east of Roseburg, the scenic grandeur of Crater and Diamond lakes, salmon fishing at Coos and Winchester bays, walking under waterfalls at Silver Falls State Park or picnicking at historic Champag State Park, where the U.S. Government in the West had its beginnings.

IN PORTLAND, new high-rise structures are changing the look of the city. New restaurants vie with established dinner clubs for the finest in cuisine. Splendid hotels and motels beckon the tired motorist.

New camping areas at the many state parks along the coast will help more visitors like you and your family to enjoy sleeping under the stars this summer. New or improved stretches of Hwy. 101 offer easier travel and new viewpoints of centuries-old headlands and sea stacks rebuffing the surf.

At Astoria is the newest of Oregon's magnificent bridges which spirals upward in a graceful circle from the city's waterfront, leaps high across the main ship channel of the Columbia River and then drops near water level to span the four-mile mouth of the river to the Washington shore.

WASHINGTON, too, has been making great strides in highway improvement. These smooth-as-silk ribbons of concrete lead to such natural wonders as the crags and glaciers of Mount Olympus, highest point on the Olympic Peninsula. Just off Hwy. 101, the Rain Forests of Hoh and Bogachiel Rivers beckon with Douglas firs that were stretching skyward when Columbus discovered America. You can beach-comb for treasure trove along miles of uncluttered strand, relax in superb resorts and motels or hotels, or in national, state or private campgrounds and trailer facilities. You enjoy magnificent scenery at every hand while you fish, explore byways, play golf, or just relax in the warm sun.

"Out of our hotel window was what had to be the most spectacular view in the world."

"The mountains were breathtaking, the cities wonderful," was the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bray, from Seattle, on vacation in British Columbia, Canada.

A good place to start in British Columbia is Vancouver, Canada's third largest city. And as the Brays discovered, "A city of unusually intriguing contrasts."

Breathe in deep. The tang of salt sea-air from the fjords mingles with the scent of pine forests. Then take a stroll around North America's second largest Chinatown. And later, go watch a cricket match. (You'll hear the crack of leather on willow in many pleasant parks). See Stanley Park—1000 acres devoted to natural forest beauty and located right in the center of the city.

Ride a cable lift to the top of Grouse Mountain and dine overlooking the city and entire harbor. Afterwards, go back across the city and see Simon Fraser University, a stunning new departure in architecture atop another mountain.

The Brays also discovered the 'British' in the province. By taking a short ferry ride to the capital, Victoria, Homes are English-style Tudor. And tea is a light meal at four in the afternoon. Not to be missed are the enchanting Butchart Gardens and Thunderbird Park with the world's biggest totem pole. More Indian pole carvings in the province are to be seen along Highway 16 from Prince George.

Driving east on Highway 3 brought the Bray family to the popular resort areas in the Similkameen and Okanagan Valleys. If you like fruit you're welcome to pick it right off the trees in this fertile region.

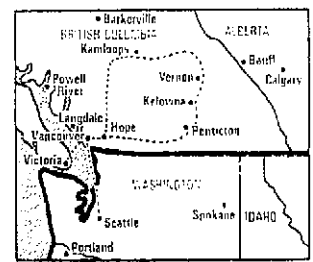

After the valleys, do some mountain exploring, too. The broad, paved Trans-Canada Highway curves right on through the Rockies via Rogers Pass, bringing a new and magnificent view at every curve in the road. Campers and trailers are not forgotten because fully-equipped sites are plentiful.

And if you're looking for the lusty flavour of old gold-rush days, inspect the historic Mile Stage Coach Houses along the Caribou Highway. While at Barkerville, the atmosphere of gold-rush fever is caught in restored buildings like Wake Up Jake's Saloon, the General Store and the Chinese Gambling House.

Among other lively happenings in British Columbia is the Kelowna International Regatta attracting small craft and power boats from all over. And if you feel you're really a sailor at heart take in the Vancouver Sea Festival too, as did the Brays on the final leg of their vacation journey.

We'd like to help you see and enjoy some of the many vacation pleasures in British Columbia. Send us the coupon and we'll send you a complete vacation guide.

"Their all-weather highways are excellent. We never even had to leave the pavement."

combines the fast pace of metropolitan living with the lazy, tranquil life of the outdoorsman. In the fast-growing Seattle-Tacoma-Everett area, you will find a montage of metropolitan, cosmopolitan, international gateway of European Polar flight and the Pacific Rim visitors—some of the nation's finest retail stores, restaurants, hotels, motels and resorts. And you can stroll the waterfronts where square-rigged schooners once carried hardy men to the Klondike gold fields.

TWO JEWELS in the priceless tiara that is British Columbia are Vancouver and Victoria.

Vancouver, pulsating with charm, dramatic scenery and industry, is back-dropped by breathtaking mountains. One of its many attractions is world-famous Stanley Park—1,000 acres of forest playground only five minutes from the heart of the business district.

Victoria is completely charming in a different way.

21 'Inside Passage' trips slated for Prince George

Twenty-one luxury cruises up the famed "Inside Passage" from Vancouver, B.C., to Skagway, Alaska, will again be made this year by Canadian National's SS Prince George, it is announced.

The first of the eight-day cruises left Vancouver last Friday. The last will be on Oct. 2.

Special reduced rates are being offered on cruises in May and June and for the last four trips of the season during September and October.

Northbound, the Prince George will call at Prince Rupert, Ketchikan, and Juneau en route to Skagway. Southbound calls will be made at Wrangell, Prince Rupert, Alert Bay and Vancouver.

At Skagway an all-day tour provides passengers with visits to Carcross, "England survives here," a British writer once remarked. "Victoria is a kind of pre-war Torquay on the Pacific." Besides, it has the famous chateau. The Empress Hotel, where you may be served tea and crumpets—complete with silver tea-pots and cutlery in the Old World setting—on white napery.

North of these cities to the Alaska border, British Columbia is a vast park, so vast that new populations which have been flocking here in recent years are hardly noticed. That is, except for new hotels and new industry springing up in most unlooked-for places.

Grandeur is everywhere. In the heartland of the province is the gathering place of the rare trumpeter swan, moose, caribou, elk, deer, bears and other denizens of the forest.

IT IS AT Kelsey Bay, on Vancouver Island, that you can begin your 330-mile trip on an ocean highway—the incomparable Inland Passage—to Prince Rupert, only 25 miles from the southern tip of Alaska. There, other ferryboats are anchored, waiting to take you on up the 49th State. Fares to Prince Rupert run about $30, one way, for passengers; autos, $60 one way, including the driver.

Alaska expects the biggest tourist influx in its history this year.

Anchorage sits beneath a backdrop of mountains, some of which are snow-covered all year. It serves as a hub from which to fan out north to the Matanuska Valley, south to the Kenai Peninsula and Kodiak or the Valley of 10,000 Smokes, north to the interior and to the Arctic, or southeast to the Alaska Panhandle. Daily sightseeing tours are available to most areas.

Alaska's natural charms include Mt. McKinley, highest in North America. Indian villages with totem poles, Eskimo communities, Gold Rush ghost towns, and a grandeur about its mountains and forests that leaves most visitors stunned.

One more word about Anchorage: When you get there you will be as far west as the Hawaiian Islands and as far north as Helsinki, Finland.

Expo 67. Now, Canada 68.

This year, get a close-up of the country that created Expo 67, Canada. Go beyond the glitter of Expo to a classic corner of Canada: the province of Quebec, the Old World come to the New. Quebec City, one of the only walled cities in North America. Winding streets that climb and turn a corner into Paris.

Children scampering by in a cascade of French. Sidewalk cafes. Not cooking, but cuisine. Theaters performing Moliere in the language of Moliere. In cosmopolitan Montreal, "Man and His World," encore to Expo 67. And the countryside. And beyond, forests of solitude.

Or visit Ontario, Canada's contrast country. Shakespeare at Stratford, Indian powwows at Manitoulin Island. Hot Dixieland jazz in Toronto, red-coated soldiers changing the guard at Ottawa's Parliament Hill. Thousands of lakes rippled only by trophy-size trout, and thunderous Niagara Falls gasped at by the world's tourists.

And Air Canada will take you there. Our airline. We'll leave you alone to explore and discover by yourself. Or we'll guide you through a leisurely tour that doesn't let you miss a thing. The tours start as low as $183 (plus air fare) for seven days and seven nights per person, double occupancy (Tour IT-HH-2).

Its new name is Princess Margaret Park.

TRAVELING WITH DELAPLANE

Tourist walk in E. Berlin

By STAN DELAPLANE

BERLIN, EAST AND WEST — I asked a newspaperman friend to take a tourist walk into East Berlin at night and this is how you do it:

"I took a cab to Checkpoint Charlie which is a piece of street laid out zig-zag fashion. In a car you must go a few yards left, a few yards right and so on. It is edged by concrete walls three feet high at the zig and zag. Barbed wire and, behind that, three pieces of steel like tent poles.

"On the left-hand side of the street are two long buildings. A half dozen sergeants and officers in ours which comes first.

"THE AMERICAN sergeant checked my papers. Gave me do's and don'ts to read. Had me fill out an identification form.

"He said: 'You know you're on your own when you get over there. They try to make it tough on Americans particularly, so take it easy.'

"(There is no phone line between East and West Berlin. If you land in the clink, you can't just call up the bail bond broker.")

"YOU CAN'T take any books or newspapers with you. Now, you walk a hundred yards under bright lights to the Russian shack.

"They looked over my passport — lot of snirks and laughter. I had to count out all my West German money and buy an East German 5 bill. You have to come back with West German money intact. Any East German money left, they confiscate. You fill out another identification form, all in German.

"Now you exit into a dimly lighted street. Few people around. Machine guns on the roof tops. I walked a few blocks to a lighted building — a restaurant. Russian officers, civilians. All dirty looks. No smiles. After being read off by the waiter for not speaking German, he said in English: 'Do you want salami and bread?'

"I had it. Paid off (a tip drew no thanks). Walked around deserted streets. Came back and checked through Checkpoint Charlie, cursing. The American sergeant said: 'See? I told you so.'

"If we are in Berlin this year, can we visit East Berlin?"

You don't have to do it as above. At your hotel you can find out about the three hour guided tour by bus — about $3.

You leave all books and magazines and your West German guide at Checkpoint Charlie. An East German guide then takes over. Mostly propaganda talks about how much better people do in East Germany. But an enlightening trip.

"What about the Rhine steamers?"

I was only on this for one day. All Rhine wine and squeezebox music and a pretty river. The full trip — Rotterdam to Basel, Switzerland — is five days.

Throng expected for turtle races

Turtle races, bear burgers, miles of wildflowers, Mexican rodeos and a two-nation festival are awaiting visitors in Southern California during May.

The Grand National Turtle Sweepstakes started as a gag 23 years ago and are expected to draw nearly 20,000 people to the desert town of Joshua on May 4 and 5. People raise their own turtles, catch them on the desert, or visitors rent them. Turtles are loosed at the center of a big circle and the first one out wins.

Bearburgers are usually the unusual fare during the annual Bear Festival to be held May 4 and 5 at the mountain resort of Idyllwild honoring the Bear Flag of the short-lived California Bear Republic. A Bear Flag parade will be held Sunday.

VISITORS will be directed to the best showings of wildflowers by helicopter reports in the Antelope Valley just over the mountains north of Los Angeles. Until May 19, a Wildflower Information Center at Lancaster will hand out free flower maps and tour guides. Lakes of Golden California Poppies are so big they can be sighted ten miles away.

SIX FLAGS OVER TEXAS OPEN AGAIN

Six Flags Over Texas has opened its 1968 season with a recently completed $2 million array of exciting new rides and attractions.

The 140-acre, $16 million historical-theme park, located midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, is entering its eighth season. The growth of Six Flags has been nothing short of remarkable, drawing nearly 11 million visitors since opening in 1961. It is now ranked by the Texas Tourist Development Agency as the most popular single tourist attraction in the Lone Star State. An estimated 2 million will visit the park this year.

Modern tourism

Newest attraction in Montevideo, Uruguay, is a daily schedule of guided tours operated by Bueme's Travel Service. Individual travelers can now tour the capital at low cost aboard units of a motorized fleet that includes 40-passenger busses with reclining seats, 17-passenger mini-busses and 7-seat Cadillac limousines. Uniformed guides are English-speaking.

Pan Am starts historic service

LOS ANGELES — Pan American's historic 'Round the World Flight No. 1 will start service today from International Airport, according to W. A. Elsaesser, district traffic and sales manager.

Choose from 8 all-expense cruise-tours, ranging from 7 to 23 days in length. All cruise-tours include a fabulous scenic voyage through the Inside Passage; all offer the adventure of traveling America's last frontier. See Indian dances, Eskimo villages, sparkling glaciers, Mt. McKinley, Fairbanks, Anchorage, the Alaska Highway, sternwheel riverboat cruises, the narrow-gauge railway over scenic White Pass, wildlife.

The first time you see Vancouver...

You'll be struck by its magnificent setting. Just imagine a city of nearly a million, rimming a broad harbour and facing green mountains that rise from the sea almost within reach. Lush scenic beauty is right here: you can glimpse the mountains and the sea from downtown. Then there's Stanley Park — 1000 acres of natural forest, zoos, beaches and gardens. And the groves and gardens of Queen Elizabeth Park. Not to mention our two universities: one set in a forest on Point Grey, a high, sea-jutting promontory; the other atop Burnaby Mountain, commanding a towering view of Burrard Inlet. But first impressions aren't everything. You quickly discover that Vancouver is an exciting, cosmopolitan place, too. Dining covers the menu from Chinese to Italian cuisine. Night clubs feature top imported entertainment (there's sparkling professional theatre, too). Shopping can be for British woolsens, native Indian handicrafts, objects of Canadiana (and the currency exchanges in your favor). Vancouver is also an ideal convention centre, with facilities to match any North American city of comparable size. And our moderate year-round climate means you'll enjoy the activities — and the view — whenever you come. Just mail the coupon, and we'll send you a colorful preview.

For a full-color Visitor's Kit of Vancouver and the adjoining scenic areas of the Fraser Valley and Sunshine Coast, mail the coupon to:

NOT WASHDAY in Hong Kong, but a familiar daily sight—clothes hung out on apartment balconies throughout the city to air or dry in sun.

IN THE COLONY'S Northwest Territories, where thousands of immigrants flock to live, a Chinese child waves Stars and Stripes on a busy street.

Hong Kong building skyward to house flood of immigrants

By FRED TAYLOR KRAFT
Travel Editor

HONG KONG—It may be the Chinese way of life. Or it may be the influence of Red China herself, which for years has been so involved with internal power struggles that she hasn't had the time or inclination to kick up too much trouble here. But any way you stir this potpourri called Hong Kong, it comes out the same.

The Colony has changed very little in the eight or 10 years that I have known her.

Except for one thing, and this is a big thing:

The Colony has run out of room. It hasn't anywhere to go—except to some of the hard-to-get-to outer islands — but up, and up, and up. And that's exactly what she's doing.

OVERTAXED TO HOUSE the rising tide of refugees from Red China, Hong Kong is building scores of apartment sky-rises like these now under construction in the Northwest Territories adjacent to the Bamboo Curtain. (Photos by Fred Taylor Kraft)

SKYSCRAPERS (see photo) are rising in every direction to house the flood of Chinese refugees that pours daily across the Bamboo Curtain, separating that part of the Colony called the New Territories from the Motherland.

A million of these immigrants have already been rehoused in these multi-story behemoths called resettlement estates. The landlord in the Northwest Territories, where the building boom is nothing short of spectacular, is none other than the Chinese government. Some are rented to middle-income groups, others to low-salaried workers, at anywhere from $64 down to $9 a month.

The parents seem to find employment in this beehive of industry, leaving their children at home in the sky rises whose roofs are converted into schools, play areas and clinics. Because they are in capable hands, and because the huge buildings often cling perilously to almost perpendicular hillsides, the children seldom leave their homes for days at a time.

Building also continues apace in Kowloon where blocks of shops built before the war have been demolished to make way for modern, air-conditioned offices and flats, and hotels often more than 20 stories high that accommodate many of the half-million tourists who come mainly to shop in "Asia's Bazaar," as Hong Kong is so often aptly called.

I SAW NO evidences of rioting, nor did I pick up any gossip of Red-inspired trouble, past or impending. China might find it easy to stir up things if she wished, for 99 per cent of the Colony is Chinese. In the New Territories, where much of the new population is concentrated, I was almost bowled over to see a Chinese tot of about three carrying an American flag (see photo). Not a single policeman or coolie laboring under a damn tin — those poles over the shoulders with a bucket attached to each end of the pole — seemed to notice or care.

In plain view from my harbor-side room in the posh Hong Kong Hilton Hotel, I saw a group of athletic Brits indulging in a game of cricket, obviously unconcerned about any subversive move that Mao might contemplate making. I concluded that trouble reported by the press, television and radio a few weeks ago was grossly overplayed.

THIS BRITISH Crown Colony was, to me, her old charming self — one of my three favorite cities in the world. An arena in which you meet the Orient in an abrupt face-to-face. A city of happy and often lurid contrasts but a stone's throw from the Bamboo Curtain. A city crammed with shops both run-down and exquisite where the passing queues were thinly sprinkled with mustachioed, pipe-smoking Englishmen. Western micro-skirts. Buddhist monks, and a more liberal fragment of camera-toting American and Japanese tourists. There were also the ever-present cheongsams. Susie Wong, so the legend goes, is still in Hong Kong but crowding 50 by now. And the Luk Kwon Hotel, in which she presided in her a-go-go heyday, is also still a part of the scene, in an area where bawdy houses still abound.

HONG KONG'S amenities are endless. You can eat well at a single sitting for HK$10 (about 60 cents U.S.), or you can spend $10 on a 12-course Wan Fu dinner at the Showboat, a superior supper emporium I visited on a night cruise of the spectacular harbor. The menu included double boiled bird's nest and coconut in soup, which — take my word for it — doesn't taste at all like what I had imagined a bird's nest would.

Another pleasant ride — though not nearly as fast or as safe (I thought) as the spanking new Philippine Air Lines' DC-8 which dropped me down like a feather at Kai Tak airport from Manila after a flight of an hour and 15 minutes — was to the top of Victoria Peak in a tramway (60 cents U.S. fare). The panorama, to me, of harbor and city is one of the most spectacular in the world.

When you go to this city of paradoxes, or return, don't miss a cruise of the harbor where junks and ships from Red China unload side by side with lighters and shipping from all over the world. And there's Mr. Aw Boon Haw's Tiger Balm Gardens, a fantastic array of statue-illustrated legends from China's history and religion; the vast floating city of Aberdeen (originally the capital of the Colony); the 600-year-old walled village of the ancient Hakkas in the New Territories. It's easy to get around, and taxis are a cheap commodity. And shopping.

BEST THING that could happen to an avid shopper next to a neat Swiss bank account are the literally thousands of duty-free shops. The best ones are on Nathan Road, the 2½-mile "Golden Mile," but bargains are everywhere. Another choice spot are the arcades of the Hong Kong Hilton where silks, art treasures and jades are also available. The hotel also boasts several reputable tailor shops, the most conspicuous of which is operated by — you guessed it — Charley Chan.

U.S. shoppers should keep this in mind: Customs bans all goods from Communist China or "Chinese-made" merchandise manufactured in Hong Kong unless accompanied by a Comprehensive Certificate of Origin issued by the Hong Kong government. All shops approved for the use of this important document are provided with a "registration certificate" which they display on their premises. If there is any doubt in your mind about the origin of the things you buy, demand your certificate before you leave the store.

That way, the memory of shopping in "Asia's Bazaar" will remain a happy one, even after you encounter the Customs man.

The Admirable Crichton

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

He's a shaggy hulk of a man with a head of hair that reminds you of the lions he worked with in "Born Free."

She's all pink and gold and blue, the epitome of the English rose.

They are working together on American television for the first time because, he says, "I think they think one of us at a time is enough." They'll be seen in the Hallmark Hall of Fame production of "The Admirable Crichton," at 8:30 p.m., Thursday, Ch. 4.

THEY ARE Bill Travers and Virginia McKenna professionally. Privately they are Mr. and Mrs. Travers, parents of four children, age 1 to 9 years.

Being married to each other, and working together poses no problems. "We feel very much freer with each other because we both want the best for each other," Virginia says.

Bill adds, "We worked in a company of actors where we were all part of a team. We were both members of the Royal Shakespeare company and there the team is the thing."

"I THINK IT'S good for actors to be part of a team," Virginia said. "I don't believe in the star system. It's the play, not you in it, that is important. Why, if an actor only has one line to speak in a play, he is the star, the center of attraction, at the moment he speaks that line."

Williams Kaleidoscope

Today's Sounds Blend With Psychedelic Lights

Ray Charles, song writer Burt Bacharach, the Raelets, Simon and Garfunkel and Mama Cass Elliott will comprise the guest contingent of "H. Andrew Williams' Kaleidoscope Company" when Andy Williams presents an all-musical color special at 10 p.m., Sunday, Ch. 4.

Andy's third special of the season will be set against a background which includes a wild discotheque and a solitary desert, and will blend today's musical sounds with psychedelic lights.

Andy Charles and the Raelets then sing "I'm Movin' On" and "I Can't Stop Lovin' You."

Simon and Garfunkel sing "Mrs. Robinson," "Old Friends" and "Scarborough Fair,"

BURT BACHARACH

Mama Cass Elliott, formerly of "The Mamas and the Papas" making her first television appearance as a single, joins Andy for a duet of "Words of Love."

Andy follows with "Always" then chats with Burt Bacharach. In a Bacharach medley, Andy, accompanied by Bacharach at the piano and The Ideals musical group, sings "Walk on By." Andy follows with "Always Something There," "The Look of Love" and "Wives and Lovers." Mama Cass then joins Andy in "Say a Little Prayer." Andy concludes the Bacharach medley with "What the World Needs Now."

The show closes with Andy doing "All the Time."

PAN AND FAN MAIL

I ENJOYED the article by Joan Crosby called "Harassed Stars" in Tele-Vues.

Hope to see more articles about the television stars, such as the ones written by Joan Crosby, Rick DuBrow and Vernon Scott.

Now about another subject: the early reruns. Are the programs planned from here or the New York studios? If scheduled in New York, wouldn't it be better to send protests about early reruns there?

C.D.,
Long Beach.

(Your protest letters wind up in headquarters—New York).

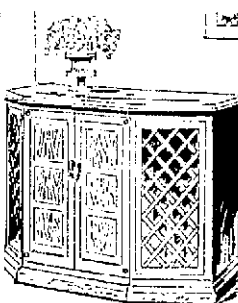

I WOULD like to know if reruns for "The Man From Uncle" will be on some time in the future.

the reasons for taking the "Pat Boone in Hollywood" show off the air. I enjoyed the show very much and can't understand why it was taken off.

... I WOULD like to know if the "Girl from U.N.C.L.E." is going to come back on the air. It was my favorite television program and I really would like to see it again...

Klonetta Adams,
Compton

(Both "Man" and "Girl" have been sold for syndication and will be carried locally on Ch. 11. They are set to start in November. "Man" has 72 episodes; "Girl" 29. The "Boone" show just didn't "make it." Why it didn't "make it" is something nobody knows for sure. Boone starts reruns at 4 p.m. Sunday, Ch. 9, on a weekly basis, as "The Best of Boone".

COULD YOU please tell me if "Lost in Space" (which was cancelled) is going to have reruns...

Mark Swartz,
Long Beach

(The show now is in reruns on Ch. 2 and will continue to Sept. 18. After that it will probably be sold and go into reruns on some non-network station).

IN REPLY to Mrs. Barbara Welty's letter about soap operas.

I wonder if she realizes how many shut-ins watch the continuing shows from day to day. It's one of the few enjoyments they have. And furthermore, older people on retirement and pensions cannot afford to go to the movies at the high prices. And very few movies are very enjoyable nowadays anyway...

If I don't like a program I flip the dial or shut it off. After all there are seven Los Angeles (VHF) channels. I don't make an issue out of it.

R. Krause,

DOM DELUISE and his wife, Carol Arthur, team for sketches on Jonathan Winters replacement.

Two new summer shows have their premiers this week — "Man in a Suitcase" on Ch. 7 and a variety series headed by comedian Dom DeLuise, Ch. 2.

The Dom DeLuise Show, at 10 p.m. Wednesday, is the summer replacement for the Jonathan Winters' program.

Guest stars appear with the comedian-host weekly, along with regulars Carol Arthur, Bill McCutcheon, Marian Mercer, Paul Taylor, the June Taylor Dancers and Sammy Spear and his orchestra.

"MAN IN A SUITCASE" takes over the 8:30 p.m. Friday spot for the summer for "Operation: Entertainment. American Richard Bradford stars in this British-made series as McGill, a tough freelance operator in the espionage field. A former U.S. agent, he was falsely charged with betrayal, and he constantly seeks to clear himself.

First episode on MIA is "Man from the Dead."

'Africa and I' Airs Sunday

Larry Rivers' Trip on Experiment on TV

A personal view of Africa by Larry Rivers, artist and saxophone player, and Oscar-winning filmmaker Pierre Gaisseau will be seen on "NBC Experiment in Television" at 4 p.m. Sunday, Ch. 4.

The full-hour color program will be titled "Africa and I." It was filmed by Gaisseau during two trips to Africa this fall and winter.

During their filming activities in Nigeria, they were almost executed by police authorities, but were finally released after four days of being held on charges of being "white mercenaries."

Rivers, noted in the U.S. as both an artist and a jazz saxophone player, was brought up in the Bronx, N.Y. From the roof of his building he could see the Bronx Zoo and has had a life-long ambition to go to Africa. In this film he shows what he finally found, and why his preconceived notions were upset. Rivers will be seen on the film as an inquisitive traveler and also as an artist at work.

Gaisseau, whose film "The Sky Above, the Mud Below" has been hailed as a masterpiece, was in charge of the filming. Using high speed techniques and other technical ideas learned from his many trips to Africa, Gaisseau has filmed some exceptional footage of people in many countries.

LESLIE UGGAMS . . . First Special

Hallelujah, Leslie!

The name used to come out in newspapers and magazines as Leslie Ig-gins, Smuggins, Smug-gams and even Lacely Ugigimous. No one gets it wrong anymore. Leslie Uggams once was asked to change her name. "A name doesn't make you famous," said Leslie. "You have to make it famous."

She stars in her first network special, ABC's "Hallelujah, Leslie!" at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, Ch. 7.

IN A musical hour of entertainment, Leslie will be joined by Robert Morse, Noel Harrison and the Rascals.

Only 24 years old and a veteran of 17 years in show business, Leslie's career was capped most recently by her spectacular performance in Broadway's "Hallelujah, Baby." Broadway beckons again next fall when she stars opposite Richard Kiley in "Her First Roman," a musical version of George Bernard Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra."

Leslie made her show business debut at 6 with Ethel Waters on the "Beulah" TV show and followed on the Milton Berle, Johnny Olsen and Arthur Godfrey shows, singing kiddie songs. Her mother retired her from show business at 12 to allow her voice to mature. She made her "come-back" at 15, winning $25,000 on TV's "Name That Tune" and helping win another $25,000 for a gym for the Incarnate Word Academy in Corpus Christi, Tex.

MITCH Miller was impressed with her voice, looks and personality and signed her to a record contract. When he started his "Sing Along with Mitch" TV show, Miller invited her to be star vocalist on the show.

Since leaving "Sing Along" four years ago, Leslie has played every top nightclub and supper club from coast to coast, including New York's Copa, Persian Room and Empire Room. In addition to her Broadway debut in "Hallelujah, Baby," she has also appeared on all the major TV variety shows. She made her TV dramatic acting debut on "I Spy" and followed it with a starring role in "The Girl from U.N.C.L.E."

Leslie is the wife of stock broker Graham Pratt and lives with her husband in a smart apartment on New York's Central Park West.

The 10¢ insurance test.

It could mean hundreds of dollars to you on car and home insurance.

Call your insurance man.
Right now.

Tell him you want to know how to file a claim on your home or car.

If he tells you to "Call or write the Claims Department," you're in trouble. That means he probably works only as a salesman for an insurance company and isn't interested in you or your claim.

But if he says, "I'll help you do it," chances are you have an independent agent who displays the symbol below. It means he works for you. And represents you in dealing with the insurance company.

And that often represents the difference between fast, fair payment of a claim and just—a payment.

Make the test. If your insurance man can't pass, switch your insurance fast.

AFRICA AND I (4), 4:30 p.m. (C) — NBC's award winning "Experiment in Television" closes out its current season as artist-saxophonist Larry Rivers and Oscar-winning ("Sky Above, Mud Below") filmmaker Pierre Gaisseau offer their personal view of Addis Ababa, Nairobi, Mombasa, the Serengeti Plain, Mt. Kenya and Lagos, filmed during African journeys last fall and winter. During filming in Nigeria, the pair was held on charges of being "white mercenaries," and came close to execution by police authorities.

CHAMPIONS ON ICE (9), 6:30 p.m. (C) — Arthur Godfrey dons skates to host some of the world's leading amateur figure skaters in a professional-type revue. Featured are Olympic gold medalist Peggy Fleming, plus stars from Japan, Italy, Austria and Germany, with all joining storyteller Godfrey in a "Cinderella" finale. Hour was taped at Colorado Springs' Broadmoor arena.

H. ANDREW WILLIAMS' Kaleidoscope Company (4), 10 p.m. (C) — In a bid for younger viewers (and probably losing many of his regulars), Andy blends today's musical sounds with psychedelic lights for this third variety hour of the season — featuring Simon and Garfunkel, "Mama" Cass Elliott (of the Mamas and Papas in her debut as a single), Burt Bacharach, and Ray Charles and the Rascals. Backgrounds range from a wild discotheque to a solitary desert. (If this drives adults to that "simple blue pill," Andy will be back to normal May 8 as a presenter on the "Grammy Awards Show.")

An Emmy for Everyone?

Bad Year for the Award Business

By JACK GOULD

(C) 1968 N.Y. Times News Service

The televising of awards for achievement in the entertainment world is a recurring annual problem and never more so than this year.

Broadway's Tony Awards show, while staged with far more technical virtuosity than Hollywood demonstrated, was also a letdown. The marathon presentation left the impression that Broadway only offers musicals and is disengaged from drama, even though the top prize for all types of productions went to "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead."

THE TEDIOUS Oscar ceremony never achieved a measurable lull. It disintegrated into an interminable procession of winners interspersed with often wretchedly staged musical numbers and meaningless clips from nominated movies.

Both the Oscars and to some extent the Tonys have become captives of their respective telecasts. To judge by the handling of musical numbers in Hollywood they were not endowed by real production imagination. The camera work suggested that Hollywood has hardly learned a thing in recent years; it was handled as a stereotyped variety presentation, with everyone frozen in front of microphones.

BUT THE continuing fault of the Oscars, from the standpoint of satisfying television viewing, is the profusion of categories and nominations. A viewer would have to be a veritable movie expert to keep up with the tide of humanity mounting the stage. As one of the most exciting art forms of the present, the movie world is scarcely doing itself justice by relying merely on a Hollywood orgy of self-congratulation.

At this juncture, however, the set owner can only keep his fingers crossed. For the Emmy awards in television, which will be broadcast on May 19, there are 241 individual and program nominations, and The Academy of Television Arts and Sciences promises that a Blue-Ribbon Panel will pick the winners after screening all the nominated programs.

NOMINATIONS have become pure press agency and it is time the Academy abandoned equalizing industry promotion in favor of limited criteria of judgment. The inclusion of shows that have been on the air for several years is nonsense. Perhaps the Emmy factotums can tidy up the ceremony before airtime.

If the Tony awards telecast is to be interpreted as a reasonable reflection of Broadway accomplishment, then the stage looked on the sick side. The excessive emphasis on musical selections simply backfired; there was no number that had the true stamp of creative quality. The number of extracurricular guests fresh from the Oscar scene invited the conclusion that the legitimate theater was more interested in a TV rating than anything else.

ing than anything else.

GREAT technical virtuosity was introduced at the theater and the color reproduction was exceptionally good. But the omission of excerpts from any of the Broadway dramas gave a lopsided summary of the Broadway scene.

But apparently 1968 is just not destined to be a year of very stimulating awards, televised or not. The Annual Peabody Awards, administered by the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism at the University of Georgia, also were announced last week and cautiously followed familiar ground.

The recognition of "CBS Playhouse," the "Africa" documentary series of ABC and Elie Abel of NBC had a touch of freshness, but the Peabody committee's recourse to again honoring "The Eternal Light," Bob Hope, Ed Sullivan, "Meet The Press" and Eric Sevareid hardly constituted a very intensive effort to uncover new winners.

BY COINCIDENCE Edward W. Barrett, dean of Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism announced this week that his institution would take over adminis-

LOUIS NIZER... With Reporter Harry Reasoner

Trial Lawyer

Five Attorneys on Show

Film footage from one of the very rare instances when a camera was allowed in a courtroom to record a murder trial will be shown on "The Trial Lawyer," at 10 p.m., Tuesdays, Ch. 2.

The film of the trial was shot by CBS News in a Houston courtroom, with the knowledge and consent of the judge, prosecution and defense, in October 1967. It shows Percy Foreman, one of America's best-known criminal defense lawyers, delivering his summation to a jury during his defense of a woman charged with murder. At present, Texas and Colorado are the only states that allow cameras in a courtroom during an actual trial — and only at the discretion of the presiding judge.

ALSO appearing on "The Trial Lawyer" will be four other top trial lawyers — F. Lee Bailey, Edward Bennett Williams, Melvin Belli and Louis Nizer. All but Bailey, who is shown addressing a meeting of the Kansas City Bar Assn., will be shown in conversation with CBS News Correspondent Harry Reasoner.

Bailey, who has been the defense attorney in one of the most sensational murder trials of the 1960s, including those of Dr. Sam Sheppard and Dr. Carl Copolino, uses examples from his cases to prove what he calls the fiction of presumed innocence.

WILLIAMS, who has defended such well-known figures as James Hoffa, the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy, Bobby Baker, Adam Clayton Powell and Fran Costello, tells how he handles his celebrated clients and talks about some of America's great trial lawyers who took on unpopular causes.

Belli, who is best known to the public as the first defense counsel for Jack Ruby, discusses his specialization in personal-damage suits and gives his opinions about the Ruby decision.

NIZER, who specializes in civil court cases, discusses this aspect of trial law and two of his best-known cases — the libel suits of Quentin Reynolds and John Henry Faulk.

"People come up to me in the street, even in restaurants," said Judy Carne. "They call me by name and ask me to say it once just for them. And, like an idiot, I do it." What? Say, "Sock it to me."

Miss Carne, currently on vacation from the Rowan & Martin show which has ended its filming for the season, is travelling over the country promoting a record called, naturally, "Sock it to Me."

KNBC (Ch. 4) will participate in a month-long anticrime series in May on the five stations owned by the National Broadcasting Company.

The 85-program series is titled "Crime and the Community." It will be designed to give viewers a fuller understanding of crime as it affects them.

Ch. 4 and the other stations — WRC-TV, Washington; WKYC-TV, Cleveland; WMAQ-TV, Chicago, and WNBC-TV, New York — will exchange programs with respect to the location in which they are most relevant.

JACK PAAR returns to NBC Television Network's late-night talk-and-variety time-period for the first time since he retired as host of "The Jack Paar Show" when he makes a guest appearance on "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" 11:30 p.m. May 13.

Joe Garagiola, substituting for vacationing Johnny Carson, will be host of the program that week.

COMEDIENNE Ruth Buzzi of "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" is something of an optimist. "Even when I was working my way through Pasadena Playhouse as a cleaning lady," Ruth recalls, "I remember telling myself that — if I ever made it as an entertainer — the fact that I had been a charwoman would make a good publicity story someday."

ABC News Saigon correspondent Bill Brannigan says that the well-to-do and influential South Vietnamese, who for years have been sending their sons abroad to avoid military service, have a new rationale for their actions.

With the arrival in Vietnam for military service of President Johnson's two sons-in-law, the South Vietnamese who send their sons overseas now say that if they permitted their heirs to fight in the war, they would appear too "Americanized."

"They acknowledge."

Brannigan reported, "that American tradition doesn't spare the sons or relatives of influential people," while "the accepted code" for rich Vietnamese is to avoid military service.

SEVENTEENTH annual convention of American Women in Radio & Television will meet May 1 to 5 at the Century Plaza Hotel, Los Angeles. . . John Babcock has resigned as political editor and researcher for KTTV News to work on Alex Drier's "Man On The Go" television series for ABC-TV. Productions of the first "Man On The Go" segment is tentatively scheduled for the second week of May.

Barrie comedy. Janet Munro, Laurence Naismith, Richard Easton and Pamela Brown are featured in the "Hall of Fame" story of a turn-of-the-century family of English aristocrats and their servants who are shipwrecked and marooned on a desert island. ## The Big Basketball Draw

Nets Get the Message on College Play

By RICK DU BROW

United Press International

Recently televised basketball games have drawn such a substantial audience that it inspired heated bidding for future video rights to the NCAA championship tournament.

With the networks heretofore generally minimizing the great popularity of college basketball around the nation, and overlooking the superior quality of modern players, the sport had been given second-class treatment.

Shrewdly, Sports Network Inc. had grabbed off the rights to the NCAA tournament and scored a coup by syndicating the classic UCLA-Houston rematch.

The major networks finally got the message after the big publicity that attended the contest. And, in fact, even though there are only three major networks — ABC, CBS and NBC — there were seven bidders recently for the future rights to the NCAA tournament.

THE WINNING bid, a little over $1 million, was submitted by NBC-TV, which will broadcast the tournament for the next two years. ABC-TV and CBS-TV were among the losing bidders.

Network recognition of college basketball's popularity is long overdue. Actually, CBS-TV has been broadcasting the national invitation tournament. But particularly in recent years, the NCAA playoffs have come to be recognized as the closest thing to determining a true national champion.

The only surprising thing in the latest bidding, at least to this viewer, is that a network didn't have the push to try to schedule a weekly, nationally televised college basketball game, the way it's done with college football. No one is claiming audience size would be comparable, but there are many persons who would be interested in watching, and television has a remarkable way of promoting a sport with potential.

SAID CARL Landmann Jr., vice president, NBC Sports:

"We have watched the tremendous growth of NCAA basketball and the development of such superstars as Lew Alcindor, Elvin Hayes, Pete Maravich, Larry Miller and Westley Unseld to where we believe the tournament is now a national attraction similar to the World Series, Super Bowl, Rose and Orange Bowls."

The network further noted: "The 1968 NCAA basketball championship tournament was one of the most exciting in recent years."

According to Landmann, NBC-TV will broadcast four rounds of the tournament next March — including afternoon doubleheaders on three Saturdays, and a semifinal round that will be televised on a Thursday night in prime time.

SPECIAL

MANY SHADES of Black (4), 7:30 p.m. (C) — Robert Abernathy looks at "both sides of the tracks" in the Southland's black community — from a ghetto street gang and a cafe specializing in "soul food" to a debutante ball for daughters of Negro families who have vaulted economic and social barriers to become successful. ## Radio Notes...

KABC RADIO won awards for best editorial and the best special events broadcast — coverage of the arrival of the Queen Mary in Long Beach — at the broadcast industry's conference in San Francisco.

The editorial award went to KABC General Manager Ben Hoberman for a series of editorials calling for changes in the state Mechanic's Lien Law to protect homeowners.

KNX RADIO has added six newsmen to its staff.

Joining the news department are Ray McMackin and Bruce McMichael, formerly with KIRO in Seattle; Jon Goodman, who was with KFBK in Sacramento; Gene Jenkins, formerly of KFMB in San Diego; Larry Attebery from WMAQ-TV, Chicago; and Jerry Laird of KNXT, Los Angeles.

KBIG, AM and FM, Hollywood, has been sold to the Bonneville International Corp., which operates radio stations in five cities for the Mormon Church for a reported $2,700,000 pending Federal Communications Commission approval. Bonneville had been one of the bidders, on KTLA, Hollywood, but dropped out because the price was too high.

John Poole is the former owner of KBIG.

FCC Commissioner Robert E. Lee recently told FM broadcasters that while their medium is radio, it is different from AM and "it is this difference that makes it worthwhile."

He said one gimmick that only could be performed on FM is putting a telephone program on multiplex stereo with the caller on one channel and the station announcer on the other. He said he has not heard of a station trying this, but pointed out that "a lot of realism could be added" by doing it.

CRITICS' CORNER

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE RIOT REPORT, aired Tuesday, Ch. 2.

A brief but pointed broadcast about reaction to the report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders . . . "What Happened to the Riot Report," was an examination of both encouraging and discouraging signs since its release.

But although there were indeed some encouraging signs noted, there was no denying the pronounced air of pessimism throughout the broadcast, anchored by Harry Reasoner.

The report, of course, was a warning of the movement toward two separate societies in the nation, black and white. And, as Reasoner noted, the Commission's work resulted in a call for nothing less than the "transformation of a society."

But as the half-hour proceeded, one heard over and over the dirge that everything seems to come back to money.

And there was the Vice Chairman of the Commission, Mayor John Lindsay of New York, expressing disappointment at the federal government's failure to implement the report.

And the head of the Commission, Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, agreed with Lindsay about the lack of action in Congress, saying there was "no movement at all — pro or con."

The bulk of the broadcast unquestionably contained implicit criticism of both Congress and the White House.

But it was also suggested that if the House of Representatives was hardly changing in its attitude, the Senate was beginning to move.

It was further reported that the President was handling the work of the Commission with caution. And a top presidential aide was quoted as saying it wasn't only the money, but the Congress and the people must first show the will to proceed.

A priest and a sociologist both noted that white communities are the key to the acceptance. The priest said he was afraid to think of what might happen if the communities failed to react.

A Negro in Newark, N.J., who had taken part in the previous riot but now is working steady, was convinced the report didn't change anything.

"It's the riot that changed everything," he said.

Asked why he didn't take part in a recent outbreak, he replied: "Well, this time I had a job."

WHERE THE GIRLS ARE, aired Tuesday, Ch. 4.

. . . An Excellent example of the current vogue in TV variety. It consisted of some interesting music, uninhibited camera work, and lots of color and sight gags.

Much of the time the musical numbers were accompanied by camera work that made them look like those soft drink commercials aimed at the fun-loving teens. And, most of the time, the comedy looked like bits and pieces left over from Monday night's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-in." As a matter of fact, Dick Martin turned out for one gag. He played a duck hunter who took a shot skyward and was rewarded by a rain of shotguns — that's a sight-gag, Daphne, and its a good thing it's re-run time because the stockpile of items like that is getting low.

Noel Harrison, who has a pleasant way with a song, was the show's host. He was particularly attractive in the number "Gentle on My Mind." Don Adams was around in his secret agent role, which is getting to be a bit tedious. And there was Cher who as everybody knows is Sonny's wife. She had a couple of songs as did Barbara McNair, and two groups, the Byrds and The Association.

tration of the Alfred I. DuPont awards for broadcast journalism and also publish an annual critique of broadcasting's performance in the news area. To assure that there would be no possible question of conflict of interest, he said he would resign as chairman of the editorial policy board of the Public Broadcast Laboratory and as a director of National Education Television.

Barrett's act was an encouraging omen for the future. Awards in general in Radio and TV have either been outright industry promotion or susceptible to industry influences. A truly independent panel, not committed to making any awards if they are not deserved in a given season, could be a first step toward restoring the institution of prizes to a position of integrity. It is a step long overdue because too many awards in entertainment and allied fields have been sadly debased by business considerations or ballyhoo publicity.

school, Virginia plans to work more often. But not if it means long separations. "We'll be doing our next film in Scotland, and we can take the family as we did with 'Born Free.' I'm selfish about leaving the children because I miss them too much when I do."

JANET MUNRO will co-star with Travers and Miss McKenna in "The Admirable Crichton."

Miss Munro, a titian-haired British beauty, will play the role of Tweeny, the servant girl.

Other major roles: Laurence Naismith as Lord Loam; Richard Easton as Ernest Wooley and Pamela Brown as Lady Brocklehurst.

Naismith, who once starred on Broadway as Santa Claus in the musical "Here's Love," is prominent in the current film "Camelot." The British actor was introduced to New York theatre audiences in a highly successful production of "The School for Scandal."

A veteran television performer, Miss Brown won an Emmy Award in 1962 for her performance in "Victoria Regina," a "Hallmark Hall of Fame" special. Her film credits include "Cleopatra," "Tales of Hoffman" and "Lost for Life."

Easton is one of Broadway's busiest actors. He has leads in two APA Repertory Company Productions: "Pantagloize" and "Exist the King," which are performed on alternating nights.

ROBERT HARTUNG adapted the play for television from Sir James Barrie's story of a turn-of-the-century family of English aristocrats and their servants who are shipwrecked and marooned on a desert island. Crichton is the very proper butler who proves himself the enterprising leader and hero of the two-year sejour.

What Your Name Means by La Reina Rule

Send your name to La Reina Rule, P.O. Box 64151, Los Angeles, Calif. 90064, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Would like the origin of BELL.—W.B., Cypress, S.B., Long Beach.

BELL, English or Scottish, refers to an ancestral owner of an inn trademarked by a picture of a "bell." This surname also originated from the early Anglo-French "Bel," meaning "handsome one," or from a forefather who was a bell-maker. Descendants of an inn-owner included "Richard Atte (at the) Bell" in 1307 recorded in the Writs of Parliament, and Hugh I.e. Bel (the handsome) of Cambridge, 1273. The Bell armorial shield from Scotland has three golden bells on a blue background. Alexander Graham Bell, a Scottish-American, 1847-1922, was known as the "father of the telephone."

MISS RULE: Please analyze SIEBERS.—A.D., San Pedro.

SIEBERS, German, refers to the hero-name Siegbert, which in the 13th century described the progenitor as being "victorious and brilliant."

MISS RULE: May we have data on RODDA of Cornwall, England? — I.B., Long Beach.

RODDA is a spelling variation of the English surnames Roddy and Rodde. The source was dual, either from the warrior name Hrodo meaning "famous one," or from the nickname Roddy based on Roderick, portraying the ancestor as "famous ruler."

MISS RULE: Kindly give data on SCHORI.—T.S., San Pedro.

SCHORI is a German-Swiss surname shortened from Schlori. This identifies the forefather as "young sheep-shearer."

MISS RULE: May we have genealogy data on JENNINGS?—C.J., Norwalk; M.N., Garden Grove; P.J., D.S., Long Beach.

JENNINGS, Anglo-

French, is an alteration of the 12th century "Jenin," meaning "young John." The Biblical "John" deciphers as "God is gracious." English ancestors include Thomas Jennyns of Norfolk, 1546, and James Jennyns of London, 1571. The principal Jennings armorial shield is silver, emblazoned with a red chevron placed between three black lead weights used as medieval missiles. William Jennings was a resident of Charlestown, Mass., in 1634.

MISS RULE: Would you analyze DORNBOSS?—R.D., Long Beach.

DORNBOSS, Dutch, was descriptive of a thornbush landmark on the ancestor's property. He adopted this place name term as his surname.

MISS RULE: Please give the origin of HOSTETTER.—M.H., Bellflower.

HOSTETTER is a dialect variation of the German surname Hochstetter. This was originally Hoch-Stadter, meaning "citizen-of the town on elevated ground."

The Hochstetter armorial shield used by family branches in Bavaria, Prussia and Wurttemberg is divided diagonally by a scalloped line running from the upper right to lower left corner. The upper portion of the shield is gold; the lower, blue.

MISS RULE: Please give the source of SONNEN.—M.H., San Pedro.

SONNEN, German and Swiss, is from the ancient Gothic "Sunja" characterizing the ancestor as "truthful one." Alternate origins were the High German "Suona" meaning "judgment" and the nickname "Sunn" for "sunshine." The Sonnen shield from Switzerland is silver, emblazoned with a red fleur-de-lis issuing from the top of a red chevron.

MISS RULE: Would like to learn about DANIELS.—A. D., San Pedro; F. D., Long Beach.

DANIELS honored an English forefather called Daniel. Biblical Hebrew, which gave the world thousands of names, deciphers Daniel as meaning "God is my judge." Alician Daniel or Daniels was a Gloucester, England, land owner in 1273. The Daniels armorial shield is black on the lower half, emblazoned with a silver tiger. The upper half has two black diamonds on an ermine backing.

MISS RULE: Please explain LAYTON.—A.L., Garden Grove, D.L., Compton.

LAYTON, from the early English "Leah-ton," designated "pasture-meadow estate." The Layton shield from Cumberland, North England, has three red seashells on a diagonal silver stripe over a black background. Richard de Layton was a Cumberland resident in 1292. An early American forefather, Thomas Layton of Dover, N.H., died in 1671.

OUR COVER

Gene Autry, who starred in scores of Western movies, is concerned more with baseball players than horses these days. As owner of the California Angels, he's on the lookout for home run hitters and pitchers who can last nine innings, rather than outlaws and wild Indians. In our cover photo Autry is shown with Angels field manager Bill Rigney at the club's spring training site in Palm Springs. Last year the Angels finished well up in the first division of the American League and had a big hand in determining who would win the pennant. This year, Autry feels, things will be even better at the Big A, even though the Anaheim team is off to a poor start. For Gene's homespun philosophy on baseball and other matters, turn to Page 5.

THE WELLS REPORT

California's Last Small Town

By Bob Wells

AVALON—Like an enchanted princess waiting for the awakening kiss, this city slumbers in the spring sun, stirring and sighing on its sea couch, its dreaming eyes fixed on the past.

"Over-town," as the Catalina Islanders call the mainland, there are entrepreneurs who would awaken the city by flinging tall hotel shafts of concrete and glass against the granite ridges that run to the sea, by bulldozing the hills into home sites and by importing enough tourists to match the pebbles of its beaches.

The people of Avalon take no pleasure in that prospect.

They would rather keep their city as it is—California's last small town. Where else in this land can a pretty young telephone operator leave work at midnight or later and walk a mile or so unescorted through dark streets to her home? Where else can you conduct an effective publicity campaign by sending one postcard to a friend through the local post office? Where else do motorists stop as a matter of course to give a lift to pedestrians struggling up the steep hills? Where else can you call from another city, as you can to Avalon, give the operator a number and have her say: "If you're calling the mayor, I don't think he's home. I just put a call through to him at the Flying Yachtsman."

Avalon in winter when the tourists are gone is the closest thing to Paradise that still exists in this state. There is no serious crime, little juvenile delinquency. There is a sense of community, a great peace and natural beauty and sometimes a terrible fury when a Northeaster rises, driving the sea and rain screaming in front of it up the beaches and into the shops and homes and skins of the islanders.

There is also a great deal of dullness, boredom and gossip. Except for weekend yachtsmen there are few visitors. Public alcoholism is not a disease here, as on the enlightened mainland, but a serious avocation to be pursued by some of the town's leading citizens during the long cocktail hour that lasts from Labor Day, when the tourists depart, until Memorial Day, when they return.

Worst of all, there are limited opportunities to make a living in Avalon. The young people all leave and go to over-town to seek their fortunes. As a result, Avalon has become an over-40 community in the off-season when the hippies and teenieboppers are gone. And like all older communities it passes its leisure not in predicting the future but in retelling the legends of the past. And, as in all aging communities, the most honor and deference are reserved for the Oldest Residents.

Patriarch of Avalon is Ernest Windle, justice of the peace, sometime newspaper editor and official historian of Catalina who came to the island as a sickly English youth in 1907. Listening to Judge Windle, the Catalina Golden Age of the 1920s and 1930s comes alive, as it does also in the museum in the Casino with its myriad photographs of straw-hatted movie stars and one-piece-suited bathing beauties grinning at the camera.

Those were the days of the big name bands and five steamers a day and the Island Villas where no questions were asked about couples who registered for the tiny cabins.

"Those were the days," remembers Tommy Wilken-son, who came to the island with his mother in 1918, "when all the lights in town were controlled by one switch. On week nights they'd blink the lights at 10:15, so you'd know they were going out at 10:30. On week-ends, of course, they stayed on longer.

"One Saturday I was coming from the dance at the Casino—I must have been about 20—with my girl and I thought I'd turn out the lights. So I did, and I started walking away but a cop came from behind the bushes and collared me. They were going to put me in jail, but my stepfather was city treasurer and he said he'd stand good for me until the trial.

"At the trial, Judge Windle said you can plead guilty or not guilty, throw yourself on the mercy of the court, or demand a jury trial.

"I said I plead not guilty and demand a jury trial.

"Sixty days suspended sentence," Judge Windle said. "You have to be in by 10 p.m. every night except Saturday night and you can stay out until midnight then."

"And I said I thought you told me I could plead guilty or not guilty?"

"He said, 'I would have given you the same sentence anyway'."

The big bands have departed, the steamers run once a day, but justice on Catalina remains much the same. A few years ago, Oscar Griffith, who first came to the island in 1912 and who operated the Hurricane, a famous bar of the 1930s, came up before Judge Windle on charge of poaching lobster out of season.

It proved impossible to find a jurymen that didn't know Oscar, so in the end, the prosecutor settled for merely excusing a woman who was a regular member of his pinochle club. The evidence against Oscar seemed overwhelming to everyone but the jury. It promptly found Oscar innocent and then hung around to congratulate him on his sterling defense of his good name.

Since then, Judge Windle reports, lobster-poaching and similar trials have been held over-town in the interests of justice.

Sit in the Flying Yachtsman or the Chi-Chi in the dusk of April when just the regulars are there and you are sure to hear the legend of Harry the Monk. Harry the Monk's mother was a mermaid, they say. At least, he was more at home in the water than on land. He spent the golden days of the '30s astounding the islanders with his feats of swimming and diving. At night, like Poseidon, he came roaring up the beach with seaweed in his hair and a sharktooth necklace to make love to the tourist maids of the shore.

Then one day in the late 1940s, he was overdue on a movie company boat. They found him sitting in his mother's garden, 15 feet down in water the color of window glass. Around him were purple urchins and goldenrod starfish and blue-gray seafans and orange garabaldi. He was smiling. His head was cocked as if listening and his eyes were gazing past the cathedral kelp to the deep ocean where the great, wild pelagic creatures graze in the eternal currents of the Earth. His arms and shoulders swayed in the slow surge and the green-gold sunlight made dappled, dancing patterns on his back.

They took him from the sea. The smile faded and his mouth gaped like a gill. The sealight iridescence left his skin. They closed Harry the Monk's eyes and buried him in his father's land.

Those are the stories they tell in Avalon when the tourists are gone. Not of hope for the future, but of the sad, long-ago death of kings.

The Code of the West: It Still Guides Gene Autry

By George Laine

Gene Autry as cowboy movie star.

EVERYONE WHO watches TV or movie westerns knows the Code of the West, that formula through which the good guys defeat the bad guys, maintaining honesty on the frontier and espousing a general morality for all.

The code may be out of date but Gene Autry still lives by it. Moreover, his operations — which range from TV stations to Anaheim's Angels to oil fields and cattle ranches — seem to be prospering as a result of what the avant-garde elements of Hollywood would call "corny."

"The principles I live by haven't changed at all," Autry says, simply. "If anything, I'm more aware of them and more responsible to them than ever before."

Autry devised that Code of the West and it saw him through more than 100 motion pictures; for seven years he was Hollywood's No. 1 box office draw. The Code demands that the good guy:

—Never hits a man when he's down, no matter how bad the villain.

—Always gives the sucker a better than even break, never checks cinches and refuses to quit when he is ahead.

—Is absolutely honest.

—Can be trusted to keep a bargain.

There are other facets of the code (he can kiss his horse, but not the girl) and most Americans who flocked to the theaters during the '30s and '40s know them by heart. So does Autry.

Sharp-eyed, velvet-tongued promoters (of which the Hollywoods are filled) have walked away from a deal with Autry convinced that they'd gotten the best of it. Later they learned that Gene had gained exactly what he was after.

Orvon Gene Autry probably wasn't born with his shrewd business sense. His daddy, Delbert Autry, was a tenant farmer who later became a cattle buyer and horse trader, riding a nondenominational circuit as a preacher on weekends. Gene's mother died when he was only 4, two years after the family moved from the dad's birthplace at Tioga, Tex., to Ravia, Okla. Gene learned a lot before finishing Ravia Community School, the sum total of his formal education. He learned a lot about the value of money, about hard work — and he learned a lot more about integrity. The combination has worked a modern marvel. Today Autry owns:

—The California Angels, "Cinderella" team of the American League and probably — hard-nosed businessmen agree — the most sound of organized baseball's franchises.

—A substantial portion of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

—A chain of TV stations in California and Arizona (including KTLA in Los Angeles) and a string of radio stations in Washington, Oregon, California and Arizona (including KMPC in Hollywood).

—Nearly a score of hotels in major Pacific Coast cities and resort areas.

The Autry holdings include, additionally, recording companies, music publishing houses, television production companies, several cattle ranches, a comic book house, two Arizona newspapers, 50 or 60 firms authorized to sell Gene Autry merchandise such as cap pistols, hair oil, bill-folds and other miscellany and "some oil wells."

Autry doesn't care to tell the story but he doesn't deny that two Hollywood producer pals drilled for oil in Texas and came up with dry holes whereupon Autry drilled 17 wells within 10 miles of their failures and reaped 17 major oil producers.

By 1968, conservative estimates figured Autry's worth at more than $9 million and his income at about $600,000 per year. For a man who has described himself as "just a cotton-pickin' country boy," Autry—who owns 200 suits, all western-styled — has done measurably well. He'll choke before he'll discuss his business prowess positively.

"Actually," he says, his face flushing, "it's the thing I do best. What I do worst is sing, act and play a guitar."

Another of the band of celluloid cowboys who rode the motion picture ranges in the same era as Autry agreed wholeheartedly.

"Gene can't sing and he can't act," the actor said, shaking his head, "but boy can he add."

As a youngster, Gene sang with his dad during those weekend religious services and bought a $5 mail order guitar as soon as he'd saved the $1 down payment on it. By the time he'd paid it off (at 50 cents a month), he was accompanying himself whenever his new job — baggage hustler on the railroad that cut through Ravia — was slack. Gene saw right off that baggage hustling had little future. So he talked the station master, a music-minded feller named Jimmy Long, into giving him lessons on telegraph operation. Autry, who was also studying to be a CPA via a correspondence school, mastered telegraphy first and became a relief operator for the railway.

Autry does like to tell the story of how he was singing and plucking his guitar one night at the telegraph desk in Chelsea, Okla., when a tall, homely man walked in. The man waited for the teenager to finish his tune, then asked the boy to dispatch a message to New York. "You sing pretty good," advised Will Rogers, as he turned to leave. "Stick to it."

Autry stuck to it. Rebuffed by a New York recording company (which has cursed itself ever since), Gene turned to radio, becoming "Oklahoma's Yodeling Cowboy" on a Tulsa station.

Jimmy Long collaborated with Autry on "That Silver-Haired Daddy of Mine" (Autry's first one-million seller; he's had eight others) but Gene remembers Long more fondly for introducing Autry to Ina May Spivey, Long's niece. They've been married 36 years.

The rest of Autry's story is more biographical than news. Mascot Pictures, sizing him up as a potential draw with

Uses of Clay Pots

An attractive terrace or patio table can be made with three large clay flower pots and a circular piece of wood. Invert the three pots and space them evenly in a tripod arrangement. Then simply place a circular piece of wood over the pots to serve as a table surface. Use redwood or a precast concrete slab.

Assemble a handy cigarette receptacle from two clay pots. Invert the first pot, then stack the second right side up. Place a three-inch bolt, backed by rubber washers, through the drainage holes to anchor the pots, then fill the top pot with sand. Add a bright coat of paint, or some of the new decals.

Give each cookout guest his own hibachi by using eight to 10-inch red clay flowerpots. Plug the drainage hole, put charcoal in the bottom of the pot, the grill goes on top.

GENE AUTRY

his hit record booming, slipped Gene into a bit part in a Ken Maynard movie. The fans scurried to see Maynard but they left the theaters talking about Autry. A year later — in 1935 — Gene made eight movies for Republic Pictures. All of them were westerns — the studios called them "oaters" — and they all feature Autry on guitar and six-gun.

The '30s were scarcely a dream for America. The Dust Bowl had enveloped Gene's home town, Roosevelt was attempting to bring the nation out of the Great Depression, people were trying to convince themselves that the German named Hitler didn't really want war. Everything seemed to be changing. Everything but Autry.

Reinforcing the Code of the West with even more scrupulous "don'ts" for the hero (himself), Gene and his horse Champion piled up box office receipts wherever they played. Exhibitors said that movies such as "All Quiet on the Western Front" and "It Happened One Night" were fine if Hollywood had to have an image but declared that it was Autry who paid their leases and lifted their mortgages.

The only real dissent from this thesis came from Autry. It still does.

"No one man made the movie industry a success," he explains. "Even the movies I was in were never a one-man show."

Loyalty ran deep in the Autry location teams. Smiley Burnett was featured as Gene's sidekick in most of the 100-plus features; Pat Buttram in the remainder. Only a half-dozen directors figured in the entire catalogue.

"I was very close with my crews," Autry confesses. "Everyone from the director to the cameraman to set riggers and other actors — we were a team. They were my associates, not my employees."

Autry's novel labor-management arrangements have been one of the hallmarks of his various operations through the years. He instructed deejays at Hollywood's KMPC that they were to forget that he was the owner.

One astounded deejay recalled that Autry said, "Just because I own the station doesn't mean you have to play my records."

The deejays obliged Gene, playing just one of his records in the first year of his ownership. (The record was Autry's superhit version of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," a record which has sold more than 10 million copies. It is played more often on other Southland stations at Christmastime than it is on KMPC.)

Essentially the same relationship exists between Autry and the men who operate and play on the Anaheim ball club. One report has it that Autry was an excellent semi-pro baseball player who barely missed a big-league call. Autry disclaims the tale.

"I played some ball," he says, sheepishly, "but I wasn't all that good at it. I would have loved to have played better."

In lieu of playing, Autry allows himself a Walter Mitty-like "dream" at Anaheim. His acquisition of the team sounds almost incredible. Dickering for radio-TV rights for the Angels' games, Gene suddenly found the negotiations shifting and, within minutes, was shaking hands on the deal that delivered the team into his hands.

"You never know what a handshake will do," Gene recalls. "All of a sudden I had a ball club franchise and no ball players."

Ridiculous, snorted sports writers and other club owners.

One sports writer charged Autry would give baseball a ruddy atmosphere.

Things have altered sharply since that first season in 1961. The Angels finished third in 1962 and, although they won no pennant in 1967, had everything to say about who would win the flag.

Gene's sense of fair play does extend into the baseball world so it was only natural that when the National League team selected lodgings in Los Angeles prior to the All-Star Game last July, Autry spoke right up.

"The game is being played in Anaheim, not in Los Angeles," said Gene with the simple, homespun logic that has become his stock in trade. "Both All-Star teams have a commitment to the fans and the press to stay in the city which is hosting the game."

The National Leaguers did stay in Los Angeles but the fans — and the players themselves — conceded that Autry was right, that the Los Angeles headquartering was "a snub — bad judgment if not bad manners."

Autry doesn't keep his feelings to himself. He is candid, almost blunt in his speech. He wishes others were the same. When the subject shifts to baseball — especially the 1968 Angels — his candor knows no bounds.

"There's a passel of ifs involved but I guess if we get a few breaks this year we could have a pennant," he confides. "We had a bad streak last June — not had baseball, just bad breaks."

Gene speaks baseball in a fashion not normally associated with club owners. He'll tell you that the "ifs" are centered largely on Sammy Ellis, the ex-Cincinnati mound whiz who won 22 games for the Reds in 1966; Aurelio Rodriguez, the Mexican flash who did a phenomenal job at third base for a short period last year, and what heights can be achieved by Jim Fregosi.

"We're looking for Jim Fregosi to become one of the big stars in baseball — he already is, in my book — and if all of it goes together, look for us to have the pennant."

Autry's relationships with the team aren't based exclusively on the near-schoolboy type of adoration evidenced in his statements.

"I like to pick ballplayers in the same way I pick numbers for radio stations and executives in over-sea hotels," he says. "I get the best man I can find to do the job. If I come out of it looking good as a club owner, it's because the men selected for the jobs make me look good."

"If they're successful, I am too."

Autry will confess that he spends "more time than I should" watching the Angels play ball. He is also a regular visitor to the locker room, at training sessions and in other activities. He acknowledges he feels "more at home with the players than with most of the folks I do business with."

"Some owners won't associate with their players," says Gene. "That's a bad mistake."

"Anyone can come along and pat you on the back when you're winning. What counts with these boys is for them to know I'm behind them even when they're losing. Especially when they're losing. When a boost can do the most good is when you're down."

Autry, a bit sheepish as a result of the philosophic treatise, smiled self-consciously. It was almost as if he'd revealed something that he would have preferred stayed hidden.

"All my life," he blurted. "I've loved baseball."

"I'd have given up everything I've ever made if I could have been a big leaguer."

Law or Chaos in the U.S.A.?

By Blaine Nels Simons

Riots plague America, and this year's "Law Day, U.S.A." on May 1 will emphasize that "Only a lawful society can build a better society."

—AP Wirephoto

MOSCOW, May 1: The rumble of tanks and artillery and the footsteps of myriad soldiers are heard on the streets of Russia's capital today. A million citizens are viewing with awe the armed power of their native land. The world is impressed. "Might" is the Law of Russia.

SIBERIA, May 1. Alexi Fedorsky sadly contemplates his 30th anniversary in this Godforsaken sector of Russia. He was summarily exiled to this lonely land in the day of the great purges. Better his fate than that of his friend Goronsky, though. Goronsky was shot by a firing squad. He had no trial either. Each, by exile and death, had tasted communism's "Law."

UNITED STATES, May 1: This country will, for the 11th consecutive year, be celebrating "Law Day, U.S.A." As in prior years, the observance of this day will be a quiet one. No parades of the military will shock the silence of the nation's peaceful streets. Each citizen will quietly reflect on what the law, as practiced in a democratic society, has meant to him. Here all law is formulated by congresses and legislatures elected by the people. Judges elected by the people pass on the law as it regards the facts of each case before them. Police, appointed through elected officials, serve the community as a shield, not as oppressors. Here "Law" is a protective cloak, not a destructive tool.

"Law Day, U.S.A." was born in 1958. Initially proposed by the American Bar Association, it was proclaimed as a special day of observance by President Eisenhower. Then, as now, Law Day's objectives were threefold:

1. To foster a deeper respect for the law by teaching how law serves all citizens.

2. To encourage responsible citizenship by demonstrating that individual rights and freedoms involve individual obligations.

3. To emphasize the basic values of the rule of law in the United States as contrasted with the rule of force under communism.

In 1961 Congress established May 1 as the annual observance of Law Day by joint resolution of Senate and House. The idea had spread like wildfire throughout the nation to that in 1968 state and local bar associations will participate in over 40,000 Law Day programs on the first day of May. Governors, mayors and city councils join the President in proclaiming this as our special sort of "May Day."

Each year a special theme is formulated for Law Day. This year's timely theme is: "Only a lawful society can build a better society." Through these words each person is reminded that our country's search for equality and justice must be pursued through lawful means. Forced equality, gained outside the law, through mob violence, can only lead to anarchy. This in turn leads to the tyranny of a few and at this point we are back to the story of Alexi Fedorsky and his Siberian exile. Federal Judge Harold R. Medina, in a special pre-Law Day message, puts it this way:

"Disobedience to law is the great destroyer of democratic institutions. Whether it be the man who ignores the red lights on the highway or thumbs his nose at building violations, or steals, burns or robs, each carries us a step nearer to the loss of all those rights that are dearest to our hearts."

William T. Gossett, president-elect of the American Bar Association, in noting this year's Law Day theme, says that "mobs do not generate human progress; they retard it . . . mobs don't establish rights; they trample them." He sees the nation stepping fast backward, not forward, if mob rule should prevail.

Across the breadth of the land on May 1, Law Day speakers will be echoing and enlarging on the remarks of these two distinguished Americans. With an eye on the coming summer, when riots are likely to erupt again, and with ears still reverberating from the noisy destruction of last year's mobs, the speakers will be trying to inculcate a feeling of personal responsibility and citizenship in the heart of every American.

One of the most unusual Law Day programs ever conceived in the United States was one started in Long Beach in 1959. In that year the Long Beach Bar Association, through a committee headed by attorney Charles Z. Walker Jr., brought several hundred Long Beach high school students to the local courthouse (then new) for tours of the building. The program proved so successful that now, 10 years later, some 4,500 high school senior government

Law Day in Long Beach

IN LONG BEACH the principal Law Day speaker will be one who is particularly well qualified to speak on this year's theme. He is John Doar, one-time chief of the civil rights division of the U.S. Department of Justice. Using law and the courts as his means, instead of violence, he secured the conviction of seven Mississippi men who had conspired to deprive three civil rights workers of their rights in 1964. "Violence" had been the method used by these seven defendants. They had resorted to murder. "Conspiracy," however, and not murder was all that these men could be charged with under Mississippi law. Under this law no Mississippi jury had ever convicted a defendant in a case where the victim was a Negro or a civil rights worker. Laboring long and diligently on this case, Doar secured his conviction when the matter was finally tried in court in 1967.

Doar's talk can be heard by the public at a Law Day dinner at the Lafayette Hotel on the evening of May 1. Cocktail hour begins at 6:30, dinner at 7:30. Tickets are priced at $5.50 per person. Tickets may be purchased at the door that evening but can be obtained in advance from: Phil Madden, attorney, 507 UCB Building; Bob Bergmann, attorney, 1020 Security Building, or Doug Dalton, attorney, 120 Linden Ave., all Long Beach.

In addition to Doar's speech, the program will feature Scholarship and Liberty Bell awards. The former are awarded each year to deserving Long Beach high school seniors by the Long Beach Bar Association; this year's awards will total $3,000. The latter, Liberty Bell, awards are yearly presented to non-lawyers who have rendered outstanding service to this community in the fields of education, business, science, communications, labor, government, religion, youth organizations and the professions.

Story and Photos

"WANT to live where the real living is? Come to Redding! Within a radius of 120 miles, you'll find every kind of outdoor activity — nine national forests — millions of primitive acres to fish, hunt, play or camp in, and beautiful Shasta Lake with 365 miles of shoreline to explore, admire, photograph or paint. Come to Redding to LIVE!"

Guess who published that?

You're right. The Chamber of Commerce.

A group of us went to Redding to see for ourselves. We found the chamber's extravagant prose quite accurate.

Redding is almost 700 highway miles from here. It is located about 100 air miles from the Pacific and about 100 air miles from the Oregon border. It is near the Trinity Alps, one of the world's most rugged mountain ranges. Mt. Shasta, 14,000 feet, looms to the north. To the east is Mt. Lassen.

Redding is a big little town of 16,700 people. All of huge Shasta County has only 78,000. Most of them live near Redding.

As we drove in and around Redding we got the feeling that the area is mostly forest primeval. This is not quite true. There are fine homes hidden in the trees. Most of them show evidence, such as horses or boats, of the sport-loving nature of the people.

The woods are of two kinds — the open, slightly rolling, park-like areas of small-leaf oaks and tall evergreens, and the true mountain wilderness, rugged and dense, with great lumber trees.

Change is coming to Redding, probably faster than even the Chamber of Commerce will like. It is inevitable because it offers the California way of life which most of us want and which becomes harder and harder to get in the crowded metropolises. There is a freeway, Interstate 5. Air travel is convenient. Recreation is Redding's No. 1 industry. The town boasts 32 motels.

Here are some of the advantages:

Fishing: You can catch salmon and steelhead in the Sacramento River without leaving town. Lake Shasta offers bass, rainbows, browns, kamloops and many other game fish, including 100-pound sturgeon.

Hunting: Game includes mule and black-tail deer, mountain lion, bear, lynx, wildcat, raccoon, quail, dove, squirrel, waterfowl, bandtail pigeon and pheasant.

Water sports: Many miles of open water and secluded coves offer every kind of water sport except sailboating. Even this is done but it is aggravating because the mountains act as windbreaks.

Winter sports: There is skiing on Mt. Shasta from mid-November through May. Redding gets very little snow.

Seasons: There are definite seasons, an enticement to the Southlander. The winters are not very cold, but summer can be quite hot.

Redding may become the most northern suburb of the Southland. It seems to have everything except the sea.

What do the people of Redding think about the inevitable growth? They are of two minds. They like living in their semi-wilderness with its clean air and living room. They don't want smog, monstrous social problems, traffic snarls and litters of beer cans and sandwich wrappers.

Rugged mountain wilderness rises above inlet of idyllic Lake Shasta.

Open park vistas are frequent in flatter areas near Redding

The optimists, however, believe that these evils are avoidable, and that planners can learn from the mistakes made in older recreation areas.

Among the optimists is Hallmark Land Investments, Inc., of Los Angeles. San Francisco and San Diego, which has acquired 5,500 acres adjacent to Lake Shasta. Hallmark was our host on the trip, and a half-day was spent touring the wilderness "ranch."

"We think conservation is important," said James B. Hoffman, the firm's president. "The only bulldozers we understand are the ones which cut the roads." The initial development limits sales to parcels of not less than 40 acres. Prosperous "recreational retreats" — homes or holiday homes — in the forest are envisioned.

We spent a charming, sun-swept day in a houseboat on Lake Shasta. The lake is not very wide and the mountains rise sheer from the water. We fished, chatted in the sun, put into little coves. The motor shoved the shipshape little house along at about the speed of a fast walk.

Peacefulness is the word for Shasta. The landscape floats by like a dream of beautiful mountains. I cannot imagine what it would be like to spend days and nights in such quiet loveliness. Perhaps one's tensions would relax, his anxieties fade away.

The people of the area have a breezy and cordial style. They tend to dress in sports clothes. Perhaps the best recommendation I heard did not come from the Chamber of Commerce crowd. "The wonderful thing about living here," the man said, "is you have friends, real friends. You help them when they need help, and they help you."

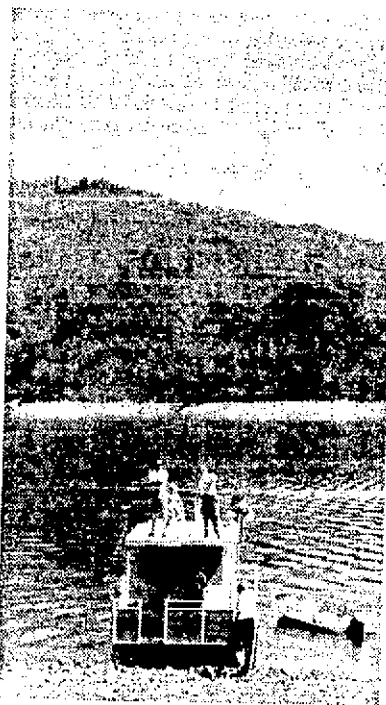

A two-day conducted tour is not the wayers did too.

to understand a place. One should try the hunting and fishing and, if agile enough, the water and snow skiing. He should visit the caverns and Mt. Lassen National Park. He should find out if he can still sit on a horse.

But what I saw, I liked. I think the oth-striking out for what they REALLY want?"

regular Friday night gig at Village Inn Pizza Parlor in Lakewood, the 6-foot-4-inch Kentuckian attributed the revival of bluegrass to the film "Bonnie and Clyde."

"It's biggest boon has been the popularity of the sound track based on Earl Scruggs' 1948 composition, 'Foggy Mountain Breakdown,'" said Riney.

The affable musician-journalist - publicist also sees bluegrass as a phenomenon that gains public favor during time of war.

"I first heard it as a child on 'Grand Ol Opry' during World War II. It came into its own again during the Korean War and has quite a following with teen-agers today."

Proof is his standing-room-only audiences made up of teeny-boppers and middle-aged listeners who reminisce over the toe-stamping tunes associated with their World War II experiences.

"We've gone through every musical phase until we've reached abstract forms like Ornet Coleman's ultra-progressive style or psychedelic trends emphasizing the sitar," said the Liberty Records account executive.

"Now we're reverting full-circle to one of the truly basic forms of American music which represents an earlier, less-complicated era."

The 27-year-old bass player admits he doesn't read music and says his involvement with bluegrass began in 1960 while serving in the army.

"I'd never tried to play bluegrass, but once I got away from home (Owensboro, Ky.) I missed it. I was lead singer with a group that performed off base at Ft. Chaffee, Ark. I decided the sound we were lacking was a bass."

"I bought one on time for $325 and that night faked the performance by playing notes common to chords in that progression."

After his discharge from the army and studies at Brescia College, Riney formed a trio and headed for California. The trio paid its way by playing one-night stands cross country.

In 1964, he married the former Emily Onken, daughter of a Las Vegas newspaperman. With the responsibilities of a household, Riney decided to forgo his musical ambitions and broke into the newspaper business in Barstow by "faking my way until I was writing the same kind of Gardens, Roman brick wall shelter spacious California contemporary home.

Julie Alban sits in combined dining-entertainment room.

IT appears to be spring all year long in the tranquil, lower-than-the-street California contemporary home in serene Park Estates.

Dr. and Mrs. Seymour L. Alban and their four children live comfortably in a house of sheltered elegance designed to complement the activities of all the family.

"After living away from Long Beach for several years," says Mrs. Alban, "we decided we wanted to return, so we purchased the rolling corner acreage in Park Estates and proceeded to build our dream home."

By Ellen Krec

"We wanted the fun of building our own home from all the ideas we had formed from previous homes," she says. "We also wanted lots of room for each child to study and play."

Formal and informal rooms flow in a U shape to border the swimming pool and patio.

The exterior facade is partly hidden behind a Roman brick wall.

The home and the gardens followed the natural land contour with ivy and hawthorne street gardens dropping low to the entrance. Azaleas were spotted through the plantings for color. A sweeping sycamore tree gives shade at one side of the wall.

The slightly pitched rock roof is in the same color as the salt treated concrete walk. Off white with soft yellow was used on the stucco and redwood facade. The black wrought iron gate opens to the inner gardens with masses of azaleas and ferns.

The roofed entrance thrusts from the center of the glass front foyer.

Glass surrounding the foyer exposes slices of interesting planting while one wall was covered with cork wallpaper as a background for a Mexican carved chest. Dr. and Mrs. Alban share a passion for collecting art, so the walls were painted off white and small spotlights were installed in the ceiling to highlight the collection.

MRS. ALBAN says they always like the same art although her husband makes faster purchase decisions.

The Albans did not want isolated rooms but flow-through rooms to increase mobility of guests.

The formal living room with small private patio provides the size and background for the massive squared grand piano and Mrs. Alban's choice antique... an almost 100-foot French antique chifonier. Placed against the high wall, the chifonier adds balance demanded by the heavily carved piano on the facing wall.

Centered in the full wall of split-face travertine marble is the fireplace with cantilevered hearth with shadow play from a slender window at the hearth's end.

Inserted in the soffit is a screen for the Alban collection of home movies and slides.

Surrounding the fireplace is a pair of gold velvet sofas backed by a carved credenza. Betty Gylers ceramic acrobats are the first sculpture to grace the top.

The open-beam ceiling rises to 12 feet but slopes lightly to the paneled wall. Smaller conversational spaces are created by two line chairs also bordering the shell-design coffee table. A second grouping consists of pumpkin and pink brocade French chairs at each side of an inlaid table.

The adjoining room combines sitting with a full wall sofa and dining from a circular table surrounded with mobile pumpkin shell chairs. An unobtrusive sunken bar corners the patio window. The black bar top and warm walnut base are complementary to the room's decor. An off-white with shades of olive Indian rug under the dining table is identical to the area rug in the foyer.

NOTED California artists are well represented on the walls of the Alban home and Dick Swift is among the favorites.

A sculpture by Ken Glenn, affiliated with the art department at California State College, Long Beach, was made while he was visiting a village in Israel. The Albans also paid a visit to the area and felt the sculpture represented a feeling they all shared, so the sculpture came to rest on the coffee table.

A wide rosewood French antique table surrounded by arm chairs will accommodate, in comfort, 18 guests. The cane back chairs are all antiqued French reproductions and no additional furniture was used, but for convenience the Albans added a built-in buffet.

A gift from mother, an antique Chinese scroll, was hung on the wall along with an additional pair of Oriental embroidered tapestries.

Teak cabinets line the walls of the functional butler yellow kitchen.

The easily accessible family room opens to all rooms as well as the pool. Teak also was used on the fixed cabinets but travertine split-face marble provides the foundation for the snack bar. It's a perfect base for the bar according to Mrs. Alban because little kicking feet can't harm it.

The coral concrete patio has extended areas forming patios-within-patio with a second-level tropical planter rimming the rectangular pool

A secluded rose garden, play yard and circular deck "has the finest view of the home."

Next to the white and gold guest powder room is the library and master bedroom.

"Originally we planned to use the library as a study with all book-lined walls, then we added a television," says Mrs. Alban, "and the children look over."

Under the windows bordering the front gardens the Albans have built-in book shelves with a peninsula desk near one corner.

Anna Fikler painted the oil of the Albans' boat. The library walls are a happy mixture of impressionist painting and serigraphs, wood carvings from the West Indies and children's accomplishments in papier mache.

It is easy to get away from everything in the combination bedroom and sitting room. Two black Stan Young chairs have been favored by the Albans for some years. Under the gold hibiscus mural is the sculptured contemporary headboard. Subdued gold with white is the foundation for the walls, draperies and the carpet.

"We like the idea of separate dressing rooms with a bath between," says Mrs. Alban. One side is strictly masculine with all walnut built-in storage. The bath between is white with standard tub enclosed with marble and a second marble storage ledge.

Open glass towel shelves provide color accents above the tub.

All mirrored doors cover "her" closets and extend to the dressing table at the end.

A full-scale utility room combines every household appliance necessary to a six-person family.

Two-year-old Julie enjoys her cream and gold room appropriately near the work area. Mrs. Alban says: "Julie's room is just as busy as she is with her toys filling all the corners."

The sky-lighted hall turns from a walk-in, room-size linen closet to a formica-topped cabinet ideal for study or workspace.

Two self-painted oils are bright additions to the hall although Mrs. Alban says: "We both felt we had just one painting in us and when we finished I gave them to a white elephant sale. My husband bought them back and we use them in the hall—to cover the fuse box!"

SIDE-BY-SIDE rooms in royal blue with white belong to Joey, 10, and Jackie, 6. Each boy has a pool view through white shuttered windows above walnut fixed storage. Jackie is a licensed and accomplished hunter and looks forward to sharing hunting expeditions with his father and brother.

Joey is a drummer and Mrs. Alban says: "One thing about having a drummer in the family, you never encourage him to practice, and we do insist that he not play before 8:30 in the morning."

The shades of blue bath between the boys' rooms creates a quiet transition and also has an exit to the patio.

Jill, 12, likes her room with ruffles. Her canopied bed standing on sauterne carpeting has embroidered top and spread. The walls are lined with white-topped yellow cabinets above which is her private pool view.

Still young enough to treasure her stuffed animals, she wraps a fur snake around the gold rattan chair.

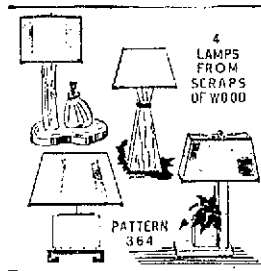

The fortunate young lady also appreciates her soft yellow dressing room and bath along with a walk-in closet.

"This home suits our family needs admirably and our only contemplated change is a small apartment when the children are grown," says Mrs. Alban.

copy as the other reporters."

At 23, he became the youngest city editor in a nationwide chain of newspapers. He held the post for one and a half years in San Pedro.

"I'd faked my way in journalism and did the same thing in the recording business in 1966 when a friend who was manager of West Coast public information for Columbia Records urged me to apply for his job."

Riney was press liaison for Mel Torme, Joannie Sommers and the Back Porch Majority until 1967 when bookings for a bluegrass group he'd organized became more promising than his Columbia position.

"We did great, were playing at The Ashgrove in Hollywood, The Penny University in San Bernardino and Hey You in Ventura. Then the draft broke us up last June," he grimaced.

"It's a rare happening when my playing brings home as much as $75 a week. I'd quit my 9-to-5 job on the spot if I could pay the rent solely by my music," said the father of two.

Does he feel his attraction for bluegrass stems from his Kentucky origins?

"Perhaps," he answered. "Actually, you don't choose the form of music you play. It chooses you. My primary purpose for getting on a stage is to entertain people. I play for them and I play for me."

Riney, who has composed bluegrass songs and is working on a TV documentary exploring the "hill music of the southern mountain regions," says it generally is performed by four to six white male musicians.

"We've taken bluegrass, which began taking shape in the early '30s, and updated it by incorporating contemporary tunes not normally associated with it."

Another innovation to the Buffalo Chip Kickers is its fiddler, Peggy Moje, daughter of Mrs. Gary Keller, 3110 Stevely Ave., Long Beach. One of the few women performers in the bluegrass field, Miss Moje is a freshman at California State College at Long Beach.

Others in the group are Pat Cloud, 17, of Artesia, two-time winner of the Topanga Canyon banjo contest; Evan Anderson of Palos Verdes Estates, mandolin; and guitarist Bob Gregory, who holds a degree in electrical engineering from UC Berkeley.

Quick to Make—Quick to Disappear

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

YEARNING for a chiffon-light pie but hesitate because it looks like too much work? Not with this light and lovely duo, one cherry, the other apple.

A cook gets lots of shelf help for these quick-to-make (even quicker to disappear) desserts. Just combine gelatine and seasonings with the ever-ready canned pie-fillings, either apple or cherry, reconstituted lemon juice, and instant nonfat dry milk, then refrigerate. Give guests a hint of the good taste to come with a crown of more cherries and apples right from the can.

APPLE CHIFFON PIE

(Makes one 9-inch pie)

- 1 (9-inch) baked pastry shell, cooled
- OR graham cracker crumb crust
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/8 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 3 cups (one 1 lb. 9 1/2 oz. can) apple pie-filling
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 (tblsp. reconstituted lemon juice
- 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk, dry form

Pour 1/4 cup cold water into electric blender container. Sprinkle gelatine over water; cover and blend briefly at low speed. Add sugar, cinnamon and boiling water to gelatine mixture. Cover; blend briefly at low speed until mixture is foamy. Reserve 1 cup apple pie-filling; pour remaining 2 cups filling into electric blender container over gelatine mixture. Cover; blend at low speed until mixture is smooth. Set aside. In a small electric mixer bowl, combine 1/2 cup cold water, lemon juice and nonfat dry milk. Beat at high speed on electric mixer about 6 minutes or until stiff. Pour apple-gelatin mixture into deep mixing bowl. Place bowl over ice water. Stir until mixture is cooled and mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Fold whipped nonfat dry milk into cooled apple-gelatin mixture. Turn into crust. Chill in refrigerator 2-3 hours, or until set. Garnish outer edge of pie with reserved apple-pie filling.

CHERRY CHIFFON PIE

COIN ROUNDUP

Medal Protests Factory Closing

By Maurice M. Gould

ONE OF THE most unusual Canadian medals is the Black Friday medal, a recent vintage.

It all started on Oct. 13, 1967, when Hawker
Siddley Corp. announced it would close the Sydney Steel Works in six months. A pall of gloom descended on the whole area since this corporation, including the Dominion Steel Co., has extensive holdings.
They are involved in mining, steel manufacturing, finishing mills and so on.

Only Jack Stephens of Sydney, Nova Scotia, knew how to fight Hawker Siddley. He came up with the Gaelic motto of the Clan MacLeod—"Hold Fast"— to be placed on tokens and medals.

When the coins were struck, Stephens contacted "The March of Concern Committee." This group was able to organize a silent, well-planned parade of concern in Sydney, with upward of 30,000 men, women and children participating. It was one of the largest protest-type parades, significant by its complete silence, with not even a whimper heard from the small children.

The obverse of the token has the legend: "Sydney, Nova Scotia, Black Friday, October 13, 1967, Canada Centennial."

The reverse reads: "October 13, 1967, the Day
Hawker Siddley Announced It Would Close the Black Friday Medal

Sydney Steel Works in Six Months. Let our Watchword be TEANN-GHILAC! (Gaelic for Hold Fast) HOLD FAST!!"

The sought-after piece is silver-dollar sized.
It is possible that this is the second protest or satirical-type token in Canadian history. The first one was the Vexator Canadensis series of 1811, also in the form of a protest.

Q—I have looked through many modern English coins and I cannot find a recent date like 1954. Is there any reason for this?

A—Yes. Only a few were made for die-testing and as far as is known there is only one piece which is outside of the mint. This is very rare and sold in the United States a couple of years ago at a high figure.

Q—I understand that the dimes minted in 1921 are scarce. Do they have much value?

A—Dimes were minted in 1921 at the Philadelphia and Denver mints. A little over a million of each were minted and they are all collectors' items.
The large premium for them is only when the coin is in exceptionally nice condition and they are especially valuable if they are in brand-new condition.

Q—What would be a good book for the beginner in coin collecting?

A—There are quite a number, but the Guide of U.S. Coins is easily obtainable and could help one get started in the right direction in collecting U.S. coins.

Q—What is the rarest Indian head cent?

A—There are several that are scarce or rare, but the 1909 issued by the San Francisco Mint, with only 309,000 minted, is a scarce item. This is also the last year of the Indian head since it was during the same year that the Lincoln head was first produced.

(To order the Coins of Special Value Booklet, send 50 cents to Maurice M. Gould, Southland Magazine, Box 4037, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.)

Arm in Arm

Q. I've heard that octopus wrestling is done in Oregon. Is this true? And if so, what is the object of the sport? S.F., Long Beach.

A. Wrestlers who dared to face the devilfish came from such areas as Oregon, Washington and Canada, but met on Titlow Beach in Tacoma, Wash., for the World Championship Octopus Grapples. With the help of Elsie De Hart, librarian for Tacoma's News Tribune, TEEN ACTION LINE learned that the last grapple was held in 1965, and 50 skin divers competed. The object of the sport is for a skin diver to search shallow areas of the ocean for an octopus in its rocky lair, wrestle the Cephalopoda arm by arm into a mesh bag and bring the creature back to shore to be weighed. In 1965, the bagged octopl ranged from 3 ounces to 89 pounds. The sport can be a dangerous one; some of the large species in the Pacific, which grow to a diameter of 28 feet across their outspread arms, have been known to injure and even kill divers. Scott Fitch, president of the Scubaneers Skin Diving Club in Tacoma, said most octopi caught at the grapples were returned to the sea. A few unusual specimens were given to local aquariums. He added that the grapples have been discontinued because of the low supply of octopi.

On the Right

Q. I have searched for a poster of William Buckley Jr. It's the only one I really want. Can TEEN ACTION LINE help me find one? D. W., Lakewood.

A. The campaign posters, put out in 1965 when Buckley ran, somewhat facetiously, for mayor of New York, are very scarce. After the election, they were sold by Buckley's magazine, the National Review. C. H. Simons of the National Review says if he "by some unlikely chance" manages to find one, he will send it to you. In the meantime, TEEN ACTION LINE is sending you a photograph of the radical conservative around which you can create your own poster. For several years, the now 42-year-old editor, millionaire, orator, yachtsman, gadfly and television interviewer has been the intellectual rallying point for the American conservatives. When asked what his first action would be if he were elected mayor of New York, Buckley replied, "I'd demand a recount."

TEENS IN ACTION

THE PIZZA is hot, the beer and soft drinks are flowing freely, and someone shouts to the musician at the upright piano, "Hey, player, give us your favorite!"

Tom Foley, perched on a beer keg, pounds out "Bring Back the Old Hurdy Gurdy" in ragtime rhythm. For Tom, 17, a junior at Anaheim's Western High School, another night of "work" has begun.

Tall, dark-haired Tom, who has played the piano since he was seven years old, spends the early evening hours of each weekend playing ragtime music at the Shakey's Pizza Parlor at 1122 Los Alamitos Blvd. in Los Alamitos, a short distance from his home at 2742 St. Albans Drive.

After taking several years of traditional piano lessons, Tom was introduced to the honky-tonk music by an elderly neighbor woman who once played dramatic piano accompaniment for silent movies. Since then, the ragtime rhythm won't let his fingers rest.

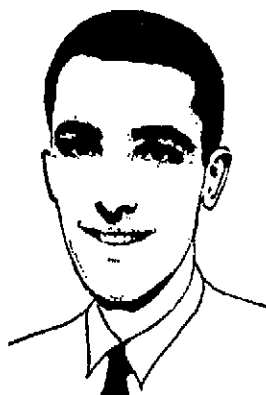

His views:

—Sometimes I feel like I'm sort of cheating my employers. After all, they're paying me to do something I really like, and I get a chance to improve my style. Occasionally, I play straight through the three hours I'm there. The only thing that gets tired is my back — there's nothing to lean on when you're sitting on a beer keg.

—My music teacher tried to shove the classics at me, and I know they have their place. But you have to play classical pieces exactly as they're written, and it becomes a little boring. With ragtime, there's the zip and freedom that music should have. I've heard people say that you can't help but feel happy when ragtime is played.

—The pianist I admire most is Jo Ann Castle of the Lawrence Welk show. She's the best ragtime player I've ever heard. Soon after I got interested in ragtime, I bought all of her records and played them on a slow speed until I figured out her rhythm and syncopation. That's the way I've learned most of my pieces. But she's got a style and sound all her own which I know I'll never approach.

—Probably the most exhausting thing about my job is playing when there aren't many people in the parlor. It's like playing to a blank wall. I like it best on Friday and Saturday nights when the room is nearly full and there's a lot of noise. Then, I really feel like playing, when I know I've got an audience and when I get requests. I've got about 60 songs memorized and I'll learn any song that seems to be popular. "Bonnie and Clyde" looks like the next one I'll try.

—Most people compliment me, or just don't take any notice. Some think I'm faking it and it's really a player piano. I never get heckled, but sometimes guys my age will want me to play something modern. They say ragtime's out of it. I just tell them I like it and the old tunes, and if it weren't for ragtime we wouldn't have jazz. I've gotten into some arguments about it after hours.

—There just aren't many ragtime piano teachers around. You just have to learn on your own, I guess. Actually, ragtime's such a personal thing, that I don't think I could teach it. I've never learned to write music well.

—When I graduate, I'm thinking of going to college to major in accounting. I'd really like to play ragtime somewhere, maybe in a club or in a show. But in case the call for ragtimers dies out, I'll have something to fall back on.

Know a teen-ager doing something interesting—someone with stimulating views? Write us about him or her. We would appreciate readers' suggestions for Teens in Action nominees.

CERAMIC TILE

Ceramic tile, once more or less confined to the bathroom, has broken the "wet area barrier." In many colors, sizes and shapes, domestic ceramic tile now lends itself to a variety of decorating ideas for virtually every room of the home.

One of the most dramatic uses of tile is the ceramic mosaic mural. Such a mural can be made from any favorite sketch or abstract design.

THEY'RE STRIPED

First multicolor fiberglass plastic panels are introduced by Klon. Called "Stripe," the translucent panels do indeed have stripes, ribs and at least two colors, as an integral part of their construction. They're intended for patio roofing.

Exciting Game of Lights

By Ellen Krec

WE HAVE come a long way from the whale oil and the wick. We do revert occasionally to the candlelight. I can't number my candlemakers among my personal friends, and I doubt that anyone actually makes his own candles personally.

Lamps have made great strides since the electric bulb first was hung on the cord from the ceiling, and lighting experts as well as lamp designers have appeared on the scene.

Some interior designers prefer indirect or the built-in lighting units, unobtrusive but placed to fit the need... high and bright in the luminous kitchen ceiling, but at the same time under-the-cupboard lighting is a distinct advantage. Frequently the luminous ceiling is also a skylight which is nice both day and night.

In the dining room the chandelier is back IN. That is if it ever was OUT. This time however with a rheostat... dimming device attached to the wall switch to raise or lower the candle-power.

Among the more exciting chandeliers are the ceiling-high crystal ones for that formal dining area. Lower, English and French country chandeliers have glass cylinders encasing the candles.

Heavy wrought iron Mexican chandeliers are slightly primitive or more delicate, both in color and design. Italian lights are inexpensive and blend well with Mediterranean decor.

DEPENDING on personal taste in decorating, the light above the table could be Scandinavian in geometric slivers of white plastic and wood. Better still, a pleated shade or solid glass globe on a stainless steel tube. If you have a larger table, just use two or three. You might enjoy them in a group, sort of high low or in a regular line with the table. A sharply rectangular table would take the line-up very well while a circular table would adjust to the group. These would be an excellent choice with Nordic contemporary.

Oriental is delightful and delightfully reasonable. Rice paper globes, squat or round, may be your inexpensive answer. Or if you like color, look for the Tiffany print paper shade.

For your Victorian or antique-related room, check the antique shops for Tiffany shades, signed or unsigned. I understand the butterfly shade is most sought after. You may drop them from the ceiling or you may use them as table lamps. Actually these aren't too bad with whimsical contemporary furnishings.

You also may buy a frame and make your own. The frames are easily purchased locally, and from there on it's easy. Just cut a rectangle of fabric that will fit the circumference of the shade. Seam it to fit at the bottom. Allow a hem at the bottom for the drawstring. The top should be gathered, leaving about two inches of ruffle. The drawstring at the bottom should turn under about one inch and the gathering will be under the shade.

This may be dropped from a chain over a bulb. If you dislike bare bulbs, add a small globe to cover it.

This is particularly effective if the fabric matches something, such as the wallpaper or curtains. The shade is best in the kitchen or an informal room.

REMINDS ME of the years I spent learning how to make lampshades. I made up a veritable storm of lampshades for family and friends only to realize my lampshade education as well as the lampshades are obsolete.

If you're madly mod, you could consider the black and white geometric glass cylinders.

You may expect the Maharishi influence in lights before too long. Some brass lotus lights, etched globes and tubes of brass with cylinders of colored glass. Interesting arrangements of the tubes depend on where you use them. An elliptical group might be exciting in a stair well following the curve of the balustrade.

If your rooms run to the mysterious Near Eastern pad, this may be for you. A little incense could add immeasurably to the atmosphere.

Perhaps you are just in the mood for a change and the thought has occurred to you lamp styles have changed and what should I buy to go with what?

Tole lamps are back with us and are fine with provincial decor good in dens or children's rooms. This time around the colors are bright and clear and not necessarily antiqued.

Wood is good. Heavily carved bases from sculpture to cathedral candles are handsome and "just right" with Mediterranean furnishings. Beware of the plaster—that looks like wood lamp. It chips!

For a slightly more formal room, ginger jars in any color form the base. The newest in lamp shades is the flared accordion-pleated parchment. Actually it isn't new at all, just returned! These are best on a plump base although I did see an extension wall lamp, made in Denmark, with this type of shade.

Still with us are the chain lamps, but the shades are something else. The something else this time is fine cord developed into airy shapes.

In case you have tendency to regress... the newest bulb on a cord is an oversized version of the original Edison model!

Choosing Chandelier

MOST chandeliers fit into a 22-inch to 27-inch category. If you are in doubt as to which size to use, this may help.

The 22-inch lighting fixture will fit admirably in a dinette above a small table or 9-by-12 rooms.

The 27-inch fixture is best with the 12-by-15-foot room, above a larger dining table.

When in doubt choose a smaller one, it is better than an overpowering one.

A chandelier should hang slightly above eye level when you are seated.

When there is no table underneath, hang a chandelier at least 6 feet, 4 inches or higher if possible.

What's Your Question on Decorating?

By RICHARD JOHNSON

Member, American Institute of Interior Designers

Do you have a question on decorating? For an answer by a member of the American Institute of Interior Designers, send it to Interior Design Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

Q. I have an antique dining room set but a contemporary home. How can I give the room a traditional flavor without using wallpaper or heavy draperies?

A. Divide the wall surfaces into panels by gluing or nailing simple mouldings to the wall. Use them as a chair rail around the room 30 to 34 inches from the floor. Divide the area above into rectangular panels having the same size border on all four sides. The mouldings can be painted the same color as the wall or in a contrasting color.

Q. I have a large kitchen and breakfast area with white appliances and cupboards and a white textured floor. The room has very little wall space due to doors and windows and built-ins. How can I give the room some color?

A. Cover your ceiling and some of the larger wall areas in a very bright multicolored vinyl wall covering with a white background, using matching fabric for curtains. In the breakfast area use a large throw rug with the same colors.

Q. We are furnishing our first home and wish to have a traditional feeling, but our wood pieces in the living room are very simple modern. Can these be used?

A. Use them with traditional, ornate accessories. If the wood is too light, use black wax to mellow them. A contrast in furnishings can be pleasing, and is preferable to a "matched" look.

Q. I have small windows on either side of a fireplace. I do not want to close them off. What would be the best treatment?

A. Cover windows with vertical louver shutters painted to match walls. Use as large panels as you can to avoid a busy, eye-catching effect.

Fun of Paddle-Wheeling

By Steve Ellingson

Unsinkable Mallard

WHEN it comes to water, it's pretty hard to beat the ducks. And—when it comes to fun, the paddle-wheeling mallard shown here is absolutely tops.

It has many benefits ... it's easier and far more comfortable than riding a bicycle. It's rugged and unsinkable, consequently unbeatable as an invigorating and healthful water sport for all members of the family.

As you glide over the water, you'll discover its smooth pedal action, its delightful buoyancy and its amazing stability. With it you can pedal over waters too shallow for conventional boats.

Handy for fishing too, because you can use it in the inaccessible backwaters. You couldn't find an easier way to combine healthy exercise with enjoyment. The maneuverability is so simple that even small youngsters can operate it. To reverse your direction, you need only pedal backwards. The tiller-rudder arrangement makes for effortless steering.

If you happen to be a resort owner or concessionaire, you'll want a whole flock of these ducks to brighten both your resort and your bank account. They make excellent rentals. If you don't like ducks, the same plan shows how to make this into a whale.

Construction of this paddle-wheeler is not difficult. It's as easy on the home carpenter as it is on the pocketbook. The plan takes all the guess-work out of building. A list of needed materials along with easy-to-understand directions and illustrations comes with each plan.

To obtain the paddle duck pattern number 440, send $1 (add 25 cents per pattern for air mail delivery).

The Acidulous Waugh

BETWEEN Waugh and the dean of his college at Oxford there was an implacable dislike. The dean's name was Crutwell.

Evelyn's elder brother Alec, a novelist (and autobiographer) of no mean talent himself, tells of that awesome antagonism in his new book of reminiscences "My Brother Evelyn and Other Portraits" (Farrar, Straus and Giroux, $8.95).

"Evelyn wrote at length about Crutwell in 'A Little Learning' (his unfinished autobiography) and his attack provoked in the public press a burst of epistolary shrapnel from pupils who had different experiences of the Dean."

Alec, never the acidulous man that Evelyn was, has these kind words for the dean of Hertford College: "No man could reach and hold such a position as Crutwell did without having considerable merits."

"The dislike between Evelyn and himself," says Alec, "was mutual, instinctive and as irrational as love. They hated one another. How Crutwell must have enjoyed writing the letter announcing Evelyn's third and the loss of his scholarship."

Throughout his writing career the master satirist pursued Crutwell relentlessly. "If in a novel there is a dreary character who can always be asked to dinner at the last moment, it is a Captain Crutwell." A phony Indian army officer selling tropical equipment in a department store is Brigadier Crutwell. His story of a lunatic who is permitted an afternoon's holiday from the asylum and strangles a girl on a bicycle, Evelyn wanted to call "Mr. Crutwell's Little Outing." It appeared as "Mr. Loveday's Little Outing."

The reader of these witty memoirs will naturally turn first to Alec Waugh's warm memories of his brilliant brother, but the book is brim full of others well worth knowing the Waugh's cousin Edmund Gosse; the soldier poets of World War I—Robert Graves, Robert Nichols, Siegfried Sassoon, Richard Aldington; Alec's fellow prisoners of war at Malin, Hugh Kingsmill and the translator Gerard Hopkins, among them; Hugh Walpole and Frank Swinnerton; Michael Arlen (one of the rages of the 20s—who has read him to these many years?)—and his father Arthur Waugh, in his day famous as publisher and editor.

One awaits more of Alec Waugh's memoirs.

"Evelyn Waugh: Portrait of a Country Neighbor," by Frances Donaldson (Chilton, $4) deals with Evelyn Waugh as a family man, good friend, and rural neighbor. Frances and Jack Donaldson (her father was the playwright Frederick Lonsdale, whose biography she has written) lived beside Waugh in amity and in occasional quarrel for a long time. "He used ruefully to refer to us as 'My only friends,'" she writes.

"It was full of contradictions," Mrs. Donaldson recalls, "but the strangest of all was that, in spite of the accidie and the boredom, he had such enormous zest."

And Try Not to Miss...

MODERN BRITISH DRAMATISTS. Edited by John Russell Brown. Prentice-Hall, $4.95 clothbound, $1.95 paperback.

The remarkable renaissance in the British theater of today is examined by a dozen distinguished theater critics. A. E. Dyson, Robert Brustein, and Raymond Williams are among the commentators in this volume of Prentice-Hall's Twentieth Century Views series. Harold Pinter, Arnold Wesker, John Arden and their fellows are no mere sensationalists, the contributors say, but pioneers in a modern theater of great brilliance and originality.

TUNC. By Lawrence Durrell. Dutton, $6.95.

Durrell's first novel since Clea, last volume of his "Alexandria Quartet" in 1960. A sensual and enigmatic story, narrated by the scientist Felix Charlock, who has created Abel, a gigantic memory bank in the form of a computer with total recall and an ability to predict. Felix and his inventions are taken over by an international holding corporation. Athens, Istanbul and London are the settings for the novel, which again displays Durrell's genius with words.

Art of Satire

HOGARTH TO CRUIKSHANK: Social Change in Graphic Satire. By M. Dorothy George. Walker, $20.

The 18th century was the golden age of the engraver, M. Dorothy George points out, because satirical prints, political and social, enjoyed a great vogue. In those days before illustrated journalism and magazines like Punch had arrived, prints were engraved and sold separately.

"Caricature shops had a popularity of their own. Their prints were virtually the only pictorial rendering of the flow of events, moods and fashions. Especially, they reflect the social attitudes of the day."

"It was a malicious world," and the satirists of the pen—Pope, Swift, Gay, Fielding, Churchill among them—made themselves both feared and admired by their wit and ridicule. Hogarth's famous sequences gave satire a graphic form to match the brilliance of the literary satirists. The work of Rowlandson, the Cruikshanks and Gillray are of equal brilliance.

M. Dorothy George's study takes the art of graphic satire in England from 1720 to 1830, and the text, absolutely first rate in its authority and in its sprightliness, is enhanced by some 200 illustrations, with 12 pages in color, of the best work of the time.

Here is Hogarth devastatingly expressing himself through his art, on the church and the universities, on the professions of medicine and the law, on travel, on art and letters, and immortalizing the London scene, its ordinary people, its prostitutes, soldiers and sailors.

And here too, those other greats, Rowlandson, Gillray, Cruikshank depict life around them, as do many lesser, but vastly interesting artists.—N.H.

North Viet Plans

"BIG VICTORY GREAT TASK." By Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap. Praeger, $4.50.

To know what is in the minds of the North Vietnamese leaders, it is far better to go to their own writings than to accept interpretations by those to whom every vague statement by a second-line Hanoi functionary brings the certainty that the White House has but to say the word and there will be peace talks.

Praeger performs a most useful service in making available the assessment of the war in Viet Nam by Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the Communist military leader who made a fool of the French and thinks, no doubt, that he is making a fool of the Americans. Gen. Giap's words were meant for Communist cadres, military and political, inside North Viet Nam itself.

Are the Viet Cong and the National Liberation Front merely simon-pure nationalist patriots, independent, and interested only in defending the integrity of South Viet Nam, as their American sympathizers say? Gen. Giap, North Viet Nam's minister of defense, a member of the highest committees of its Communist Party, does not agree. "The objective of our southern compatriots' resistance war," he declares, "is to liberate the south, defend the north..."

"Protracted resistance," he writes, "is an essential strategy of a country which is not large," thus making plain that he considered a long war the best way to Communist victory.

He is profoundly grateful to those who have demonstrated and actively fought, in the United States, against the U.S. role in the war. "Our people highly appreciate the struggle of the American people against the aggressive Viet Nam war of the Johnson administration."—N.H.

BOOKS IN BRIEF

OCEAN TO OCEAN. Sandford Fleming's Expedition Through Canada in 1872. By Rev. George M. Grant. Tuttle, $3.95.

Scotsman Sandford Fleming, civil engineer and surveyor, traveled the thousands of miles up the St. Lawrence, on big lakes and innumerable small ones, through woods and over mountain ranges, from ocean to ocean in 1872 in seeking a path for a transcontinental railroad. Rev. George M. Grant, a Presbyterian minister, was the expedition's secretary, and his account of it should be ranked among the best of its kind, with its descriptions of breathtaking views from the Canadian Rockies and other beauties of nature.

THE MOTHER SEA. By Dominique Fernandez. Hill and Wang, $5.95.

A French novelist who knows his Italy well enough to have also written a book about the Mafia in that country writes of his travels in southern Italy, Sicily and Sardinia, with Naples as his starting point. Among the most fascinating sections of the book is that on Giuliano, the Sicilian bandit, whom legend has made into a Robin Hood.

Holy Dogs, Most Loved Cats

By Eleanor Avery Price

Reene's David is first generation Exotic Short Hair Silver, owned by Irene Laffoon.

TWO BIG events are on tap today. One is Cat Fanciers Association Western Regional show at 8520 Stanton Blvd., Buena Park. The other is Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club's unbentched show at La Palma Park, Anaheim.

Among cats will be the new Exotic Shorthair and the Household Pet. Among dogs will be rare ones such as the Shih Tzu.

INSTANT CAT:

Usually it takes generations of breeding to produce a new kind of cat. But a person can breed a purebred Persian to a purebred American Domestic, and presto, part of the litter will be the new Exotic Shorthair, or a cat with Persian conformation and a short plush coat, a truly exquisite feline accepted by the Cat Fanciers Association.

If coloring isn't just what you want, you breed until you get it. But the fact remains, the Exotic Shorthair is started at the moment of breeding Persian to Domestic.

MOST LOVED CAT:

Despite all the fuss, most people have "alley cats", only they are distinguished at cat shows as Household Pets. And in this they have dog shows beat. Who ever heard of a class for Household Dogs at dog shows?

HOLY DOG:

One little dog trying to make a place in the Western world is the toy Shih Tzu, a descendant from ancient holy dogs of the East used by Buddhists for religious rites.

Eventually the breed was well established in China after a few specimens were given as tribute to the Chinese Emperor from the Silver Nymph's Top Secret is a true-to-type, top-knotted Shih Tzu, toy dog owned by Marci-Len Minash.

Dalai Lama of Tibet. In China, the Shih Tzu was called "Tibetan Lion Dog," a name also claimed by fanciers of Lhasa Apsos. For that matter, the Pekingese fanciers call their dog "Lion Dog."

They do have some things in common. All three are proud in bearing and independent although affectionate.

The Shih Tzu is quite quaint, and he can sit as still as a small Buddha, contemplating his lot, then suddenly burst into play.

LAW DAY, U.S.A.

class students visit our courthouse on eight or nine different days throughout the year. During these tours students see actual court trials, see the various clerk's offices in operation, and get an hour's cameo view of the entire courthouse facility at 415 W. Ocean Blvd. Each year a new student group visits, but all the youths seem to be most impressed with (a) courtroom trials and (b) the complex workings of the Traffic Clerk's office of the Long Beach Municipal Court. It is in this latter office that they will someday, as adults, be paying their traffic tickets!

When Law Day 1968 draws to a close, plans for next year's event will have already begun to be formulated in the American Bar Association offices. During the intervening year, however, the idea of Law Day should remain to serve as a guide for all of us in our daily living: "Only a lawful society can build a better society." It is not just a one-day theme for Law Day, but should remain the theme for Americans for all the years to come. "Justice" by force moulders quickly to dust when the force of arms and oppression is gone. Hitler's Germany is the most recent tragic example of this truth. Since mob rule and change by violence has never in the annals of history built a "better society," then we cannot expect the nation to progress any further until Law again replaces Riot as our means to the end of building that better society.

Alexi Fedorsky, exiled to outer Siberia, would gladly trade places with you. Too late for him, his own nation began finding out (and is still finding out) that it is not blood purges and secret police that provide the solid foundation of society, but, rather, internal peace and intelligent planning.

Coughs, Fear May Kill Babies in Their Cribs

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Editor

ONE CHILD in every 400 dies suddenly and mysteriously in his crib.

Several theories as to the cause of crib deaths have been proposed. Two of the most popular: overwhelming virus infection, allergy to cow's milk.

Now a new theory has been offered: It may be that a sneeze or a cough by baby will lead to a lethal heart rhythm. Or, goes the theory, profound fear, a sensation many babies are likely to experience during the night, may touch off an abnormal heart rhythm.

One study, that of 162 crib deaths in Northern Ireland, shows that most of the deaths occurred between midnight and breakfast time and that boys and girls were equally affected.

The report is in Modern Medicine.

CHILDREN'S teeth that have been accidentally knocked out can often be re-inserted, a number of researchers have reported recently.

In addition, one dentist says that teeth that need reconditioning can sometimes be pulled, repaired and replaced.

In a report to the New York State Dental Society, a professor of oral medicine at University of Pennsylvania School of Dentistry stated: "Today seriously infected teeth are being saved by treating them while they are out of the mouth."

Meanwhile, an oral surgeon predicts that humans may one day be able to have defective teeth replaced with healthy substitutes from "toothbanks."

Needed to make the idea workable: better methods for long-term preservation and storage of teeth.

PATIENTS with the triple trouble of bronchial asthma, nasal polyps and hypersensitivity to aspirin have a severe form of asthma.

So report two doctors in Annals of Allergy. This type of asthma often does not respond to medication. Surgical removal of the nasal polyps appears often to make matters worse. Patients with these three medical problems have a poor outlook.

GLASGOW, Scotland, is thought to be the worst place in the world for lung cancer.

At last count — in 1964 — one in every 10 male deaths in Glasgow was attributable to lung cancer.

Provisional figures for subsequent years indicate the same incidence.

In the older age groups, the figures are higher. Among men over 35 the death rate from lung cancer is 12 per cent. Among those between 45 and 64 it is 16 per cent.

Cigarette smoking is thought to be the main cause although air pollution is thought to be partly responsible.

DOCTORS at the Student Health Service at UCLA say there appears to be no such thing as a minor motorcycle accident.

Their conclusion is based on the number of days the motorcycle accident victim spends in the hospital. Motorcycle-injured students are confined to the hospital longer than those injured by automobiles, a new study shows.

The study shows that it is 16 times more dangerous to ride a motorcycle than to ride in an automobile.

The report is in the Journal on the American Medical Association.

AN ARMY doctor says the helicopter ambulance can do a good job in picking up civilian patients either in an isolated rural area or in a large metropolitan district.

"The helicopter is an efficient obstacle-crosser, including distance, natural barriers and traffic," says Col. Spurgeon N. Neel Jr., MC, USA, of the office of the Army surgeon general.

The cost is acceptable relative to the benefits to be derived, he says.

AN EYE-DROP form of the drug guanethidine can often benefit persons with eye trouble stemming from a thyroid condition.

Two Edinburgh researchers say the drug also helps persons with unexplained eyelid retraction.

Guanethidine is ordinarily taken by mouth for the treatment of high blood pressure. . . Nine of 10 eye patients who complained of troublesome "grittiness" reported they experienced great improvement or complete disappearance of eye symptoms after guanethidine treatment.

The drug did display a side reaction in some patients, however. Ten persons experienced a superficial inflammation of the cornea.

The report is in British Medical Journal.

OBSESSIVE-COMPULSIVE traits tend to occur mainly in men who are either firstborn or an only child, according to a report in Archives of General Psychiatry.

Possible reasons: Concentrated exposure to parents, without modifying influence of brothers and sisters.

The importance that parents place on achievement, especially for a firstborn son.

Relative inexperience of parents with their first child.

THE WAITRESS comes into the spacious dining room looking as if she's ready to fight a duel in Dante's "Inferno." Her equipment consists of a sword, liqueur and a match or two.

Fascinated by all the preparations, the guests watch with drawn breaths as she raises the sword to the en garde position. She strikes a match and touches it to the chunks of tender lamb and mushrooms skewered by the steel. Voila! The lamb and mushrooms (lightly coated with brandy) burst into flame. They are permitted to flare only briefly, because too much liqueur and flame can damage the delicate flavors of the lamb, marinated beforehand in exotic herbs. A few seconds of flame, however, add a delightful savoriness to the combination.

Many restaurants charge a fortune for flaming dishes because of the time and care involved. A few absorb the extra expense themselves. One of these is Rochelle's Restaurant, 3333 Lakewood Blvd., Long Beach, a beautiful, fashionable establishment owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rochelle and Mel Keleman. Their flaming shishkebab is $3.95 on an epicurean dinner which starts with a generous, colorful antipasto and includes mixed green salad or fresh soup, rice pilaf, hot breads, coffee or Darjeeling tea.

Other entrees on Rochelle's international menu include coc au vin (plumb young fowl simmered in wine); veal parmigiano with spaghetti, roast sauerbraten of beef, breast of chicken cordon bleu, beef Stroganoff, and bocadillos al pescador, a combination of succulent shellfish marinated with white wine and herbs. They are priced from $2.95 to $3.95. The restaurant also features elegant broiled steaks, lobster, boneless rainbow trout, king crab and other sea foods.

LORRAINE MCDUFFIE
Flaming Shishkebab

Caricature by Pete Willatte

Chief hostess and dining room manager at Rochelle's is Lorraine McDuffie, a stunning brunette who has been on the staff since the restaurant opened in November 1964. She is 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 110 pounds and looks far too young to be the mother of two grown sons. One is stationed with the Army in Germany, the other is a college student. Lorraine is on duty every day except Sunday, greeting guests during the luncheon hours and occasionally during the dinner hours.

Open every day, Rochelle's is one of the city's largest restaurants. It has banquet facilities for hundreds of guests.

A. Probably to Dean Rusk. The President and Rusk have the same roots. Both spring from small Southern towns. Both were born into poor but honest families. Both are self-made successes. Rusk's father was a Georgia preacher turned mailman. Johnson's father, Sam, was a Texas tenant farmer. Rusk and the President enjoy a consciousness of kind. When they talk among themselves, their conversation is sprinkled liberally with the Southernisms of their youth. And both, of course, agree on the conduct of the war in Vietnam. Another Cabinet member Johnson feels close to is Clark Clifford, his Defense Secretary.

THE LENNON SISTERS: ON THE MOVE.

Q. Are the Lennon Sisters leaving the Lawrence Welk show because of a fight with Welk?—Marie Power, Interlaken, N.Y.

A. The Lennon Sisters will appear on the Welk show once a month. They have decided to do more on their own, will also work Las Vegas, the Ed Sullivan and Jackie Gleason programs, play theatres, fairs, etc. They have had no fight with Welk, are still grateful to his son, Larry Jr., for discovering them in 1955 when they ranged in age from 11 to 16.

Q. How old is Mae West? Was she ever in love with Jayne Mansfield's ex-husband, Mickey Hargitay?—Carl Emerson, Knoxville, Tenn.

A. Mae West is at least 75. Hargitay at one time was a muscle man in her variety act.

Q. I understand that in the residential boroughs of Kensington and Chelsea in London, one-fifth of all the babies are illegitimate. Is this so?—Eleanor Grant, Akron, Ohio.

A. The illegitimacy rate in those two boroughs is 201 per 1000, the highest in England.

NICHOLAS KATZENBACH: HE SPURRED SENATOR MCCARTHY.

Q. I have been told that if it had not been for Nicholas Katzenbach, now in the State Department, Sen. Eugene McCarthy would never have run against President Johnson. Is this so? Is Katzenbach behind McCarthy? I thought he was a Johnson man.—F.E.L., Newark, N.J.

A. Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach provided the straw which broke the camel's back. Last August he appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of which McCarthy is a member. Katzenbach was loud and imprudent, testified that President Johnson needed no declaration of war to conduct the war in Vietnam, that the Gulf of Tonkin resolution had given him a functional equivalent of a war declaration.

McCarthy, who is basically a low-key personality, was so outraged by Katzenbach's manner and statement that he said, "This is the wildest testimony I ever heard. There is only one thing to do—take it to the country." And he has.

Q. Is it true that the army of South Vietnam is riddled with Viet Cong sympathizers and agents who tip off the enemy on what American troops plan to do?—R. H. Washington, D.C.

A. Beverly Deepe, war correspondent for The Christian Science Monitor, one of the most respected newspapers in the nation, writes of the South Vietnamese units: "In the case of a regular Vietnamese army battalion, for example, Vietnamese officers acknowledge that an estimated 10% of their troop strength are either Communist sympathizers or intelligence agents. Some official estimates of the special forces units run as high as 25% Communist penetration."

Q. I understand that the Warren Report on the assassination of President Kennedy is filled with many errors and contradictions. I am told the leading contradiction involves the bullet wounds. Can you explain this so that it makes sense?—Henry Wales, Hempstead, N.Y.

A. The Warren Commission Report concludes that three shots were fired at the late President but that only two bullets caused all the wounds suffered by both President Kennedy and Governor Connally. Several forensic pathologists doubt this. One basic contradiction involves the bullet hole in the front of the President's neck. At one point the report refers to this bullet hole as a wound of entrance, at another as a wound of exit. The physicians at Parkland Memorial hospital in Dallas interpreted the wound as one of entrance. The Navy physicians who performed the autopsy interpreted it as a wound of exit. This has given rise to a whole series of suppositions and conjectures on who fired what from where.

Had the physicians been more experienced in forensic pathology, perhaps there would have been no doubt as to which wounds were caused by bullet entry and exit. Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy as the widow, was given two choices as to where the autopsy should be performed: the Army's Walter Reed Hospital or the Naval Medical School in Bethesda, Md. Since her husband had served in the Navy, she chose the Naval Medical School whose pathologists performed what is now considered a controversial autopsy, which in turn is responsible for the controversial Warren Report.

POLLS AND POLLSTERS— AND HOW THEY WORK

by Lloyd Shearer

Sooner or later any attractive pollster gets asked for her telephone number. Veteran pollsters take this in their stride, generally get their questionnaires politely answered.

*N*o politician in his right mind today would think of running for a major office without first hiring a public opinion pollster.

To the ambitious hopefuls battling it out in pre-nomination fights and pre-election campaigns, the political poll has become the sine qua non, the indispensable determinant, the absolute necessity.

One of the reasons President Lyndon Johnson decided on March 31 not to run for reelection was the Gallup Poll of the same date which revealed that 52 percent of the sampling did not approve of the way he was handling the presidency, and 63 percent did not approve of the way he was handling the situation in Vietnam.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York decided not to run against Richard Nixon in the current Republican presidential primaries only after a private poll revealed that he would lose to Nixon by at least 9 percent in the all-important primary in Oregon, a state once regarded as "sure Rockefeller country."

Sen. Robert Kennedy of New York waited for the results of a private poll in California before he decided to take on President Lyndon Johnson. The poll revealed that 35 percent of the Democrats in California would vote for him, 34 percent would vote for Johnson, 17 percent would vote for McCarthy in the primary, and the remainder were undecided.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, pulled out of the New Hampshire primary when another poll revealed that Nixon would swamp him, that his race for the presidential nomination on the Republican ticket would prove expensively hopeless.

POWER OF POLLS

"To tell you the truth," one probable candidate for the U.S. Senate recently exaggerated, "I've gotten so darn dependent on my pollster that I even check him now before I go to the men's room."

The power of public opinion polls has mounted sharply in recent years, because politicians have come to realize that the most vital ingredient of a successful campaign is accurate and thorough research. And the best way to obtain it is to hire such reliable public opinion specialists as John F. Kraft of New York, Don Muchmore of Los Angeles, Joe Napolitan of Springfield, Mass., Archibald Crossley of Princeton, N.J., Fred Currier of Detroit, Lou Harris of Washington, D.C., Oliver Quayle, and many others whose polling organizations over the years have established outstanding records for accuracy and analysis.

What pollsters provide their clients with is valuable statistical information and in many cases, advice based on their public probings. Don Muchmore of Opinion Research of California advised Pierre Salinger, running for the U.S. Senate a few years ago, to stop smoking cigars in public, to concentrate in talks on his California childhood to counteract a carpetbagger image, then finally predicted that Salinger would be defeated by George Murphy, because Murphy was projecting a better image.

Analysts of Opinion Research Corporation who worked for Edward W. Brooke, the Negro Attorney General of Massachusetts in his 1966 bid for the U.S. Senate, said flatly that his avoidance of the race issue in Massachusetts was hurting his campaign. Brooke agreed to change tactics, to speak out as a moderate on the issue, and won the election.

Pollster John F. Kraft once advised a U.S. Senator to do an about-face on foreign aid if he wanted re-election. Joseph Napolitan told a 1966 client, Democratic Congressman Henry Helstoski, that he'd best alter his stance on Vietnam bombing. Helstoski did, and squeaked through to victory.

SAMPLINGS ARE CORRECT

While polling is still an inexact science, politicians heed pollsters, because these men have proven that almost always their samplings are correct within a margin of two to three percentage points, although on one or two occasions, such as the Truman-Dewey presidential race of 1948, they all goofed badly.

The Gallup Poll, probably the best known in the nation, is conducted by interviewing 1500 persons in approximately 320 election precincts. The persons interviewed are selected to provide a probability sample at the block level in urban areas and in township segments in rural areas.

In designing the sample, Gallup first stratifies the nation geographically and by size of community so that his sampling conforms with the Census Bureau's distribution of the adult population.

"The important thing," he says, "is to see that every adult American has an equal chance of being interviewed. It's as if we put the names of all the nation's potential voters in one large hat and then drew out enough names. The random sampling we use of about 1500 people in political polls is sufficient to give us the accuracy that can be expected under the laws of probability.

"If we interviewed 15,000 or 15 million, we'd probably cut down the margin of error, but not by very much."

The laws of probability were first worked out by Jacques Bernoulli, a Swiss mathematician, whose theory of probability was published posthumously in 1713 in a work entitled Ars Conjectandi.

In a simple example, if you filled a barrel with 1000 beans, half of which were black and half of which were white, and then took out samplings of 100 beans, some of these samplings would show ratios of 50-50, 41-59, 45-55, and some even 40 white beans as opposed to 60 black beans and vice versa. But out of 1000 such samplings, only 3 would show a black and white division varying more than 15 percent of the true proportion in the barrel.

To narrow their chances of error, Gallup, Harris, Roper, Muchmore, Crossley, all the leading pollsters frequently double and triple-check their samplings. Their interviewers are given no choice concerning the district in the city or county where they question people. They are simply given maps of the polling areas to which they are assigned and told where to start—never at the corner house on any block, since the owners of the corner house are generally considered to be more affluent than the home-owners on the rest of the block—and in which direction to proceed.

Interviewers are well-trained and generally paid anywhere from $2 to $4 per hour, depending upon the job and their experience. About 65 percent are female; most have had some college education and boast pleasant personalities.

Joan Case of Long Beach, Calif., a veteran pollster for the four Muchmore polling organizations in California, says that most Americans nowadays, especially in an election year, are poll-conscious, don't mind being polled, are generally friendly and responsive.

"Years ago," she recalls, "we had about 5 percent rejectees, people who simply slammed the door on you or refused to talk. Now it's down to 2 percent and even less. Very few people turn me down, because I like people and I make an honest effort to establish a quick rapport with them.

"Our questionnaires," she explains, "are designed so that we can warm up the respondent gradually, ease our way into the major questions. I find that the people who are least responsive are usually women between the ages of 45 and 60 who've had little education. They really don't know how to answer the questions, but they don't want to show it. They don't want to say, 'I don't know.' Or 'My husband usually makes all these decisions for me.' So to make them feel at ease, I change the subject, talk about children. I have four of my own, so I'm tuned into that subject. And then I gradually veer back to the questionnaire.

"The most difficult part of the job is staying objective. I try to emphasize to our interviewers that we are essentially recorders and that's all. We don't create public opinion, we just reflect it."

Bonnie Griffith, 22, a graduate of Whittier College and typical of today's attractive, educated interviewers, says, "I constantly run into people who, when I ask a question, counter with, 'What do you think?' I tell them that we are not allowed to express our opinion in any way because then we're not sampling public opinion, we're creating it.

"If they persist," she continues, "I say, 'After the interview is over, I'll be real happy to discuss it with you. But right now all I am supposed to be is a recorder. If I start answering your questions, then I'm no longer a recorder. So let's get through with this questionnaire and then I'll be real glad to talk it over with you.'"

ATTRACTIVE WORKERS

How dangerous is polling, especially for the young attractive female? Says Joan Case who's trained hundreds of young women in the past dozen years: "There has been no instance in which any of our girls has been physically attacked. There have been approaches, but the girls have always been able to talk their way out.

"If you're going to be a doorbell-ringer, which is what we are in this business, you've got to expect that sort of thing. If you're the least bit good-looking, there's going to be some guy who asks for your telephone number, or who says, 'How about it, baby?' You just take that in stride, or if it gets real rough, you walk out. I remember one time several years ago, I rang a doorbell, and when the man came to the door I introduced myself in my bright, sunny open way and asked if he'd mind answering a few questions.

'Not at all,' he said, 'providing you ask them in bed.' I got out of there in a hurry.

"Our girls work in teams. One is always nearby and then, too, the supervisor is not far off. So it's really not dangerous at all. It's really a fascinating job, because you come into contact with all types of people, and after a while they fit into patterns. For example, the Mexican-American communities within California tend to be more liberal in their politics than the non-Mexican-American communities. There are sub-groups in other counties which form a sort of Protestant Bible Belt. These people tend to be rigidly conservative in both their political philosophy and their religious behavior.

"In the early days of polling, there was a tendency of people to give the answer they thought the interviewer wanted, but nowadays people are more honest, especially when they've been reassured that no one will ever identify them or their opinions. A few years ago we conducted a rather lengthy series of in-depth interviews trying to reach basic prejudices of people. We asked such provocative questions as 'Would you shop in a grocery store with a Negro? Would you work next to a Negro? Would you send your children to the same school? Would you let your children marry, etc.' and we noted that people gave what they thought was the polite or acceptable answer until we got down to the guts of the matter, and then they admitted their prejudices. Yes, people are honest in private, honest with themselves when they get into the polling booth, and that's why we were able to accurately reflect how they would vote on the open housing proposition which was then in contention."

Polling organizations charge their clients from $7 to $10 per interview, with candidates paying as much as $12,000 to $15,000 for a statewide poll. Surveys are not cheap by any means, but they are effective when reliable, because the candidate is able through them to keep pace with his public. He can pretest his campaign strategy, alter its direction, learn of his strengths and weaknesses and conduct himself accordingly.

Had Richard Nixon, for example, concentrated his shot in the 1960 presidential election in three key states: Illinois where he got 49.8 percent of the vote, Michigan where he got 48.8 percent and New York where he got 47.3 percent—instead of diffusing it by visiting all 50 as he had promised in a campaign speech, he might well have defeated John F. Kennedy.

How good are the polls you read in your newspapers? The answer is very good, because they are conducted scientifically by reliable organizations such as Gallup, Lou Harris, and others of that high standard.

The chief weakness of the published public opinion poll, however, lies in the inability of the average reader to realize that the results are the results of the moment, that the poll is always behind the publishing date, that poll results must be read carefully, that they represent the then mood of the public, that frequently the "undecided" percentage is more important than the percentage of respondents who have reached a decision.

For example, two weeks before President Johnson called it quits, one poll reported that 44 percent of its Democratic respondents preferred Bobby Kennedy for President, 41 percent were in favor of Lyndon Johnson, and the rest undecided. Obviously the 15 percent of the "undecided" represented the key vote at that particular time.

Another poll showed Nixon with 41 percent of the vote, Johnson with 39 percent, Wallace with 14 percent, and 6 percent undecided. Again, any sophisticated understanding of the poll would lead to the realization that a relative handful of voters would call the decisive tune, not that Nixon was an easy victor.

PRIVATE POLLS CAN MISLEAD

Private polls, of course, can be used to mislead the public. This past November friends of President Johnson led by Arthur Krim, head of the President's Club which consists of businessmen and others who contribute $1000 or more to the Democratic Party, hired veteran pollster Archibald Crossley to poll a traditionally Democratic county in New Hampshire. The White House then leaked to various reporters results of their "confidential poll" which showed that Johnson was more popular in New Hampshire than his Republican rivals, which was contrary to what was published in the Gallup and Harris surveys.

The newsmen were not told, however, that the Johnson survey had been taken in a Democratic county, and it wasn't until Crossley blew the whistle on the White House that the attempt at distortion was revealed.

Pollsters have also been accused of causing a "bandwagon effect," by influencing people to vote for the candidate supposedly leading on Election Day, but they deny it. The pollsters maintain that voters, especially this year, will make their own Election-Day judgment on the basis of their own desires and assessments, that they are not in the mood to follow politicians or polls blindly.

What people should remember is that even the best conducted polls can be wrong by 2.6 percent, so that when the poll results get that close, the outcome at best will be a tossup. That was precisely the situation in 1960 when John F. Kennedy beat Richard Nixon by about one percentage point of the popular vote.

This year the nation may well stage a similar cliff-hanger. At this writing it sure looks like that.

Stuffed Cabbage

by Beth Merriman
PARADE FOOD EDITOR

Almost every part of the world has its own favorite version of stuffed cabbage rolls. No wonder, because this is a hearty, savory dish that is easy on the budget and knows no season. This recipe borrows some tips from Hungarian cuisine, but in most respects it is deliciously ours. Served with buttered noodles enhanced with poppy seed and crisp croutons, stuffed cabbage rolls are a meal in a dish.

For flavor contrast add a bouquet of raw vegetables—carrot sticks, celery, radishes and scallions. A complementary dessert would be hot deep dish apple pie made in a jiffy with canned apple pie filling and pie crust mix. Serve a wedge of sharp cheddar cheese with the pie.

Now...Denture Invention

Replaces messy powders, oozing pastes, reliners

The big difference between natural teeth and dentures is in performance. Natural teeth are held solidly in place by living connective tissue. Without connective tissue, even the most expensive dentures may slip and rock. Gums often get raw and sore. Constant rubbing may cause serious bone damage. Eating can be slow, painful. You speak less clearly. You drive not laugh for fear of dentures dropping.

Now chemists have developed an artificial connective membrane—FIXODENT. It connects dentures with gums and mouth surfaces. It is incredibly effective for both uppers and lowers.

FIXODENT's elastic membrane absorbs the shock of biting and chewing —helps protect gums from bruising and irritation. You eat faster—bite harder, without pain—enjoy your food more. Eat hard-to-chew foods—steaks, fruits, —prevent "denture malnutrition," a problem of older people.

FIXODENT helps you speak easier, faster, more clearly. When dentures slip you hold them in place with tongue and cheek muscles that ache. FIXODENT helps prevent strain.

The special pencil-point dispenser spots FIXODENT with precision—no oozing over. Often lasts "round-the-clock." It even resists hot drinks. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get special FIXODENT at all drug counters.

SKY MARSHALS VS. SKYJACKERS

'I Want to Fly to Cuba'

by Opal Ginn

A pleasant-looking, dark-suited man takes a seat along with 101 other passengers on a jet bound for Miami. He chooses a place on the aisle, puts his hand-baggage under his seat, settles back, looks around and opens a newspaper. His neighbors don't give him a second glance. If they did, they'd probably say he was a company executive on his way to a convention or a resort hotel. But if they could peer into his attaché case, they might be alarmed to find it contains a small arsenal—revolver, handcuffs, blackjack and a device for spraying tear gas.

Actually, there's no cause for alarm. The owner of the case is a "sky marshal," the latest breed of aerial combatant and a representative of the ever-lengthening arm of the law. His primary duty is to prevent a new and frightening form of crime—"skyjacking," the in-flight takeover of planes by desperate or demented men who wish to be flown to unscheduled destinations.

Thankfully, skyjacking is not a common crime, but there have been eight attempted hijackings of U.S. airliners since 1961. Faced with this menace, the Federal Aviation Agency has created a corps of marshals who travel on planes anonymously, ever on the alert for an attempted kidnapping of planes, passengers and crews.

Under federal law, skyjacking is piracy, punishable by sentences of from 20 years to death. So far, no aerial Captain Kidd has been captured by the sky marshals; neither has any flight captain been blindfolded and told to walk the wing. Of the eight skyjacking attempts, three were foiled—not by marshals—and five of the planes were diverted by the pirates to Cuba. In all cases, the passengers were returned to the U.S. unharmed.

The FAA prefers to keep secret the number of sky marshals. The largest concentration is on the East Coast, because of the proximity of Havana. Marshals are assigned to flights at the request of an airline, the FBI, CIA, and other government agencies. They wear civilian clothes, travel in any section of the plane, and keep their weapons under cover.

An Air Force veteran

Sky marshals are regular FAA inspectors who volunteer for their special duty at no extra pay. Typical is Robert T. Barnes, 44, of Liberty, Mo. Married, and the father of a son and daughter, Barnes is an Armed Forces veteran, as are most of his colleagues. He was an Air Force pilot in World War II and the Korean War.

Like the other marshals, Barnes underwent rigorous special training at the Border Patrol Academy, Port Isabel, Tex. He was screened first to make certain he could remain calm in situations of great stress, then trained in the use of firearms, blackjack, pen-type tear-gas guns, as well as judo and karate. Among the marshals are one brown belt and one black belt karate champion.

In an encounter with a skyjacker, the marshal is taught first to try and disarm him. Obviously, this is best done without a gun duel in the cabin aisle. "The safety of the passengers and crew is the primary concern," an FAA official said. As a model of cool and courageous action, marshals learn to emulate the performance of Capt. Kenneth I. Carlisle, pilot of a National Airlines jet on a flight last November from Miami to Key West.

A passenger pulled a pistol, put it to the head of a stewardess and demanded to talk to the pilot. In response to the stewardess' message on the intercom, Capt. Carlisle went into the cabin, chatted with the skyjacker and coaxed him into the cockpit, where he was overpowered and disarmed by the co-pilot and flight engineer.

To assist the marshals, the FAA has adopted a rule requiring that the cockpit doors on all aircraft be kept locked in flight. The rule was intended to keep skyjackers or deranged persons from interfering with the pilot. "But when a passenger has a gun jammed at a stewardess' head," says Charles Warnick, FAA director of information, "and he demands that the pilot open the door, the pilot will open it."

Airliners have also installed a cockpit voice recorder that can make a record of an attempted skyjacking, and serve as an aid in investigations.

The marshals generally are assigned to flights on a random, unannounced basis. But if an airline is suspicious about a certain passenger and flight, it can ask the FAA to assign a sky marshal to the trip. Not long ago, a sky marshal was asked to accompany a Latin American Defense Minister back home, after a visit to the West Coast. A government agency had picked up a rumor that an effort was to be made to skyjack the plane and divert the minister to Cuba. The attempt did not materialize. In top-secret cases, such as this one, not even the crew of the jetliner is told of the marshal's presence.

Blackjack, small tear-gas gun, revolver, headset fit in the marshal's attache case.

On the five occasions when a plane was skyjacked to Cuba, Cubana Airlines has serviced and refueled the plane so that it could return home.

Up to now, Castro's government hasn't searched either passengers or their baggage on diverted planes. Airport personnel merely asked the passengers for identification. But Cuban officials have meticulously searched each aircraft before permitting it to return to the U.S.

Ironically, the only direct contact between the U.S. and Cuba is a sort of sky-jack watch. Air traffic agencies in Havana and Miami are in round-the-clock telephone communications. When a Miami-bound airliner fails to begin its descent and continues in a southerly direction, Miami immediately suspects a skyjacking attempt. Miami alerts the Air Defense Command and Havana traffic control. The skyjacked plane is followed by U.S. interceptor planes until it reaches Cuban waters. At that point, Cuban planes take over escort duty until the plane lands at Havana.

They keep in touch

During the skyjack flight, American flight controllers try to stay in contact with the pilot. But they do not alarm him or press for details. "We don't query the pilot's circumstances," said William Leverett, chief of the Miami Air Traffic Agency. "If he wants to tell us, that's fine. But we don't want to jeopardize his position in any way."

Neither do the sky marshals. That's why cool heads and karate chops are emphasized in their training. As for the passengers, the best advice is to sit tight and don't rock the ship. It's better to land in Havana than not at all.

Some day, somewhere, a sky marshal is bound to come to grips with an air pirate and capture his man. But so far, the sky marshals have no tales of high adventure to tell. They're not complaining, neither are the passengers. No news is good news except to know that when you are most in need of one, a sky marshal may prove to be aboard.

Ever since 1794, generations of gifted craftsmen from the SCHWARZWALD in the mountainous Bavarian area of West Germany have made these delightful Wetterhauschen. For nearly 2 centuries these weather houses have been imitated but never equaled. This ancient woodcrafters' art, jealously guarded, has passed on, down through the years, from father to sons and daughters. Each one is fashioned with quality materials featuring the rich sepia woods of the Black Forest. The parts are put together by hand — piece by piece — with methodical German precision. Now — for a SHORT TIME ONLY — readers of this publication may own this genuine Wetterhauschen at a sensational REDUCED PRICE — cut down way below our reg. price! To get yours at this reduced discount price, please follow special conditions shown in coupon below.

FASCINATING GO-GO ACTION
THRILLS YOUNG & OLD ALIKE

This original "WETTERHAUSCHEN" is an authentic miniature of the tidy little cottages that dot hill and dale in the Black Forest region. In it "live" grumpy Herr Hans and his flaxen haired daughter, Brunhild. When Papa Hans strides out with his diminutive umbrella, be on guard! Rain, snow or sleet may be ahead. But when Brunhild goes for a stroll, be full of cheer! Clear, dry weather and sunny skies lie ahead. These tiny little "people" look so real, they almost seem alive! Their go-go movements are controlled by an ingenious, yet simple mechanism based on the principle of HYGROMETRICS. People in scores of countries 'round the world use these quaint Weather Houses to help foretell weather conditions in their own localities. This genuine Wetterhauschen is sure to thrill you and your friends, year after year.

GET THIS BIG DELUXE SIZE

Please don't confuse this large, deluxe wetterhauschen with the cheap, brittle oriental imitations that sell for under two dollars. This is the genuine, original Wetterhauschen! Truly a product of German artistry and skill. Pictured here is the EXTRA LARGE size. Richly adorned with many little figurines. You'll love the stunning realism and true-to-life coloring. It will lend a touch of exotic beauty to any room. Now readers can get one at an unbelievable low price. See coupon for details of this offer.

Everything's so real looking . . . so perfectly shaped and meticulously put together by those nimble-fingered Bavarian craftsmen. The figurines, flowers, pump, fences, etc. are carefully hand painted. You'd expect to pay a tidy sum for this little art marvel — but now it's yours — direct from the importer — at big savings!

FREE HOME EXAMINATION PERMITTED WITHOUT RISK OR OBLIGATION

We invite you to put this little marvel in your own home on FREE TRIAL — without risking 1c. Compare it! Notice the fine precision detailing . . . the rich hand stained woods . . . the pretty hand painted figurines and flowers! Then operate it an entire week. You must be thrilled and satisfied in every way. Otherwise send it back and get your money refunded by return mail. NOTICE: This is a limited offer, subject to withdrawal without notice. # The British Miracle That Creates SUPER PLANTS IN THE GARDEN...IN THE HOUSE!

Yes! From the greatest gardening nation on earth—England—comes a fantastic discovery! Developed by Britain's leading gardener—winner of the famed Victoria Medal for horticulture! Already used today by OVER THREE MILLION British gardeners! And now released to you—through this advertisement only—to try in your own garden WITHOUT RISKING A PENNY!

Think of it! Here is a gardening development that almost defies belief! It is a CONCENTRATED GROWTH FORMULA, prepared in the form of tiny pellets! It costs only pennies per treatment! And even a child can drop them in the ground in as little as ten seconds.

But once these tiny pellets are placed near the roots of your starved plants, they perform a scientific miracle that has been even wondered about for centuries! They SLOWLY...AUTOMATICALLY feed your plants the life-giving nutrients they need—CONCENTRATED RIGHT AT THE ROOTS OF THESE PLANTS—POURING LIFE-GIVING ENERGY INTO THE VERY HEART OF THOSE PLANTS—DAY AFTER DAY—THROUGH EVERY VITAL STAGE OF THEIR GROWTH!

Just picture this breathtaking scene to yourself. The first result you will notice—almost immediately—is that these amazing English pellets give your plants a tremendous new burst of growth! Whether your plants are new or old, they send out dozens of hidden shoots and buds! Some of your plants may actually DOUBLE in height and breadth in the very first month!

But this is just the beginning! Within one or two short weeks—without you even touching your plants—these amazing pellets AUTOMATICALLY aid your plants in the second vital stages of its growth! Automatically—still more wonder-working nutrients enter into every cell of your plants' bodies—fill those cells with health and strength and sturdiness and wonderful new resistance to disease and pests! Great, tall stems stand up with military precision! Giant buds begin to swell with vigor and vitality! Even tired old shrubs that you had almost given up for lost—begin to straighten out—fatten up—send out the young green growth that you had never hoped to see again!

And then—the most remarkable part of all! When these fantastically beautiful plants have reached their full glorious height and strength, simply drop another Magic Pellet next to them! These tiny English pellets automatically liberate still more wonder-working in-redients! These final concentrated stimulants pour into your roots—carried up through the stems and trunks and branches of your plants—are finally delivered to the great plant flower buds at the top of those plants.

And when those precious ingredients reach those ripe buds—THEN YOU WILL BE BLINDED BY THE EXCESS OF COLOR THAT GREET'S YOU IN YOUR GARDEN!

Flowers So Beautiful You Can Hardly Believe Your Eyes!

Yes! When you follow this Streeter plan, you will walk through that garden as though you were in a dream! You will see rose bushes weighed down by masses of blossoms, of a richness and perfume and color that you have never imagined before! You will walk past solid, blazing rows of chrysanthemums so thick that you can't even see a leaf in between! You will see dahlias, and asters, and geraniums and zinnias so massive, so exquisite, so breathtakingly beautiful that you hardly believe that they are the same plants that you put into the ground. And when your neighbors begin to pour into your yard—when you watch them bend and touch these flowers to see if they are real—THEN YOU WILL KNOW A FEELING OF GARDEN ACCOMPLISHMENT AND PRIDE THAT YOU MAY NEVER HAVE DREAMED OF BEFORE!

Guaranteed For The Full Season!

These Magic English Pellets—called FRED STREETER'S PLANT GROWTH TABLETS—cost only $4.98 for the super-economy size of 300 pellets. Since only a few pellets are required to treat the average plant, this is an investment of only a few pennies a plant for the most astounding beauty you have ever seen!

And these results are completely guaranteed! Here is what we ask you to do, when you receive your Magic Pellets next week!

USE THEM TO CREATE GARDEN CLUB PRIZE WINNING BLOOMS! Your Mums, Roses, Dahlias, Daylilies, Annuals and late blooming Perennials will take on added life and color. Your garden this Fall will be the envy of the neighborhood.

USE THEM TO CREATE SUPER-FLOWERS! Place one tiny pellet beside each of your hydrangeas, zinnias, chrysanthemums, a crocus beside your roses—any kind of flower that you want super-blooms! And if you don't see fantastic new growth within just a few short weeks...if you don't watch with amazement while handfuls of magnificent new blossoms burst forth from those old plants—then simply return empty package for every cent of your money back!

YES! USE THEM IN YOUR ENTIRE GARDEN! Use them on hard-luck plants where you've almost given up hope! Use them on the hardest-to-grow house plants that you know! Yes, even use them in sand, and absolutely astound your friends! And if you don't agree that the white British forenoon is a true gardening miracle—if your garden isn't the showplace of your neighborhood at the end of one short month—then simply return the empty package—for every cent of your money back!

PROVEN IN 250,000 AMERICAN GARDENS

"Enclosed pictures show sun flower eleven feet high, with a twenty-eight inch flower head. I didn't heed your warning about dwarf plants however, and experimented with an indoor Rex Begonia. To my surprise and amazement all of others we used a Rex-Begonia of such monstrous size."

—G.E.F., San Royal, Calif.
"This squash was 7½ inches across, 22½ inches around, and 3½ inches tall. I have never seen such a huge squash before—the results were unbelievable."

—Mrs. D.D.F., Houston, Texas
"Your claims for the Magic English pellets are not exaggerated one bit as far as bulbs, flowering shrubs and roses are concerned. I have not yet tried the pellets on vegetables; but would expect the same results. I was raised in a nursery and have had considerable experience with shrubs and roses. Your product is the best fertilizer I have ever used. It is much more economical than liquid or solid fertilizers now on the market."

—C.A.J., Augusta, Maine.

"Enclosing a snapshot of a cabbage I raised last year with the use of two of your Magic Pellets, and it weighs twelve pounds. My roses, snapdragons, sage, tomatoes, dahlias were the largest and most colorful and beautiful in the block. All the neighbors made a path to my flower garden to see what wonders were being formed and my garden was the topic of this block. I shared the pellets with my friends and their flowers that were almost dead came to life."

—Mrs. S.H.D., Nashville, Tenn.
"My zinnias grew six feet high, the blooms were bigger than ten saucers. I had marigolds bigger than tomatoes, they grew six feet tall; everyone came to see them."

—Mrs. C.M., Carletonville, Ga.
"I never saw anything in my life do so much good. I had the most beautiful roses in town last summer, and my mums were just covered with blooms. I had to pinch them back more than usual but they were the talk of the town—I sold so many."

—Mrs. L.C., St. Charles, Mo.

"Two of my rose bushes died all the way to the crown. I put these pellets around them and now they came back to life and are growing new stems. I also put some pellets around in row of hollies and they grew twice their size in just one season."

—Mrs. F.P., Minneapolis, La.

"I have no garden now and use your tablets only for house plants. My Adonis can violets have been a mass of blossoms for months. The strawberry plant is growing like a weed, and another violet which did nothing for a long time is developing flower buds now."

—A.M.R., Buffalo, N.Y.

"I am five feet two inches and our gladioli towered above me and they were the most beautiful ones I have ever seen, and I know what garden beauty is, because I am from Dorset, England, and before my father's death he won many trophies in flower shows, but my flowers and tomatoes outdid anything I have ever seen after using your tablets."

—Mrs. J.M., Tulsa, Ark.

WARNING

If you are raising dwarf plants, do NOT use these English Pellets on them! These Pellets make plants GROW! Do not use them unless you wish super-blooming king-sized effects. This warning is reproduced on the inside cover of every box!

But Is Your Memory in 4 Short Weeks So Powerful It Is Beyond Your Wildest Dreams Today!

Quite frankly, this is an almost unbelievable advertisement for what has justly been called, "The Most Explosive Memory Course Ever Written."

It is created by Harry Lorayne, the world's greatest memory expert. It is designed for the first time in history to create incredible performance out of normal memories. Performance like this:

Never Forget ANY Name Again As Long As You Live!

First of all, once you finish this revolutionary new memory course, then you will never again forget the name or face of anyone important to you. You will be able to greet that person by his full name—instantly—even if you have not seen him for 5...10...even 30 years. You will be able to ask for his wife and children by name. You will automatically know his position in his company, his most avid interests, even the exact date of his birthday, if you wish to really impress him.

(Let us repeat this fact again: We realize that such a feat of memory is absolutely impossible for you today, but you can realize that it is impossible for you BECAUSE YOU ARE THINKING THE MEMORIZE THIS INFORMATION IN THE WRONG WAY). Once you are shown the right way, the impossible becomes commonplace. And you PRIZE it at our risk!

New let us go on to the other "impossible" feat you can perform:

Memorize An Entire Magazine At A Single Reading!

This is what you actually learn to do: Take any popular magazine of size, 60 or 70 pages. Study it once, performing a simple trick that burns each one of its pages into your memory. (You will not, of course, memorize every word, but you will have enough of a mental photograph of each page to do the following:)

Hand that magazine to a friend—and ask him to call out any pages he wishes, in any order he chooses. And hear him say in disbelief, as you tell him instantly—not only the editorial contents of each page—but the very performances next to them.

You can perform this trick over and over again, but for more important use the dozen of other applications of this same simple "Memory-Photographer" device: Add more new words to your vocabulary in a single weekend than the average person does in a year. Or conduct an entire half-hour speech for nothing at all, in memory in minutes, so that you can deliver it without a flaw.

Or—a whole new world of fun for you—ask any reader, many as ten new jokes the instant you hear them, with no forgetting a single phrase in any one of them, even at such in ten years later!

Carry A Telephone Directory In Your Head!

Now this course teaches you how to turn any number you wish into a picture—and then burn that number-picture into your memory for good.

For example, with this simple technique, you can memorize any telephone number (including the area code) in as little as thirty seconds, and never forget it as long

TAKE THIS SUPER-MEMORY TEST!

Don't pay a cent unless you pass it 100%!

This is vitally important! At its very beginning, this Memory Isometrics Course gives you a special Test designed to show you how inadequate your untrained memory is today. And (2) Show you how incredible powerful it will be, once it is strengthened by these simple tricks.

Here is a brief outline of the test. Notice how impossible each one of these tricks would be for you today:

1. Memorize a twenty-digit number after stating it at only once.
2. Memorize the names and faces of fifteen people instantly.
3. Memorize a list of twenty appointments, in their exact order.
4. Memorize an entire magazine page by page.
5. Memorize an entire deck of cards.

Now, here is our guarantee: We believe that you will fail every one of these tests the first time you try them, before you take this course. But we guarantee that you will pass EVERY ONE OF THEM when you have finished the course—OR EVERY CENT OF YOUR MONEY BACK. This course must perform for you, or it costs you nothing. Why not send in the NO-RISK Coupon—TODAY!

as you need it (even if you carry as many as 100 of them in your head).

Or, if you give this "Photographic-Memory-for-Numbers" a slight twist, you can improve your performance in cards so dramatically that your friends may refuse to play with you for money any longer.

For example, at a bridge game, you can have someone call off cards from a deck hidden to you, and then simply name the number and suit of each of the five missing cards, instantly.

Or you can memorize entire price lists, and flip sale after sale by quoting facts and figures lightning-fast in a customer's office.

Or indelibly impress a new acquaintance by asking him the date of his marriage (let's say it was January 4th, 1921), and then instantly telling him the exact day of the week on which that date occurred.

Become A "Human Computer" Overnight!

Or (and these are all tricks; but they win you astonishing attention and reputation)—for example 850274406763097943—within one minute. Or you can commit in memory all fifty state capitals and their proper populations, and use this stunt to warm up a party.

Or you can take twenty-five people in a room... assign a different six-digit number to each of them... and remember every one of those numbers instantly.

(Again, it sounds impossible; but this last "incredible feat" alone, is actually so easy, that your eight-year-old son can master it in ten minutes, ONCE

HE LEARNS THE SIMPLE TRICK.

With This Revolutionary New Course, YOU PLAY Your Way To A Super-Power Memory.

Once again, to accomplish every one of these feats, you need nothing more than an average memory—PLUS THE SIMPLE TRICKS CONTAINED IN THIS COURSE.

There are TWELVE such "tricks" in this course. Each one is designed to give seemingly super-strength to another vital area of your memory.

For example, one Memory-Booster—which you master in five minutes—enables you to burn entire words into your memory as fast as your eye can read over them. Another destroys the unconscious error that makes you "attention-minded" today. Still another gets rid of embarrassing spelling and pronunciation mistakes at a single glance.

And you automatically master each one of these tricks—not by your reading about it, or studying it—but by LIFTING IT TO USE INSTANTLY. In question-and-answer, Mental-Isometric Exercises, that ACTUALLY BURN IT INTO YOUR MEMORY FOR GOOD!

Once again, if you were to read an ordinary book, it could take you a week to learn to memorize names and faces alone. But with the MEMORY-BOOSTER SHORTCUT given you in this course, you will memorize the names and faces of FIFTEEN STRANGERS—PERFECTLY chatted with the skyjacker and coaxed him into the cockpit, where he was overpowered and disarmed by the co-pilot and flight engineer.

INFORMATION, INCORPORATED • 119 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10003

To assist the marshals, the FAA has adopted a rule requiring that the cockpit doors on all aircraft be kept locked in flight. The rule was intended to keep skyjackers or deranged persons from interfering with the pilot. "But when a passenger has a gun jammed at a stewardess' head," says Charles Warnick, FAA director of information, "and he demands that the pilot open the door, the pilot will open it."

Airliners have also installed a cockpit voice recorder that can make a record of an attempted skyjacking, and serve as an aid in investigations.

The marshals generally are assigned to flights on a random, unannounced basis. But if an airline is suspicious about a certain passenger and flight, it can ask the FAA to assign a sky marshal to the trip. Not long ago, a sky marshal was asked to accompany a Latin American Defense Minister back home, after a visit to the West Coast. A government agency had picked up a rumor that an effort was to be made to skyjack the plane and divert the minister to Cuba. The attempt did not materialize. In top-secret cases, such as this one, not even the crew of the jetliner is told of the marshal's presence.

Blackjack, small tear-gas gun, revolver, headset fit in the marshal's attache case.

On the five occasions when a plane was skyjacked to Cuba, Cubana Airlines has serviced and refueled the plane so that it could return home.

Up to now, Castro's government hasn't searched either passengers or their baggage on diverted planes. Airport personnel merely asked the passengers for identification. But Cuban officials have meticulously searched each aircraft before permitting it to return to the U.S.

Ironically, the only direct contact between the U.S. and Cuba is a sort of sky-jack watch. Air traffic agencies in Havana and Miami are in round-the-clock telephone communications. When a Miami-bound airliner fails to begin its descent and continues in a southerly direction, Miami immediately suspects a skyjacking attempt. Miami alerts the Air Defense Command and Havana traffic control. The skyjacked plane is followed by U.S. interceptor planes until it reaches Cuban waters. At that point, Cuban planes take over escort duty until the plane lands at Havana.

They keep in touch

During the skyjack flight, American flight controllers try to stay in contact with the pilot. But they do not alarm him or press for details. "We don't query the pilot's circumstances," said William Leverett, chief of the Miami Air Traffic Agency. "If he wants to tell us, that's fine. But we don't want to jeopardize his position in any way."

Neither do the sky marshals. That's why cool heads and karate chops are emphasized in their training. As for the passengers, the best advice is to sit tight and don't rock the ship. It's better to land in Havana than not at all.

Some day, somewhere, a sky marshal is bound to come to grips with an air pirate and capture his man. But so far, the sky marshals have no tales of high adventure to tell. They're not complaining, neither are the passengers. No news is good news except to know that when you are most in need of one, a sky marshal may prove to be aboard.

We can't change the shape of your foot.

So we changed the shape of our boot.

"Why fight feet?" we asked ourselves.

They'll never change.

Your feet will always have five toes each and soles that are contoured, not flat.

So we changed the shape of our boots. And made them the shape of your feet.

We designed the amazing new Wolverine Foothold contour insole. It gives you the comfort you want when you're on your feet a lot.

And according to the thousands of satisfied wearers, from farmers and construction workers to lovers of the great outdoors, Wolverine boots with the Foothold contour insole are the most comfortable they've ever worn.

The Foothold contour insole cradles the back of your foot with firm, comfortable support. The arch is shaped like an arch. The ball is contoured with just a hint of gentle support. And the forepart is designed for more natural toe freedom.

All this means less foot fatigue. And much more comfort.

You can get the Wolverine Foothold contour insole in 6" and 8" boots, brown and black oxfords, even golf shoes. They're durable, lightweight, water repellent, made of soft, top quality leathers, and have steel shank support.

Now the next time you've got your boots on, ask yourself what shape they're in. The shape of your feet? Or the shape of boots? And if the answer is what we think it will be, walk right in to your nearest Wolverine Dealer (write us if you don't know where yours is) and step inside a pair of Wolverine boots with the Foothold contour insole.

Your feet, too, will find that our change is as good as a rest.

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF VOLUME OF MAIL, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

ABOUT LAWYERS Although minority groups make up 12% to 15% of the American population, this ratio is not matched in the legal profession. There are about 315,000 lawyers in the United States, of whom some 4000 are Negroes and only eight are American Indians.

To remedy this deficiency, the American Bar Association is offering a program of free law educations for members of minority groups. The program, also sponsored by the Association of American Law Schools and the all-Negro National Bar Association, is prepared to grant each accepted minority-group candidate $2000 a year in living expenses, plus tuition estimated to average $1900 annually.

TAKE CARE Cortisone-steroid drugs administered in the form of eyedrops can cause serious eye disorders. Persons suffering from common "red eye" or eye inflammations of any type should not medicate themselves with steroid eyedrops they happen to have at home. So warns The Medical Letter, a fortnightly publication which critically evaluates drugs for 35,000 physicians and scientists.

Cortisone-steroid drugs have been found to cause or aggravate inflammation or infections of the eyes, cataracts, and glaucoma.

COLE BIOGRAPHY Maria Cole, widow of the famous pop singer Nat King Cole, has begun his biography. Already film offers from three major studios have been received. "The way I envision the film," says Mrs. Cole, "is that it would be similar to The Jolson Story. Nat's voice would be used on the soundtrack and some actor would play his life. Of course, Sidney Poitier has already been suggested for the part, but he's an old family friend. He has more offers than time. I guess someone else will have to do it. But first I've got to finish the book."

Mrs. Cole has her own TV program on a local Los Angeles TV station. It's one of those daily three-hour daytime talkathons.

SUPER DOG

The Canine Behavior Laboratory at the University of Maryland is providing the U.S. Army with evaluation data on a super dog.

The services are anxious to develop a scout dog of top intelligence, stamina, and obedience. At the moment the Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Tex., provides the service arms with 3000 German shepherds per year, many of which are shipped to Vietnam for scout and sentry duty.

What the Defense Department wants to know, however, is whether a better breed of dog than the German shepherd can be developed for future military duty.

At College Park, Md., 125 dogs of five different breeds are subjected daily to a variety of mental and physical tests, designed to evaluate their virtues and faults. Currently being tested are the German shepherd, the standard poodle (both extremely intelligent), a cross between a foxhound and a Labrador retriever, a straight Labrador retriever, and a cross between the German shepherd and the collie.

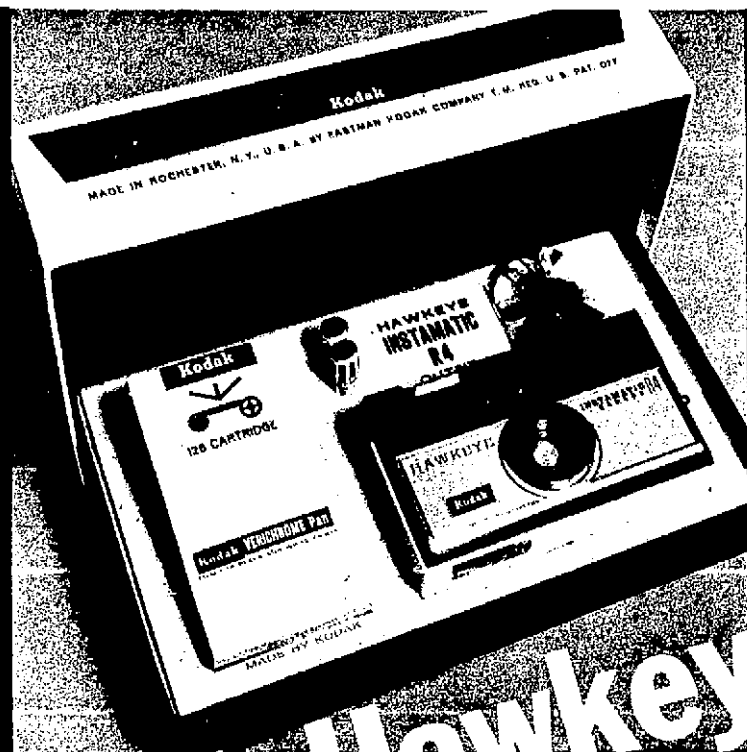

The science of behavior genetics is most complex, and according to Dr. Hank Davis of the Canine Behavior Laboratory, "What we are doing here is not breeding dogs for the Army but evaluating the various breeds. We are compiling data on which we hope the Defense Department will eventually make its best judgment."

The Defense Department currently pays $150 for each German shepherd accepted for training at Lackland Air Force Base. Every dog undergoes a rigorous physical exam, complete with X-rays, before it is accepted. Those rejected dogs classified 4F are sent back to their owners. In a sentence, the government pays nothing for nothing.

THE LAST BATTLE At the end of World War II, Alfried Krupp, proprietor of the Krupp munitions combine, one of Germany's largest industrial empires, was arrested by the victorious Allies. He was tried and sentenced at Nuremberg to 12 years in prison for looting and employing slave labor. The court ordered that Krupp's fortune be confiscated and that he serve his sentence in Landsberg, the Bavarian prison which once housed Adolf Hitler.

Four years later, John McCloy, the U.S. High Commissioner in Germany, ordered Krupp released and most of his property returned, providing that his vital coal and steel holdings be disposed of by Jan. 1, 1959.

By 1959, however, Krupp's iron and steel empire was worth at least $500 million, and the German government began pressuring the Allied commission -- which still consists today of one representative each from the U.S., Great Britain, and France, plus a Swiss banker and three West Germans -- that such a sale would disrupt the German economy.

The late Chancellor Konrad Adenauer also joined in the pressure, convincing the Americans to forget about breaking up the Krupp cartel.

Last year Alfried Krupp died, and his holdings, with government help, were incorporated into the Krupp Foundation. The Germans now insist that there is no point in breaking up the Krupp coal and steel empire, implying, of course, that one day in the future these resources might well be needed to manufacture munitions for use against the Soviet Reds. The Allied commission is at this time disposed to accept their argument, fulfilling the prophecy of skeptics who 20 years ago predicted that the Krupp industrial empire would never be dismantled.

GOING STRONG ON TV: "THE CAROL BURNETT SHOW."

MOVIES AND VARIETY

It is no secret to the U.S. television-viewer that his TV set has now become a second-run movie house, that the TV networks will telecast 14 hours of feature movies next season.

What he doesn't realize, however, is that the second most popular TV staple next season will be the variety show, with 13 hours dedicated to such programs as Jonathan Winters, Rowan & Martin, Smothers Brothers, Jackie Gleason, Dean Martin, Lawrence Welk, Red Skelton, Hollywood Palace, Jerry Lewis, Carol Burnett, Kraft Music Hall, etc.

Because business hasn't been too good for them recently, most of the advertisers who support TV are not willing to experiment with any new, challenging, or experimental programs in the upcoming fall season. Their policy is to play it safe, let someone else pay for the experiments.

My Favorite Jokes

by Eddie Rich

EDITOR'S NOTE: Eddie Rich, 37, Chicago-born and Miami-reared, has often been compared, for obvious reasons, to Jackie Gleason. His impressions of "The Poor Soul," "Reggie Van Gleason III," and "Ralph Kramden," all Gleason characterizations, are sure crowd-pleasers.

Like other comedians, Rich doubled in numerous odd jobs during the day while experimenting at night in small clubs with his comedy routines.

When Eddie was drafted into the Army, he was assigned to Special Services where he developed his versatility as a performer, telling jokes, playing the drums and bass fiddle.

After military service he returned to Chicago where he was booked into summer resorts in Wisconsin, Michigan, and Indiana. It was in one of these resorts he met and married his wife. They and their children now live in Peterson Park, a suburb of Chicago.

In the past five years Eddie has played such spots as the Chase Hotel in St. Louis, the Thunderbird in Las Vegas, the Executive Inn in Dallas, the 5 O'clock Club in Miami Beach, and many others.

Herewith his favorite jokes:

I just figured out why women live longer than men. They don't have a wife to put up with.

Let's face it—only one perfect man ever existed—the guy your wife could have married.

Did you ever stop to think? Most of us choose our wives in light we'd never think of buying a suit in.

I never realized how fat I was until last night. I had to go through a revolving door in two trips.

So this space ship lands. The pilot gets out and sees the top of an apartment building covered with TV antennas, and yells: "Hey you kids, get offa that roof."

No one is ever satisfied. Poor men wish they were rich; rich men wish they were handsome; bachelors wish they were married; and married men wish they were dead.

You think you got troubles. I know an astronaut who got on a scale, and his fortune read: "Beware of long trips."

Watch for me on TV. I'm in a mystery story about a 300-pound man trying to get into a Volkswagen. It's called "Mission Impossible."
